3 Departments Face Split From Uptown

Baruch School Dean Emanuel Saxe said Wednesday that "exploratory" action was being taken for the possible separation of three Baruch School departments from their Uptown parents.

The three departments are the Economics, Government and Psychology Departments. Of all the "liberal arts" departments at the Baruch School, these three are the only ones which offer a specializa-

- City College President Bueli G. Beall also said that the discussions were merely of an "exploratory" nature, but that the matter was under "serious consideration."

Dr. Saxe stated that discussion was started at his insistence late last semester. He asserted, no positive decisions of any nature have been made.

He said that he feared the split because it would be "educational spasmodically," Dean Saxe did not elaborate on this point.

It is reported that the procedure for any action of this type would involve studies by such Saxe and former Dean Morten Gottschall. He said that the next action would be a decision by himself.

- He emphasized that a decision would be reached by the end of the semester.

It is believed that if the split is approved by President Gallaghei r it would mean more money in the Baruch School's annual budget. It would also give the School added prestige in having the additional independent depart-

ICB Confederation Passed By SC After Long Debate

In a six-hour debate Friday, Student Council passed by a 21-3-2 vote an amendment to confederate the Inter-Club Board.

Under the adopted portion of the amendment, ICB will, beginning next term, be composed of sections instead of the present representation of individuals clubs.

The sections will combine clubs of similar interests and there will be proportional representation. The present membership will be reduced from 39 to 18.

The proponents of the amendment argued that the present set-up of ICB is too unwieldy and as a result is inefficient. In addition, it was felt that in order to avoid further stagnation, ICB must undergo a radical change.

Those who opposed it felt that this change would not ease the inefficiency of the Board and might even further complicate it.

The amendment in its entirety was passed Wednesday by the Board with certain reservations.

One of these, dealing with the distribution of votes to the service organizations, was brought to the floor by Steve Sorkin, ICB Chairman. It was defeated by SC.

Next week, Council will vote on the remaining portion of the amendment. This deals primarily with changes in wording that are necessary for the revised Board to function smoothly.

Placement Office Says Job Openings Decline

Sharp declines in the number of new job opportunities and salaries available to graduating seniors were revealed by Baruch School Placement Director Lawrence Lannser Thursday. Lannser attributed these results to the present business recession.

He pointed out that salaries have decreased as well as job opportunities. "If we hadn't had a thing in weeks" was his comment on the Marketing Research. He pointed out that salaries have declined as well as job opportuni-

Student Council President Irwin Feller and Lexicon Editor-in-Chief Larry Bochner have asked the classes of 1950-57 to release $4200 in dormant funds.

Feller contends that the money should be released by the classes to allow Student Council to "increase its scope."

"If we get a substantial part of this money, we (Student Council) will be able to finance a major social event at little or no cost to the students and may be able to help to relieve the financial burden on other major student organizations in the School," he stated.

Editor-in-Chief Bochner has hopes of using any money he gets toward the establishment of a Lexicon reserve account.

Letters to the class presidents were sent Thursday asking for the written transfer of the funds to Dean Ruth C. Wright, who would then distribute the money to Student Council and Lexicon.

Lexicon profits went into the class accounts originally because Assistant to the Dean of Students, Clement M. Thompson, believed there were too many dorm-

Raymond M. Thompson had reservations about the Under the jurisdiction of Class Cuts. Last year the baruch book became autonomous. Bochner plans to start a reserve account to cover losses that may occur in the future.

The presidents to which letters were sent were presented to Dean by Nelson Bloch, '57; Rose Gregory, '56; Robert Silverberg, '56; Stuart Joseph, '54; Fred Agni, '55; Nat Ritzke, '56; Gil Krinsky, '55, and Mike Rosenberg, '56.
Bill Introduced in Legislature To Register All Accountants

By Bruce Markens

A bill to restrict the accounting profession exclusively to Certified Public Accountants has been introduced in the New York State Legislature. The measure, sponsored by the accountant section of the New York State Bar Association, would establish a uniform test for registration of all accountants.

The bill provides that only Certified Public Accountants and those who have passed the accounting section examination of the AICPA Committee on Uniform State Examinations for Accountants would be eligible to practice in New York State. The bill would also provide for the appointment of an examiner by the Board of Accountancy to administer the examination.

Thought Waves

By Arthur L. Goldstein

During the great influx of the Baruch School's curricular changes, many students have commented that the school is becoming too academic and too technical. The new emphasis on quantitative methods, the increased use of computers and calculators, and the greater emphasis on theory over application have caused some students to lose interest in their studies. However, others have welcomed these changes, as they believe that they will better prepare them for future careers.

The school's administration has taken note of these concerns and has made efforts to address them. For example, the school has increased the number of courses offered in the humanities and social sciences, and it has also increased the number of faculty members in these fields. The school has also made efforts to improve the quality of its courses, and it has increased the number of faculty members with Ph.D.s.

In conclusion, the Baruch School is undergoing a period of significant change. While some students have expressed concerns about the school's emphasis on quantitative methods, others have welcomed these changes. The school's administration is working to address these concerns and to continue to provide a high-quality education to its students.

Sincerely yours,

City to Face Violets, Redmen
In Season's Final Encounters

By Lou Pohoryles

The final week of the basketball season will see the City College basketball team face two traditional opponents in games that are part of the Lavender with its toughest contests of the year. Tournament bound St. John's University game is at Wingate Gym and the latter on the neutral Fordham University Court.

The Redmen, one of the better teams in the East this year, currently sport a 13-6 record after having compiled a 9-0 record at varsity movements. Last season, Bernie moved into the 9-10 overall record when they lost their one to Redmen in four years, dropped the NU contest last week.

The decision to petition the BHE came after the Board heard a report by Leo Klauber '25, describing the inadequacies of the present athletic facilities, at its February 19 meeting.

Wagner Defeats Beavers: Lewis Scores 16 Points

The report stated that because of the inadequate physical facilities for the College's athletic program, it has become difficult to support a sound program of varsity and freshmen athletics and that other colleges have constantly refused to risk injury to their athletes in the physically dangerous facilities.

Two Pointer: City's Joel Ascher goes up for easy basket in Fri day night's 53-50 loss to Wagner College at the Wingate Gymnasium.

ADD'S Stats

Advantages to be derived from a new field house were cited as the adding of statures to the College, improvement of the College's presently inadequate athletic program, and the building of a stronger intramural program for the student body.

Woods Gains Mat Ability From Brothers' Influence

By Sid Davidoff

Bernie Woods comes from a family in which wrestling has been an extremely popular sport.

The oldest brother, Tom, was the first to take an interest in the sport when he competed for the College in family was Fat, a 147-pounder, who also wrestled for the College.

Both brothers, majoring in Physics, have wrestled for the College since he was a freshman. As a wrestler, Bernie was selected as the College's outstanding freshman and placed third in the Metropolitan Championships.

With the help of Coach Joe Saporita and through his own determination to become a better wrestler, Bernie spent many hours in the gymnasium practicing in order to become a better wrestler.

Sparked by Harry Orlando's seven point spree late in the second half, Wagner beat City College's quintet, 53-50 at Wingate Gym Friday night.

Possession Ball

City, playing possession ball throughout the game, managed to thwart the scoring of Leonie West, Wagner's high scorer.

The Beavers, down a basket at the half, managed to tie the game on a two-pointer by John De torre. City kept the lead until 0:14 left and tied the game at 50. Leonie West, Wagner's high scorer, scored seven points late in the second half, leading to a 53-50 victory over City College in the Wingate Gymnasium.

The Board of Directors also recommended to the BHE that consideration be given to federal financing as the new field house could be used for BHE training.

Met Rivalry Flashback

City College basketball game against St. John's University will be filled with more than the usual show of thrills in the past ten years.

In 1947, the Beavers were against a highly ranked NYU team which boasted the present National Basketball Association all time high scorer, Dol Schayes. The Lavender, however, scored one of the biggest upsets that season when they scored 91-60 rout of the Violets.

The following season the Lavender scored its first victory over the Redmen in four years, dropped the NU contest last week.

In the 1960 season, the Beavers beat both the Violets and the Redmen and ultimately went on to win an unexpected national championship. However, because of all the subsequent scandals, the Lavender was to experience a victory in the next seven years at the expense of the two schools.

The victory came in 1954, when the Beavers, led by Jerry Dem schick and Merv Schorr, ended St. John's, 64-60.

Last season, the Lavender, experiencing its most successful season since '50, was rerouted by the Violets, point defeat at the hands of St. John's, 64-60.
