Hankin Heads College Paper For New Term

Plans for TICKER Dinner Also Revealed at Association Meeting

Leonard J. Hankin, was recently elected editor-in-chief of The Ticker at a meeting of the Ticker Association on May 29. Hankin, who will assume his duties at the fall, has served on The Ticker for the past three years and is the present managing editor. He is unopposed.

In an effort to start a precedent, the Ticker Association revealed that the staff for the first annual dinner on Saturday evening, June 13, at the Hotel Wellington on South Avenue, Alfred M. Stein, chairman of the affair, said that all members of the Ticker staff and alumni of the Ticker had been invited.

In a discussion of the general editorial policy of The Ticker, the association advised the editors to choose the type of the articles printed and of the competition.

The Ticker, one of the two campus newspapers, is a weekly publication of the University of New York. It is the official organ of the University and is published every Thursday.

Boat Ride Gives Council a Profit; Part to Maybruck

The Boat Ride Committee reports a profit of approximately $125.50, after expenses, which will be paid to Mr. Maybruck, underwriter of the Boat Ride Committee.

Charles Maybruck, 33, chairman of the Committee, said that the payment of $125.50 will be made to Mr. Maybruck, underwriter of the Boat Ride Committee.

The Council also reconsidered the question of freshmen and sophomore policies and decided to allow freshmen in the Boat Ride Committee to wear lacrosse and baseball uniforms.

The expenses of the Boat Ride Committee will be paid by a $3.00 appropriation.

30,000 Paraders Protest All Wars in May 30 March

While armies marched and bands blared, and while jingoism was being whipped up, 30,000 young people gathered for peace and freedom in May 30 Bird. The parade was struck when the vast crowd of students, who had filled the streets with their voices, marched past the following street, in the following order: The Ticker, a student newspaper, the Daily News, and the Daily News, a student newspaper, the Daily News, and the Daily News, a student newspaper, the Daily News, and the Daily News, a student newspaper.

Angelo Hernandez, senior, connected with the Georgia gang, was among the marchers. Teachers in the front ranks of the American League of Students, one of the leading student groups, marched behind the banner. Other university groups which took part were Columbia, Harvard, and the city high schools.

The parade, which started at Second Avenue and Eleventh Street, has been held in the city for the past three years. The parade is sponsored by the American League of Students, which was organized in 1935, and is a part of the activities of the American League of Students.

The American League of Students is the successor to the American League of Students, which was organized in 1935, and is a part of the activities of the American League of Students. College Band
Expects Split
With R.O.T.C.

Dr. Catterson, Band Director, Says Separation...

A meeting was arranged between the College Band and the R.O.T.C. organizations to negotiate terms of a split. The meeting was held in the Music Department on Tuesday, when Dr. Catterson, Band Director, and the R.O.T.C. officers conferred on the matter. It was decided that the band would continue its present schedule and activities.

The movement to separate the band from the R.O.T.C. will be put into effect immediately. The band will now be under the direct control of Dr. Catterson and will be responsible to him for all band activities.

The band will continue to give concerts and perform at various events as scheduled by Dr. Catterson.

The R.O.T.C. officers have agreed to cooperate with the Band in all future activities.

The band has been closely connected with the R.O.T.C. in the past, but it is now felt that it is in the best interests of both organizations to have a separate administration.
