The Baruch School's chapter of BGS was organized in 1935. It is one of 60 chapters with a total membership of about 27,000. Election to BGS is equivalent to that of Phi Beta Kappa, since the former serves in the same capacity to students of schools of business.

Enrollment Up: Municipal Colleges Gain Students

Enrollment in the four city colleges rose past the 80,000 mark this semester, according to a recent report by the Board of Higher Education. This constituted an increase of 600 over the number of students who attended the municipal colleges in 1955. Hunter and Queens Colleges had an increase in enrollment, while City and Brooklyn Colleges experienced decreases in the number of students. The City College suffered a decrease of 6176 students.

Baruch Gallagher, president of City College, said last Tuesday at a luncheon for high school officials that the Baruch School can accommodate 87070 students. He added that many classrooms are not being used, during the late afternoon hours, as a result of present class scheduling. A larger enrollment, he said, would also make it possible for a greater number of specialization courses to be offered.

Total expenditures for the city colleges during the fiscal year ending June 30 were $30,759,930, an increase of $96,000 over the previous year's budget. The operating budget of $25,813,251 is burdened by the loss of $367,000 in ...
SA Will Organize Service Program

Riga Alhos has instituted a community service program through which any student or student organization may volunteer for community center and hospital goods.

At the Bronx Hospital, 4000 patients are shown and back to back. The schedule is organized for Saturday afternoons. At the Jewish Consumptive and Foundation, help is needed from students to work as clerks in the clinic.

For further information about volunteering, contact the student representative in the American Student Association. The volunteers are needed at least three mornings per week, with a limit of two hours per day. The patients are of all ages, and the work includes data entry, typing, and clerical work.

Highest IQ at Age Not 21—Tests Conclude

The general assumption that mental capacity is not finalized until age 21 has been challenged. Nancy Albers, head of the Child Development Department at the National Institute of Mental Health, Washington, D.C., has announced that tests conducted within certain groups of students have revealed that some individuals' mental capacities do not mature until age 30 or 40. These findings are based on the analysis of data from a large national study conducted over a ten-year period.

Dr. Albers said that the research, conducted by the Stanford Research Institute, indicates that an individual's mental capacity does not reach its maximum until age 30 or 40. The study involved a sample of 1,000 students from various educational backgrounds.

In critiquing the testing procedures, Albers corrected the widely accepted belief that the mental capacity of an individual decreases after age 20. He stated that the decline in mental capacity is not a universal phenomenon and that it only affects a small percentage of the population.

Albers recommended that educational institutions should consider delaying the implementation of certain academic programs until the students' mental capacities have reached their peak. He further suggested that educational policies should be revised to accommodate the intellectual development of students.

He concluded: "We must devise a system that will enable individuals to achieve their full potential for the benefit of themselves and society."

Veteran Hoopsters Bolster 1956-57 Basketball Team

By Norm Morochnick

Saturday, the baskets will begin flying through the hoops as the 1956-57 basketball season gets under way for the City College Beavers against Hunter College (See Story Page 7). Dave Polansky, last year's freshman basketball coach, will direct the Beavers this season under the same system that is still on underclassmen.

"We have about the same personnel as last year, but we have shown a great deal of improvements due to the year of experience the boys had under Holman. At this point we have a lot of confidence in our ability for the season," says Polansky.

With the floor will come a starting line-up. At the forward slots will be Bill Silvone, 6-6, and Bill Lewis, 6-3. These two are big and strong and can score with consistent accuracy.

At the center position is Syd Levy, 6-9. A tall unorthodox ball player this year, Levy played some Summer ball and is said to have improved greatly. "He has shown improvement," the coach said, and "I think he'll do a lot for us."

Backcourt Men

The backcourt will be composed of Ralph Schifflan, 6-6, and Joe Benardo, 5-9. Schifflan is a senior and will be the floor general for the team. Benardo, a junior and is very fast and tricky. He is an excellent defensive ball-handler as well as the possessor of a fine set shot.

The Beaver mentor looks to Pete Schifflan, 6-5, Jimmy Mazzeferro, 5-9, and Marv Rose, 6-3, as his top reserves. Polansky plans to use a man-to-man formation except sometimes in the half court. Polansky feels that Benardo has a much greater height advantage. If he comes up against Levy and Silver and Lewis in the frontcourt, the Baruch team plans to give him the "Financial Five" including Sid Gomshay have been lost to the Evening Session team.

Hopes High for Baruch "5'5" As Season Opener Nears

By Ron Cooper

The Baruch basketball team will open its season against the Baruch Evening Session Friday, December 7. An interesting fact is that George Wolfe will be the Baruch evening Session coach.

Stolzengen, senior member of the squad, will provide most of the scoring punch for the Wolves. Bakkman up him, and almost definite starters are Dick Lewis and Sid Gurkin. Gurkin and Lewis will probably alternate at center and forward. Short on height, the Baruch team plans to have a fast and good shooting club.

"The club is not balanced," says coach Wolfe, "and our scoring punch should give us a good squad."

Soccer Ace:

"Buddha" Comes to City College

By Bernice Feinman

"Please, Buddha, let me score a goal and let City College win another soccer game," are very familiar pleas made by the Beavers’ star center-halfback, Johnny "Buddha" Paranos.

An Upper Sophomore majoring in Geology, Paranos is one of the reasons why the Lavender soccermen have been unanimously selected to represent New York State in the Eastern Intercollegiate Soccer Championships in Springfield, Massachusetts, Saturday.

Due to his kidding-around antics, which started before this year's Army game, and has continued ever since, he has officially been given the title, "Buddha." No one is complaining as long as the Indian God allows his wishes to come true.

Paranos started his soccer career in Yugoslavia, where he was born in 1933. He came to the United States in 1949 to the future delight of City College and soccer fans everywhere.

While attending Bryant High School in Astoria, and playing soccer in the Polish Athletic League, Paranos kept in tip-top condition until he came to City. "Practice makes perfect" is an old adage, but Paranos strictly adheres. He puts in eleven hours a week practice—two for the last three has won the New England title.

Ralph Stoltenberg, president of the college, says, "All this is without any pecuniary value, nor any pro-scholarships in which achievement is a factor."

The boys play for the love of the game and this makes excellent teamwork. An aim is to eliminate the coming season with a 4-1 victory.

five hours with the team and about six on his own.

Basketball is another sport in which Paranos likes to participate. He played freshman basketball, but was forced to discontinue when he suffered a shoulder separation. The "bad shoulder" made him concentrate on soccer.

Lavender Booters Pre For Springfield Playo

It's do or die Saturday for the City College soccer team when it faces Springfield College in the first round of the Eastern Intercollegiate Soccer Championships at Broadfield Field in Springfield, Massachusetts. The game begins at 4 p.m.

The Beaver booters were unanimously selected to represent New York State last week, while Springfield will represent the New England area.

The Lavender, undefeated Metropolitan Soccer League titans for the fourth consecutive year and fifth in the last six seasons, closed out the season two weeks ago by downing Pratt Institute for its twenty-eighth consecutive victory. Two ties marred the perfect record. The string dates back to 1953 when Brooklyn College beat City, 1-0.

Springfield mentor Irvin Schmidt calls his squad "one of the best I've ever coached. It is the best team with the least individual stars. The other good teams I've coached all had individual performers."

The New England offense is manned by right back Dick Tingley, an All-American selection last year, and Bob Baker, left fullback. Dan Sullivan, Dick Haran and Don Jelting will start at the forward slots.

Dick Hengford, a center forward who has scored 10 goals this season, will be flashed on the right by Leon Koschneck and Tom Stammers. On his left will be Stan Kastinhal and co-captain Paul Swanson.

Springfield, a physical education student, represents the "Financial Five" in the Eastern Intercollegiate Soccer Championships in Springfield, Massachusetts. The game begins at 4 p.m. Saturday. An interesting sidelight to the game is that coach George Wolfe will make his debut coaching a soccer team.

"I think he'll do a lot for us."... - Polansky. After working with the squad for several weeks, Polansky has come up with a starting line-up. At the forward slots will be Bob Silver, 6-2, and Bill Lewis, 6-3. These two are big and strong and can score with consistent accuracy.

At the center position is Syd Levy, 6-9. A tall unorthodox ball player this year, Levy played some Summer ball and is said to have improved greatly. "He has shown improvement," the coach said, and "I think he'll do a lot for us."
