City College Ranks Fourth in Nationwide Enrollment

In a nationwide estimate conducted by Commissioner of Education Samuel M. Brownell, the City College of New York ranked fourth with an all-time enrollment peak of 3,454 and the State University of New York placed second with 3,291. These two institutions which include schools throughout the state, New York University third.

The Commissioner stated that 3,388 colleges were included in the survey. Men numbered 54,000 and women 525,000.

As of Fall 1955, this was the fourth consecutive year recorded for an enrollment increase. The total of 8.8 percent more than the previous high of 2,500,000 was the Fall of 1954 averaged a numerical increase of 221,000 graduates.

Miss Agnes C. Mulligan, registrar, announced that there was been a slight drop in the registration figures for this semester. With about 200 students graduating in January, and 40 entering in June, the total registration figures will put under the 3,000 mark.

The said that while the School unfortunately accommodates approximately 5,400 students, the student population is 3,000. This results because classes to specialists need more students than are available.

This semester's classes in the minimum population is 3000. This was third.

The list of complaints was so large, that the School's public relations field will have to be cancelled because of the drop enrollment.

Great and Goodness

In the past, the S.A. has been criticized for not being able to accommodate the large number of students. But now, the Student Council has taken action.

The list of complaints was so large, that the School's public relations field will have to be cancelled because of the drop enrollment.

The book drive has been so successful, that the Student Council has decided to continue it for another semester.

Sigma Alpha, in cooperation with the Asia Foundation is sponsoring a book drive for needy college students in Asia. This semester, the average Asian student has a budget allowance of $11 per month to cover all living expenses, tuition, and books costs. There is a great need to provide these needy students with free textbooks to counteract the easily obtainable, cheap Communist textbooks.

This Communist literature is flooding Asia. It greatly tends to distort the objectives of the free world, and put the Communists in a favorable light.

The type of books needed most by the Asian students are: anthropology, art, business, classical and non-classical literature, comparative religion, education, economics, history, law, philosophy, psychology, social sciences, sociology, and mathematics. It has been requested that the books be in good condition and easily useful.

The donation of books in the categories listed will fill a great need, and preserve the ideals of democratic freedom.

Books will be collected at the Alpha Phi Omicron's Book Exchange, the Sigma Alpha Office, 911C, and the ninth floor Book Exchange, the Sigma Alpha Office, 911C, and the ninth floor.

New S.A. Officers for the semester as follows: Chancellor, Harry Shainin; Vice-Chancellor, Mike S. Santangelo; Treasurer, Devi Rohin; Editor, Al Anastas.

Benson Proposal No Hope—Baruch

* In a personal article submitted to the Script-Whore department, the Benson proposal was criticized by President's Platform editor, Harry Schonfeld. It stated that "no one should be permitted to establish normal buyer-seller relations in the markets which is what farmers need most.

The trade of Baruch's program lies in the concept of those farm employees in new and old and small facilities to rid the market of this extra-material and to assure a 'normal price for future arrangements.' He explained that "private interests might protect the fear of government interference."
Princeton Prexy Urges Flexibility For Colleges

On Wednesday at 10:00 a.m., President Harold W. Dodds, head of Princeton University, will address the Board of Trustees on the topic of "Responsible Flexibility in the Educational Process." This is one of the most important issues facing American colleges today. The meeting will be held in the city's Board of Education building.

Dr. Dodds, who was appointed as Princeton's 21st President in 1953, has been a key figure in the development of modern higher education. He has been instrumental in the creation of many of the college's most important programs, including the establishment of the Princeton University Press and the founding of the Princeton University School of Engineering.

Last week, Dr. Dodds spoke at a conference on "The Future of Higher Education," where he discussed the need for colleges to be more flexible in their approach to teaching and learning. He emphasized the importance of providing students with a wide range of courses and programs, and urged colleges to be more responsive to the needs of their students.

The meeting on Wednesday will be attended by the college's Board of Trustees, which is responsible for overseeing the college's policies and programs. The meeting will also be attended by a number of other important members of the college community, including the college's faculty, staff, and students.

Dr. Dodds is expected to discuss a wide range of issues, including the need for colleges to be more responsive to the needs of their students, the importance of providing students with a wide range of courses and programs, and the need for colleges to be more flexible in their approach to teaching and learning.

The meeting will be held in the city's Board of Education building, and will be open to the public. The meeting will begin at 10:00 a.m., and is expected to last for approximately two hours. The meeting will be followed by a luncheon for the college's Board of Trustees and other important members of the college community.

The meeting on Wednesday will be a key event in the development of modern higher education, and is expected to be attended by a large number of important members of the college community. The meeting will be a chance for Dr. Dodds to discuss the important issues facing American colleges today, and to provide leadership for the college's efforts to meet the challenges of the future.
Birth of Revolving Doors Going Through Labor Pains

By Helen Schuman

Revolutions in the Baruch School will be on the upswing in about a month — both in the classroom and in the dorms.

The birth of the spinning door, now in the labor stage, is expected to bring about a much-needed improvement in the periodical ejection of students.

The door is expected to open and close suddenly, causing the frequent ejection of students from the area.

However, the pressmen outside the door say that they will not be able to stay long enough to see the door in action.

The revolving doors are to be installed in all the dorms within the next few weeks.

City Loses Eighth:

Rider’s ‘Hotshots’ Trounce Beaver Basketeers, 96-66

Did you ever have a night where, no matter what you did, it just wasn’t good enough? The Beavers did and it’s one evening they’d be happier forgetting about.

And it happened out at Trenton, New Jersey, as Rider College, sinking a phenomenal 52% of their shots, romped over City College, 96-66. The defeat was the Lavender’s eighth in ten games and their third in a row.

Rider, making a total of 40 field goals out of 77 attempts was sparked by Ron Anderson, their 6-4 freshman center, who connected for 7 out of 9 and Richie Krol, who made 10 of 19.

The Beavers, on the other hand, were not quite as hot-handled as the Jerseyites, hitting only 33% of their shots from the floor. George Jensen, who has for the past three games been playing way under par, scored only one basket in seven attempts. The Beavers didn’t have much of a night. Carter was 9-14, but City saluted by Ron Anderson, 7-11.

The Beavers suffered their seventh loss of the season against Wagner, College, Saturday, January 28, in Wingate Hall, by a score of 85-72. City played superb half for one half, and led at intermission, 33-34. They then proceeded into the second half in which they completely fell apart.

Half-time score: CCNY 30. Rider 43.

City Loses Eighth: Sorber and Taylor Star

What more can you expect? Competing at the New England Association of the Amateur Athletic Union Championship, the City College matmen annexed the team championship the first time they ever took part in the festivities. The meet took place at the Boston YMCA, Saturday, January 28.

Brown University, one of the many New England colleges competing, garnered second place honors, while Boston University finished third.

The Beavers were led to victory by Sal Sorbera and Al Taylor, who wrestled at the 125 and 138 pound levels, respectively. Second places were won for City by Sam Berkowitz and Bernie Woods. Ronnie Reis took a third place while Leon Goldsberg also took home a trophy, finishing fourth.

Coach Joe Saperia stated, “We’re really on our way now. We needed this win to put us back on our feet. Our losing record doesn’t tell how good our team really is because all of our three losses were very close decisions.”

Beaver Wrestlers Capture New England First Place, Sorbera and Taylor Star

The record of the grapplers now stands at one win and three losses. The next home match against Brooklyn Polytechnic Institute, at the Upton gymnasium Saturday.

Beaver Fencers Subdue Yale

In defeating Yale, 15-12, and losing to Princeton, 17-10, the City College fencing team brought their season’s record to a 2 and 3 mark, which, according to fencing coach Edward Lucia, is relatively commendable.

“The team was hurt by the graduation of the entire foil squad,” explained Lucia, “and considering that five out of the nine men on my present squad are fencing regularly for the first time this season, I think we are doing pretty well. The future also looks very bright due to the large freshman turnout.”

In the meet against Yale, which took place Saturday, January 28, in Wingate Hall, the Beavers won the foil and saber events, each by a 6-3 margin, but lost the épée event, 6-9.

City took an early 3-2 lead in the Princeton encounter last Thursday, February 2, also on the Beavers’ strips, but the Tigers ran off seven consecutive victories to put them out of reach, 23-14. Princeton won the foil, 6-4, and the épée, but City galloped ahead, 5-4.

Edward Lucia

City’s only bright spot in the Princeton duelings was the fine showing of Elliot Mills who won all three of his saber bouts.

The Beaver fencers’ next meet will take place Saturday against Rynhold at the Rynhold gym.
