THOMAS SEES Democracy
in Peace

"If you can keep America out of war you may save democracy in one country and build it up. Unless you do this you will not have democracy," said Norman Thomas speaking before the Youth Committee Against War.

Mr. Thomas attacked the idea that if there is a war in Europe it will be a holy war for democracy and will stop aggression. He went on to state that Britain and France do not function as democracies but rather as empires acting according to national interest. He pointed out, in this respect, that Britain's actions in Palestine and the Treaty of Versailles, the injustices of which would only be repeated in the event of another war.

Fascism, Mr. Thomas grew out of the mistakes of democracies in world and domestic policies. It is not a product of the decline of the British genius to be stopped by collective security, but arises rather out of national discussion. The job for America is to keep out of war and solve its domestic problems, he stated.

White Paper Denounced by Speakers at Protest Rally

By Jane W. Popper

Intensification of protest against the British White Paper, a document which it is said will relegate the Jews to a permanent minority basis, was urged by all speakers at the White Paper protest meeting held last week in the auditorium of the American National Jewish Fund, strongly denounced England's action.

Condemning it as a move against a people which has been integral to the history of the world, Israel Goldstein, chairman of the American National Jewish Fund, pointed out that it would place Jews on a definitely subordinate basis to Arabs.

Dr. Dean J. Moore, who made the opening speech, traced the history of the Jews, showing how they had always looked upon Palestine as their original and ultimate homeland. He cited the work of settlers in cultivating the land, in building, and in introducing modern sanitation.

"Let us hope," the dean concluded, "that a great voice of protest will rise all over this great country, which will make Great Britain give up its claim to the Jews in Palestine, which anybody with any common sense recognizes as their right."

With only a few minutes to speak, Professor Bernard Ostrofe, aUBA Theological School, spoke from the British document to show that since there is no economic objection to the admittance of Jewish immigration in Palestine, the grounds upon which Great Britain's paper is based must be political.

In casting England's action, both Dean Moore and Dr. Goldstein referred to the Munich pact. Dr. Goldstein said: "If there are gradations in honor, mine might not be as far away as that England is more anxious for Palestine, which places an artificial restriction on Jewish immigration in Palestine, since the grounds upon which Great Britain's paper is based must be political.
