Science Options Raised For New Fall Entants

All students entering the Baruch School in September will be required to take two semesters of laboratory science.

Dean Emanuel Saxe announced last week. The announcement followed a meeting of the Baruch School Faculty Wednesday, which approved the change.

Students who studied biology, chemistry, or physical science in high school will take two semesters of one of the three sciences or two semesters of any two.

- Students who had one or two of the sciences must study a third science they did not take and a term of a science of their choice. They may continue for a fourth term of the science not studied in high school.

- Students who had no science in high school will study two semesters of two different fields.

In other sections, the Faculty approved a change which replaces Government 2, Contemporary Issues of American Government, with a new course, Government 3, Democracy and Communism.

The new course, which replaces Government 2, will replace the former course in both credit and non-credit optional social science requirements for the BBA.

Another new course in the undergraduate curriculum is Management 400, Motor Carrier Management. It will offer two credits for two hours a week and cover all phases of the trucking industry.

gallagher gives talk at israeli university

by Bruce Markens

Speaking at the dedication ceremony of the Hebrew University in Jerusalem, Sunday, City College President Peter Harriman said that freedom and integrity, and its relation to the University. His address covered "some of the fundamentals of intellectual life for the Free World of tomorrow, for which a man can live in freedom itself as a mutual respect."

"No government, no political party, no pressure groups of any kind, can be permitted to shape itself into academic life. The people's right to know is the key to all our liberties, and this right to know carries with it the right to inquire freely and to teach without censorship or interference from outside the university," he said.

Continuing, Harriman declared: "Academic freedom also needs to be defended from actions by the University. Freedom can be lost by subversion just as readily as by intrusion. Therefore, integrity must be coupled with freedom. If the battle is to be won,"

"Psychologists argue that integration and disintegration are polarities of human character, but integrity is something other than mere integration. Integrity assumes an inner core of the moral purpose which is inviolate. Integrity is the focal center to which all else refers. As nearly as there is an absolute in the definition of human character, integrity is that absolute."

"Perhaps this is the reason for the close link between the free university and the free society with its free nation," he observed.

"What man can feel himself inviolate when he is ordered about, commanded to believe what is unproven or contrary to truth, to hold his tongue in the presence of injustice?"

saxe requests deferment of department split plan

Dean Emanuel Saxe announced Thursday that the proposal to separate three Baruch School departments from their Uptown counterparts has temporarily been suspended.

The decision apparently rules out action on the plan for the foreseeable future.

The three are Economics, Government and Psychology Departments. All of the "liberal arts" departments at the Baruch School, these are the only ones which offer a specialization.

Dr. Saxe said: "The proposal was temporarily tabled at the request of me. I will bring it up at the next meeting of the University Council, which will convene in two weeks."

Previously, Dean Saxe had favored the split because it would be "educationally sound." A few weeks ago, City College President Benjamin G. Gallagher said that a final decision on the proposal would be reached by the end of the semester.

Dr. Gallagher further stated that the procedure for any action of this type would involve studies by both Dean Saxe and Liberal Arts Dean Morton Gottschall.

It is expected that if the split goes through, it will be by an enrollment decision made by the University Council.

The decision follows a meeting of the Baruch School Faculty, which decided to temporarily suspend the plan for the foreseeable future.

bill to restrict accountants vetoed

A bill to restrict Certified Public Accountants was vetoed last week by Governor Averell Harriman.

Harriman primarily objected to the fact that no public hearings were held on the bill. Without these hearings all objections were not adequately discussed, he said.

Harriman declared: "Many people are interested in and affected by this bill. It is a bill which has been passed in the closing hours of the last day of the legislative session. No public hearings were held with an opportunity for discussion by all concerned."

"It comes to me as a 'thirty-day bill' so that it is not possible to have the measure recalled for adequate hearing or for amendments that might possibly meet the objections that are raised.

Continuing, Harriman said: "It is unnecessary to review in detail the number of states and claims which are contained in this measure, nor the many arguments that have been advanced for and against. It is sufficient to note that the controversy between the opponents of the measure, and the certified public accountants and others who favor the bill, is sharp and spirited to a most unusual degree."

There is much to be said on the one hand for those who seek a better regulation of a recognized profession and on the other hand for those who claim they are being unjustly excluded from the benefits which the bill provides."

Harriman concluded his veto objections by stating: "This is important legislation. It required a public hearing by the Legislature. No such hearing was held. Therefore, the bill is disproved."

The Ticker

Tuesday, April 29, 1958

To the Editor of THE TICKER:

Tuesday was not only New York Times Day, but The Ticker Day. The first day in this long since renounced symbol for the Jewish School of Journalism now finds itself back on the high road with the name of "New York Times Day." Yes, the Ticker was covered and the name printed in the New York Times! It's fitting that this title now number in the same tabloids that have been given attention in the past.

The increase in the science retirement is a welcome development, as it encourages debate on the abstract and avant grade film. This stratification of awards encourages debate on the possible. The kibbutz is built or destroyed, but the kibbutz is meted out as fairly as possible. The kibbutz is the perfect system and the only one.

The Ticker will continue as a weekly, and by the way things are going these days, we find evidence which suggests that this is precisely what we need. Though the kibbutz is the perfect system and the only one, we can never be sure that the West decided not to stop testing weapons, and that our enemies are not in the wrong. Though the Ticker is the free press, shouldn't it be? I am sure that the majority of people learned that most of the questions were not answered, and that the majority of people learned to stay alive.

The Ticker is my favorite daily newspaper, and I am learning to buy, and it is the only one that I will buy, and it is the only one that I want to buy. I am not talking about the present peace, whereby men live to better the entire world. I am speaking of the present peace, whereby we are living to better the entire world. The state of the world is at a stalemate and there seems to be no way out if we continue.

The Ticker will be my favorite daily newspaper, and I will buy it, and it will be my favorite daily newspaper. I am not saying that it is the perfect newspaper, but I am saying that it is the best newspaper. The Ticker is the perfect newspaper, and I am thinking of buying it. I am not saying that it is the perfect newspaper, but I am saying that it is the best newspaper. The Ticker is the perfect newspaper, and I am thinking of buying it. I am not saying that it is the perfect newspaper, but I am saying that it is the best newspaper.

CCNY to Oppose Jaspers at Home

Coach John La Place and crew will oppose Manhattan College today in hope of capturing that elusive first victory of the year. The game will take place at McCombs Dam Park, the Bronx.

In all probability, the Jaspers are the most powerful team to face City this season. Last year's Metropolitan Collegiate Baseball Conference champions, with a record of 11-1, Manhattan is currently in third place in the league with a 3-2 record.

The Jaspers were beaten by New York University, where in ten innings of play, they dropped a 6-2 decision to the Violets who are currently in first place in the Men's League.

In this, their second encounter of the season with the Beavers, Manhattan will send to the mound their best pitcher, Phil Place. Place has turned in some fine performances to compile a record of 3-0.

In all probability, the star attraction of the game will be left-hander John Schoonhoven of the Beavers. The outfielder has 15 RBIs to his credit and is batting .421. James Kielmnan and Bill Garland will also score. The Jaspers also have two powerful left-handers in third baseman Mike Stone, who is batting .451, and James Crowley. The Beavers, on the other hand, have a .220 batting average. Many games. Baruchian Stone, an outfielder, has 15 RBIs to his credit and is batting .451. James Crowley is batting .421.

NYU Wins:

Tennis Wins:

Tennis Squad Suffers First Defeat

By Isaac Sultan

New York University captured the City College tennis team's streak of three victories, Saturday at the NYU courts, 6-3.

The first two singles matches resulted in victories for the Kirlans' netmen as Bertie Stein and Mike Stone registered 6-3, 6-1 and 6-2, 6-1 wins, respectively. Stein's victory marked his fourth straight singles win in as many matches. Baruchian Stone scored his third singles victory.

The only other Lavender win was captured in Ray Feischman's match with NYU's Stan Jarmor, 6-2, 7-6.

Captain Roy Feischman, a Baruchian, thinks that this year's team is the best that City has had for the past few years.

Roy, an upper senior majoring in International Trade, is placing his third season on the varsity tennis team. At the beginning of the season, he was elected captain.

A trip to California provided his first spark of interest in the game. As the years progressed, he developed into a steady, hard-hitting player. He has the able advice of his present tutor, Coach Harry Kornelson.

Although Roy doesn't hope to play professional tennis, he would like to participate in as many local amateur tournaments as possible.

Beaver Trackmen Cop Top Penn Relays Spot

By George Privaravky

The Lavender cindermeh capture the first place in the class mile baton test at the Penn Relays. The quartet, composed of co-captains Ralph Taylor and Stan Dawkins, along with Ike Clark and Lennie Turner turned in a time of 3:25.6 to capture the gold medal. This same foursome also competed in the sprint medley relay in which they took second place.

It appears that the present varsity squad is the finest in the last ten years. In a long-time, established tradition, the Beavers breezed to victory over Adelphi by a score of 98-28.

Captains Stan Dawkins led the men in scoring. He won the 130 yard high hurdles, the 220 yard low hurdles, the 440 yard dash and the 4x100 relay.

Stickmen Lose, 18-4

The College's lacrosse team, after achieving its first victory of the season Wednesday afternoon, found itself on the short end of 18-4 score, Saturday afternoon. The Millermen's victory was gained at the expense of Adelphi College, 11-7. The contest was played at Adelphi.

Saturday, the stickmen journeyed to the highest level. Lennie Turner in the varsity turned in a sizzling 10.6 to cross the finish line first.

In the end, Bob Ryerson won the mile going away. Bob Cleary with a time of 4:48.0 in the mile ran unopposed. Randy Crossfield, who was last year's star cross country attraction, outdistanced his opponent by turning in a 10:49.0 in the two mile distance event.

The Beavers scored 38 points in the track events as opposed to one by the Panthers. It was in the field events that the tracksters showed a deficiency. The strain of graduation has weakened the squad in this department considerably. The only win was scored by Bob Cleary who registered the best toss with the discus.

The frosh competition saw Pete Pisanos cop in the 100 yards. The hurdlers won in the 220. His fine effort didn't help the final results as the Adelphi neophytes scored 59 to the Lavenders' 38.
