Loneliness Incorporated
Inside the Friendship Clubs
— See Page Two

New York Boast

IKE NAMED DEAN

Story on Page 2
DiGirolamo Faces Maneuvering Tasks

With a "decent nucleus" of veterans and newcomers, but lack of depth, Coach Harry DiGirolamo was forced to consider considerable maneuvering in his debut as varsity outdoor track coach when the Beaver cindermenn meet Hunter in the season's finale, April 9.

Coach DiGirolamo, who succeeded the retired Professor Harold Asken Bruce as track mentor, stated that the Beavers' main scoring strength should be in the sprints and the quarter mile. George Best and Alvin Frost, returners from last year's squad, with a promising duo in the 100 and 220-yard dashes. Shelly Flanagan and another promising runner, Bruce team, should be able to supply good speed in the 440.

In the longer distances the underweared Lavender squad's hopes rest on Bill Kowalski, Dave Grayson, Leon Epstein and Gene Sherman. Kowalski should do some scoring in the one and two mile events, while the other three are due to see action in the half and one mile events.

In the field events DiGirolamo hopes that his ace trio of Jack Worshel, Jack Kushner and Irwin Stein, all of whom are returnees from last year's squad, do some scoring. Stein and Kushner will be entered in the shot-put, the hammer throw and the discus. Worshel, a top pole valuer, was dubbed as a javelin thrower and sees some action as a utility man in the 100. Al Lampell and Ants Thompson double in the 110 yard high hurdles and the 220 yard low hurdles, with Bill Palmer also helping out in the 110 yard event. Jerry Zitter does the high jumping and Joe Olson helps out in the weight throwing events.

The relays are composed of a semblance of the above men. The track team holds practice sessions daily 4:30-5:30 and Thursdays 12-2.

Talking it Over With Polansky

By Ralph Sobovinsky

With Nat Holman leaving the abode of the City College gym, Dave Polansky, as in the past, is the logical choice as basketball coach next season. Polansky's career in the Lavender Hygiene Department has bounced him around more than a ping pong ball in a normal game. The mild-mannered, amiable young freshman basketball coach, who started out as cage coach of the Downtown varsity, was shifted Uptown to the Everybody Ballroom, took Holman's place while the latter was busy being an "conduct unbecoming a basketball coach" and upon Holman's return, took over the reins of the frog team again.

We were discussing his almost certain appointment to the position of head basketball coach at the College, a position which has eluded him throughout the most part of his career.

Despite the almost certainty of his selection to supercede Mr. Basketball, Polansky refuses to acknowledge it as such.

"As far as I see it," said Polansky, "the entire question is an undetermined thing at this stage of the game. No one said anything to me about it as of course, all the papers already named me as the one to succeed Nat. But right now, it's just speculation.

What problems do you think the team will have if you do assume the responsibility of varsity coach, I asked him.

"I can tell you the truth, I have really given it much thought. It's hard to consider any problems by sitting in the stands and watching the game as an outsider. I will have to do some speculating and give the situation a little time to clear up. I intend to put this on the subject until about mid-summer. Then, I'll have to see who's eligible."

Polansky was of course making reference to the fact that many players who were being counted on to play varsity basketball this past season were ruled ineligible.

What about Frank Neely and Tom Burton, the two players who were rumored to be coming to Beaver ranks next season, I asked.

"I think the note in the paper about the two boys was just printed to fill space," said Polansky, talking about this particular item in Gene Rosewell's column in the New York Post several months ago.

"They are probably looking around for some place to coast. Both of these high school averages considerably below 80连. If they had at least an 80 average, and if they were good enough, the test for City, then I could see the possibility of them coming here. There are no angles working for them and they could see no possibility of them playing for us."

I asked him what his opinion was on the current controversy between Koppett and Gallagher.

"I really can't say anything on the subject," he confessed. "I wouldn't like to see the College at any time get any bad publicity. Let the thing die a natural death. I haven't investigated all the details in the matter and I don't know anything positive about the argument. What I say, I want to be able to back up and I definitely don't want to make any rash statements that may harm anyone. Jensen seems adequate. I think that it would be better for all concerned if the closed the matter entirely."

Perhaps it would be better if no further mention is made. As in the past, we would be hanging our heads against the brick wall that Gallagher has created on athletic policy.

Swimming Prospects High As Tankmen Close Season

With the return of this year's wholesale varsity squad and the promotion of one of the most promising freshman teams in recent years to varsity stature, the outlook for this year's swimming team looks brighter than it has in recent years.

Richie Silverstein and Sol Stern, the new coaching class, and Jimmy Johnson, the present captain of the team, are the two returning veterans next year.

Johnson, the top free style swimmer, who went through the season undefeated in dual meet competition, also won the Metropolitan League individual 100 and 200 yard free-style events. Silverstein, a sprinter, said to be the most improved swimmer on the team, came in second in two events in the championships. Stern, a strong backstroke swimmer, shared in the 300-yard medley record set last year by the swimmers.

Coach Jack Rider's mermen finished this season with a 5-4 overall record and their 4-2 league mark enabled them to finish third in the Met standings.

Wertlieb's Big Thrill 'Winning Sabre Title

"I suppose that the biggest thrill that I ever had was the sabre team's winning of the championship at the Inter-college Fencing tournament last week," stated Martin Wertlieb, an ex-marine and a newly-six week veteran of the saber fencing team. It was his first time to see the sword. Wertlieb, an upper semi-production management major at the Baruch School, is the middle of the fencing held his sword effectively down. He recorded a 15-0 for the season.

A graduate of Clinton High School, Wertlieb left his fencing meets while in high school finished fourth in the championships in 1960.

Standing 6-1 and weighing 185, Wertlieb posses a threat in time he steps on the mat as the toughest opponent was N. Johnson of Princeton and finished third in the National championships last year.

Wertlieb's win in the championship was his first legitimate title. He thinks the fencing team will be very good next year, considering the fact it loses only one man from sabre team (himself) and no one from the epee squad.

Wertlieb thinks Edward J. is an excellent sabre, condition, but it sure pays off the long run.

With Cage Season Over Jensen Vies in Lacrosse

Cheers of "Be an animal George" or "Step on George" originating from the City College fans at a recent evening game of men's lacrosse saw Johnson of Princeton, who was tossing his 6-4, 220 pound frame around under the backboards.
LOLA

Mixed Reactions

Appointment Of Eysenhower

The news that the Eysenhower would become 36th President of the United States was met with mixed reactions from around the world. The appointment of a new president has never been more controversial than this one.

---

Eyesenhower New Zaruch Dean; Disapproves of His Administration

President Dwight D. "Ike" Eysenhower recognized his intentions at a recent staff meeting. "I am not sure who the other 36th President was, but I know that the 35th President was not me."

---

Lollapalooza Furious At Censored Photos; "Look Like Tree"

Lollapalooza is a beautiful woman," said Lollapalooza, who is often seen in the company of the first lady. "She is very intelligent and has a great sense of humor."

---

Secret Diets... Exclusive Photos

"I don't know why I'm doing this," said Secret Diets, who is known for her controversial diet plans. "I just want to make sure that everyone knows how to stay healthy."
Somebody told me this fellow named Seamus. Seems there was this story.

... go home Yank.

SUMMERSET FIREFLUG, joke THE CHEERFUL CHERUB

Oh, gee-wilekei-s. Oh, gee-wilekei-s.

Bonnie Navel: FRIENDSHIP

Gina's Disappearing Curves

In a great deal of appreciation that we note the track graphics of her most eccentric figure being covered by her pants. That is why we note the time in the state of Massachusetts that the woman is running in the state of Massachusetts. The woman is running in the state of Massachusetts.

 news notes...

News Note

We are nearing the time when our lives are to be spent in the pursuit of happiness. We are nearing the time when we are to be free of the shackles of society. We are nearing the time when we are to be free of the shackles of convention. We are nearing the time when we are to be free of the shackles of tradition. We are nearing the time when we are to be free of the shackles of our past.

WALTER LIP IT: It is necessary to investigate the data presented by the engineer who says that the engine has been running for some time, and the data presented by the engineer who says that the engine has been running for some time.

Gallagroo for Presy

Now that Eisenhower has withdrawn from the race, Gallagroo, again becomes known as the favorite of the standard bearer of the Grand Old Party. Burrus has called for his withdrawal.

Gallagroo, who has run for president for the past three years, will run for president for the past three years.

What's His Name?

The announcement that President Eisenhower has decided to withdraw from the race is good news for Gallagroo, who has been the standard bearer of the Grand Old Party. The announcement that President Eisenhower has decided to withdraw from the race is good news for Gallagroo, who has been the standard bearer of the Grand Old Party.

News Note

We are nearing the time when our lives are to be spent in the pursuit of happiness. We are nearing the time when we are to be free of the shackles of society. We are nearing the time when we are to be free of the shackles of convention. We are nearing the time when we are to be free of the shackles of tradition. We are nearing the time when we are to be free of the shackles of our past.

WALTER LIP IT: It is necessary to investigate the data presented by the engineer who says that the engine has been running for some time, and the data presented by the engineer who says that the engine has been running for some time.

Gallagroo for Presy

Now that Eisenhower has withdrawn from the race, Gallagroo, again becomes known as the favorite of the standard bearer of the Grand Old Party. Burrus has called for his withdrawal.

Gallagroo, who has run for president for the past three years, will run for president for the past three years.

What's His Name?

The announcement that President Eisenhower has decided to withdraw from the race is good news for Gallagroo, who has been the standard bearer of the Grand Old Party. The announcement that President Eisenhower has decided to withdraw from the race is good news for Gallagroo, who has been the standard bearer of the Grand Old Party.

News Note

We are nearing the time when our lives are to be spent in the pursuit of happiness. We are nearing the time when we are to be free of the shackles of society. We are nearing the time when we are to be free of the shackles of convention. We are nearing the time when we are to be free of the shackles of tradition. We are nearing the time when we are to be free of the shackles of our past.

WALTER LIP IT: It is necessary to investigate the data presented by the engineer who says that the engine has been running for some time, and the data presented by the engineer who says that the engine has been running for some time.
New Weightlifting Club Formed

The Beevers lost, 14-14.

The devastating incident occurred yesterday. A piercing sound of a girl's scream was heard from three stories above the floor. Wholeman was visibly straining to contain his noise. The Beevers lost, 14-14.

The Beevers lost, 14-14.

The Beevers lost, 14-14.

The Beevers lost, 14-14.

The Beevers lost, 14-14.
Ike Will Play Golf at Zaruch

By Leonard Crockett

Seventeenth Floor, April 5—With the news that Dwight D. "Ike" Eysenhower has been named dean at the Zaruch School, plans are quickly formulating for the formation of a golf team, it was announced today by Professor Humdrum S. Goiter, under sub-chairman of the Hygiene Department.

The idea for forming the golf team was advanced by Dr. Robot Tenderson at the department's weekly meeting, yesterday, in room 7A0. The idea was then put into a motion and seconded by fencing coach Edward Pizza. A voice vote was called and the motion was passed unanimously.

The department announced, "the formation of the team was keeping in line with the School's policy of promoting athletics wherever our men have a decided clear-cut advantage."

"And so what we have a Dean who is interested in golf, they continued, "we feel it only proper that a team be formed to compete with other colleges on an equal level."

A point brought out by the department was where the golfers were going to practice. A room on the sixth floor has already been allotted for putting practice. A driving range has already been set up on the roof, but the department feels that the golfers need green grass so they can have an atmosphere of the golf course.

Plans will be formulated at the meeting for the planting of grass on the roof.

Another point still to be discussed is the question of funds. It has been said that Inter-Club Board will call a special meeting to allot funds for clubs and balls. No action has been taken by the Board, but a special meeting is scheduled for tomorrow.

Formal naming of a coach will hoped, will act in the position of assistant coach and putting advisor. So far, no formal announcement has come from the new Dean. Ike's press secretary, Jumbo Jim Hayward, will also help coach the team, as will John Faster Dull. It is hoped that Ike will be able to spend his free time putting on the roof, the sixth floor and driving on the roof.

The team will be representative of both the Uptown and Downtown schools, but practice sessions will be held only at the Lexington Avenue school, since Ike must give in his practice puts.

If enough interested students come out for the team, a junior varsity will be formed at the Uptown campus. The J.V. will play a somewhat easier schedule and will operate under a banner of "de-emphasis."

Wholeman Accepts Job As Girl Basketball Coach

By Leonard Crockett

Special to the New York Boost

At a hastily called press conference in the plush, oriental carpeted office of Louie G. Gallagaroo, basketball coach Nat Wholeman announced that he has accepted an invitation extended to him by Barnard College Athletic Department to take over a couple of bumps and grinds amid shouts of "take it off" from big-wigs.

Dr. Gallagaroo, who thinks very highly of Wholeman's ability in the field of athletics, took his coach's decision quite well. He was restrained in his usual outburst by Holman Crack-r, head of the City College Athletic Department.

Under Wholeman's direction, the Beaver basketball team has compiled its worst record in the School's history, 3-15, this past season. The ancient Beaver mentor has habitually been driven by his ambitious nature and his desire for personal advancement has constantly motivated his moves.

I think the field of women's athletics offers a field of vast exploitation," stated Wholeman.

Gallagaroo, no longer able to contain himself, stealthily picked up a letter opener from his desk and lunged at Wholeman with a wild expression on his face. However, he dropped over a book he had written entitled, "Tech College Stone Wall on Athletic Policy" and was once more quieted down by Crack-r.

"I have really enjoyed my stay here at the College," continued the aging 50-year-old coach. "and..."