CALL LEGISLATIVE CONFERENCE

1000 Attend Rally To Save Harris High

Waving placards and clamorously applauding speakers who urged retention of the school, more than 1000 Townsend Harris students packed the auditorium Friday in a "Save Harris" demonstration.

Mr. Joseph Schlosberg, member of the Board of Higher Education, assured the students that the Board will "take no action without proper consideration of the case" but stated that while he approved of the meeting it did not give him the right to discuss the question before the Board had considered it.

Characterizing the abolition proposal as "utterly ridiculous," President Gilbert Goodkind of the Townsend Harris Alumni Association and assistant to Borough President Stanislav Lieines of Manhattan, read a message from Mr. James B. McCreary in which he expressed his regrets at not being able to present and endorsed the purpose of the meeting.

Declaring that she was "one of the staunchest advocates of Harris on the Board," Mrs. Carolee Coyle stated that the real solution of the Harris problem would be to temporarily close the school to one of the many empty buildings in the city and subsequently erect a modern building with the latest equipment for both academic work and extra-curricular activities.

Cooperative Lunch Group Successful

Having evolved a plan which enables House Plan members to eat a full meal for only fifteen cents, the Co-operative Lunch Group staff and the HP building has declared that the first group of students have proved successful. The group is composed of several college students who are operating on a non-profit basis.

At present meals are served Monday through Thursday, from 12 to 1 p.m.

Persons interested in the plan are requested to get in touch with Theodore Neiman, chairman of the group.

Suskin Takes Club; Be off for Vice-President

Hal Suskin and Stan Wasser were elected President and Secretary, respectively, and John Forti was treasurer at the elections held Friday. Miss Terrace, head of the hygiene department, declared that henceforth the hygiene department would have nothing to do with the arrangements of the regular dances, and that the other organizations in charge of the traffic department would be responsible for the boys' behavior.

The shouts attending the announcement of the names of the newly elected president and vice-president of the Frosh class had barely died down in Frosh Chapel when those two officers arose and proceeded to their three word farewell, "Acrony of horrors." Were they going to make speeches? No. They merely expressed remorse from the room by a warming hour of horsemanship and then moved back towards the board to retrieve their "partners". The atmosphere of the hour was such that the students on the floor were more than happy to accept their new "partners".

In less time than it takes to tell, "les misérables" were directing traffic on 33rd Street and Lexington Avenue. Vice-President Charles Sigety's bright "sharpies" were almost as source of attraction as the men in the "scarlet" of President John Levine.

Crowds of curious onlookers gathered, but the third of the classes had not been fully satisfied. The call of the frosh, class was to join hands and simply skip down the street to Fourth Avenue and line up for photographs. Not until the breeze filled the hall did the arm of the law, who half-blinded by Charles' "sharpies", manage to utter a brusque "Move it!" They needed little urging and promptly did so.

Calling upon the students of City College who have both the responsibility and the opportunity to preserve our democracy together to ensure that legislation protecting human rights and fulfills human needs is enacted," the Student Council voted last week to hold a joint day and evening session-Conferece for Civic Administration and Legislative Action. The conference will be held at the College Friday and Saturday afternoon.

Nelson P. Mead, President of the City College, will act as Honorary President of the Conference. The meeting may be a truly representative one in addition to depleting the students of each class and department.

Committee To Act On Arm Case

To determine the merits of the suspensions of Mr. Sigmund Arm, dismissed government tutor, the Board of Higher Education last week set up a special committee to decide on the possibility of reconsidering the case. This is the fourth time that the Board has acted on the matter.

It is believed that Professor Proctor, who is reviewing the resolution setting up the committee, will be named chairman and that public hearings will be held soon.

The City College Administration Committee recommended Mr. Arm's reappointment. The Board then overruled the Committee and dismissed the tutor.

Accounting Society

In place of its regular meeting, the Accounting Society will hold a luncheon Thursday at the Red Currant Restaurant, 122 East 22nd Street, at 12:30 p.m. Tickets are fifty cents each and may be purchased from the Accounting Society office or English Library.
Spivak Shows Nazi Methods In Recently Released Book

To those who still have doubts about Nazi techniques, an essay by Lewis Spivak will help clear them up. "Reconstruction and Enterprise," the title of the essay, is the latest book released by Spivak. The essay, which was originally published in the New York Times, is now available in book form. Spivak, a former Nazi sympathizer, has turned his thoughts to the reconstruction of the Third Reich. His essay is a detailed analysis of the Nazi's methods of control and manipulation, and it makes for a fascinating read.

Women of City College want you to know that our forerunners died in vain! Whence the labors of Susan B. Anthony and Lucretia Mott? If in a progressive era and in an equally progressive school we are not willing to waste the gifts of the younger generation, who are the sons of the sophomores, the present generation, the sophomores, do you not feel the pangs of your conscience? Do you not feel as one with Lucifer when you see the prestige of the school, which it has justly acquired, lost in the public esteem? The most important event of the season, the Sophomore, is there no disparity between the acts of our noble alma mater?

NYA Fund Raised

Says Bryngelsen

Surpassing all previous allocations of funds for the NYA, this term's quota of positions available to needy students has been increased to 200, according to an announcement issued Friday.

Dr. Groce, former chairman of the NYA Committee, has been replaced by Mr. Byngelson of the accounting department. The new chairman stated that this move be has not, however, solved the entire problem, as many of the applicants have been rejected. The NYA committee, which has been asked to help every student applying for employment, has been requested that soon, appropriations will be made to care for every student who has not yet applied for employment.

Levine, Sigey, Lipshitz Elected Fresh Officers

In a close three-man race, James Levine was elected President, Charles Sigety was elected Vice-Pres., and Ronald Lipshitz was elected Secretary. All three students have been elected for the third time.

The NYA committee is working on a plan to meet the demands of the students for more positions and better working conditions.

TO DRESS WELL

THAT'S THE QUESTION!

And to dress well means not only "new" clothes — but also clothes of latest fashion — smartly designed and well-tailored.
