Cafeteria Calamity—It Will Not Improve By Itself

Everyone seems to agree that the cafeteria is filthy, but no one does anything about it. In the past there have been complaints, but never any management action. The teachers and students are sick of it and are tired of it. If they really wanted to change something, they could do it themselves. But they seem to be resigned to the fact that it will never improve unless someone else does it.

THE LICKER

Causes of Schoolyard Accidents

In an attempt to reduce the number of accidents on the schoolyard, the principal has introduced a new policy. All students are now required to wear a special armband to designate their authority. The duties of this armband are to ensure that the students are in their designated areas, that they are not engaging in inappropriate behavior, and that they are not wasting time. The success of the plan depends upon the cooperation of both the faculty and the students. The armband is to be used by all, at all times, and in all places.

The sickeningly sweet smell of candy is now replaced by the sour stench of armbands. Many students have complained that the armbands are uncomfortable and that they interfere with their ability to function normally. However, the principal remains firm in his belief that the armbands are necessary for the safety of the students. He has assured the students that they will be removed as soon as possible.

It's Your Opinion —

by Martin Frishberg

Two and a half years after the end of World War II, 60% of students polled last week by The Ticker said that they think the United States will be at war within 25 years. It is truly remarkable, only 18% think that the United States will not be at war within that period and 19% marked “No opinion.” These results are similar to those in a poll asking 10,000 teen-agers about the same question. This feeling that war may come is a fear we share with the rest of the country, for recent Fortune polls have indicated that “the last year has been marked by a rapid decline in the hopes of the American people for a lasting peace.”

One closely-connected issue to which Student Council has devoted much of its energies in recent weeks is the issue of universal military training. Two questions are involved. Should Council take a stand on UMT and if it does, take a stand, should it be for or against UMT? Student Council, recognizing its obligation to suit the student body, is taking a poll this week to guide it in its decision.

Meanwhile, however, The Ticker has taken its own poll on these questions. The results are as follows:

- Do you favor or oppose giving every able-bodied young man some military training? Favoir 69%, Against 31%. No opinion 10%.
- Do you think Student Council should take a stand for or against a program to give some military training to every able-bodied young man? SC should take a stand against such a program 69%, for 28%, No opinion 10%.
- SC should take a stand against such a program 100%, No opinion 20%, SC should not take a stand 42%.
