City College's Pauline Edwards Theater, located in the quiet corner of the campus next to the Student Union, was the setting for the opening of the musical "The Fire Fantasy." The new production, directed by Professor William承包, featured a cast of students and professionals, including several members of the Piano Society, who played the music for the show.

The plot of "The Fire Fantasy" follows the story of a young woman who dreams of becoming a famous actress. However, she must first overcome her fear of the spotlight and learn to overcome the obstacles in her way. The musical features a variety of numbers, from traditional jazz songs to modern pop hits, all performed with passion and energy by the talented cast.

The set design was simple yet effective, with a large fireplace serving as the centerpiece of the stage. Costumes were colorful and varied, with each character having their own distinct look that added to the overall atmosphere of the production.

The audience was captivated by the performances, clapping and cheering throughout the show. The enthusiastic energy of the cast was infectious, and the audience couldn't help but be drawn into the world of the musical. "The Fire Fantasy" is a must-see production for theater lovers of all ages.
Seniors Poll Student Opinions At Met Colleges

Compare Satisfaction At City, NYU And Columbia

By MICKY BARNOWICH and SELMA BRENNER

A term begins when a course in Public Opinion given by Dr. Norman J. M. Ostritz begins. The term is only one of the factors that make up the overall college experience. The other factors include the academic subjects, the facilities, the recreational activities and the neighborhood where the college is located. The results of this study show that City College students are more satisfied with their college than students at NYU or Columbia.

City College students were more satisfied with the academic subjects than students at NYU or Columbia. The majority of City College students expressed satisfaction with the quality of the instruction and the curriculum. Students at NYU and Columbia were more likely to be dissatisfied with the academic subjects.

City College students were more satisfied with the facilities than students at NYU or Columbia. The majority of City College students reported that the facilities were adequate for their needs. Students at NYU and Columbia were more likely to be dissatisfied with the facilities.

City College students were more satisfied with the recreational activities than students at NYU or Columbia. The majority of City College students reported that there were a variety of recreational activities available to them. Students at NYU and Columbia were more likely to be dissatisfied with the recreational activities.

City College students were more satisfied with the neighborhood where the college is located than students at NYU or Columbia. The majority of City College students reported that they felt safe and comfortable in the neighborhood. Students at NYU and Columbia were more likely to be dissatisfied with the neighborhood.

City College students were more satisfied with the overall college experience than students at NYU or Columbia. The majority of City College students reported that they enjoyed their college experience.

NYU students were more satisfied with the academic subjects, facilities and recreational activities than students at City College. However, NYU students were more dissatisfied with the neighborhood where the college is located than students at City College.

Columbia students were more satisfied with the academic subjects and facilities than students at City College. However, Columbia students were more dissatisfied with the recreational activities and the neighborhood where the college is located than students at City College.

In summary, City College students were more satisfied with their college than students at NYU or Columbia. However, each college has its own strengths and weaknesses, and students should consider these factors when choosing a college.
Attention '49! Hazing Begins

By RONA COBIN

Let's all refresh...Have a Coca-Cola

Student Opinion Poll

(Continued from page 2)

Five faculty men out of nine do not like the facilities, two do like the large size of the student body and two thought the curriculum was poorly integrated. Other dislikes were the location of the faculty and the slow advancement in rank. Unlike the choice of the students, the faculty thought that the most important reason for going to college was to prepare for an act in community life.

It is easily seen that the nine faculty members attached more importance to liberal arts training than did the students. No one of the nine thought that required liberal arts should be less than 50% of the credits. In fact, all would increase the percentage requirement.

Number of Times Mentions

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Likes</th>
<th>Dislikes</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Ability</td>
<td>4</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Alertness</td>
<td>1</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Select group</td>
<td>2</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Less subject to 'isms'</td>
<td>1</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Personal Characteristics</td>
<td>7</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
| Rugy | 1 | "Our curiosity quenched, we know that City College is typical of other colleges, and that most of their students believe...

SAA Scholarships

To give financial aid to undergraduate students, City College has, for the first time, a Student Aid Program. Scholarship aid is provided for the following:

- Tasty Snacks
- Swell Sandwiches
- Healthful Suppers
- Fast Service

KELLOGG'S

100 East 23rd Street