Austin Case Delayed Pending Other Appeal

The outcome of the case of Dr. Warren B. Austin, suspended City College English Professor, is being delayed pending litigation of another appeal by the Board of Higher Education, it was announced in a report made public Sunday by the State Commission of Education.

The report was made in connection with an annual request for steps to be taken to implement the Feinberg Law which prohibits the employment of communists or other subversives in the State system.

Dr. Austin was suspended by a three-man trial committee of the BHE for "conduct unbecoming a member of the staff" and for making "false and untrue statements" in regard to his membership in the Communist Party.

Dr. Austin's attorney, said, at the time the committee presented its decision, he would take an appeal to the United States Supreme Court if it were necessary.

At present a decision is being awaited from Dr. James E. Allen, the State Commissioner of Education.

Dr. Austin's case is awaiting the outcome of an appeal made by the BHE in the case of Professor Charles W. Hughes of Hunter College. Professor Hughes was dismissed after he admitted part membership in the Communist Party. He refused to identify members of an alleged Communist cell at Hunter.

Professor Hughes' dismissal, however, was reversed by Commissioner Allen, who said that a teacher could not be forced to inform. The city lost appeals in the State Supreme Court and to the Appellate Division. It will make its final appeal next month in the Court of Appeals.

Aside from Dr. Austin's appeal, the case of Professor V. Jerold of Hunter College is awaiting litigation from the Appellate Division.

The report also said one staff member had resigned while under investigation. Eleven others whose cases had come before the Board since last year's report were either cleared or their cases closed for insufficient evidence.

Two-Year Trial: New Charity Drives Plan to Start

The operation of charity drives at the Baruch School, long a point of contention on Student Council, has been temporarily revised by a Faculty Committee on Student Activities action last Tuesday.

The new procedure, to be followed for a two-year period, permits only educational charities and internal causes to be the subject of organizational charity drives.

Select Charities

An attempt was made a year ago to bring all drives at the Baruch School under the jurisdiction of Student Council. At that time, a plan was accepted that would permit the Charity Drive Committee to select the charities to be collected for in the following semester.

However, this plan was never put into effect, and instead, four charities were allowed to select their own charities.

In the interim, the Committee has been collecting information on charities, mostly those of an educational nature, and does offer suggestions to government having particular programs.

The second part of last year's plan, to allow only five drives per term, has been successful, according to SC President Larry Schiff. This does not include such internal drives as the Boosters' pledge projects to raise money for pencil sharpeners, or Sigma Alpha's semi-annual Flower Sale.

The one major area of confusion, according to Schiff, regards the Council's limits of jurisdiction.

"The proposed procedure," said Schiff in a letter to FCMA, "was desirable in terms of providing a meaningfulness to the College's charity collections."

The new system will allow the Charity Drives Committee to accept written bids during the first two weeks of each semester from organizations to run drives selected by Council in the previous semester.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor of THE TICKER:

I feel compelled to write in order to correct the implication that House Plan was correct on the point of cooperation between the nine schools of Baruch College comprising House Plan.

After some weeks, the Baruch Student Council is going to vote on the issue of cooperation and possible collaboration among the nine schools of the College. I feel that we should be given the opportunity to express our views on this matter, and that we should not be subjected to the sort of pressure and manipulation which have characterized the actions of the Baruch Student Council in the past.

The proposed Baruch Student Council has brought to light some of the most serious problems that our community faces. Among these problems are: the lack of cooperation among the nine schools of the College, the inadequate representation of the student body in the administration of the College, and the lack of participation of the student body in the decision-making process of the College.

I feel that the Baruch Student Council has a responsibility to ensure that the student body is given an opportunity to voice its opinions and to participate in the decision-making process of the College. I believe that the student body should be given the opportunity to participate in the decision-making process of the College, and that the Baruch Student Council has a responsibility to ensure that the student body is given this opportunity.

I urge the Baruch Student Council to ensure that the student body is given an opportunity to participate in the decision-making process of the College, and that the student body is given the opportunity to express its opinions on the issue of cooperation and possible collaboration among the nine schools of the College.

Sincerely yours,

City to Face Columbia '5'

By Ed Satran

City College will open the 1958-1959 basketball season tomorrow evening against Columbia University, at the Lion's gymnasium. Columbia has a new coach — Archie Oldham, who is replacing Lou Rosini, now at New York University. Oldham, a former St. John's center, worked as Rosini's aide for three years. He was head coach at Oswego State Teachers College the last two seasons.

"We'll be much faster than last year's club," he says. The loss of its two top scorers, Rudy Milkey and Jim Iverson, has left some large holes in the Columbia picture. The Lions have no substantial height and, consequently, plan to play a fast-running game.

Fortunately, Oldham will get some help from sophomores. Coming up from the freshman team are, Murray Melton, who averaged 25.3 points per game in his frosh season, Jack Harris, and Eddie Auzenbergs. Harris and Auzenbergs both averaged around 17 points per game.

Oldham is "counting on Phil Matthews, 6-4 senior to take care of the rebounding chores, 6-3 junior Richie Rodin, and 6-2 Wally Bernson will assist Matthews on the backboards.

In the backcourt will be Harold Kaplan, Stan Needlenman, and Dave Hoffman. Even though Needlenman saw action last year, he will have to be at his best to beat out Hoffman and Kaplan for a starting post.

The most probable starting line-up will be Matthews, Rodin, Melton, and Auzenbergs, with the fifth spot still to be decided.

Coach Nat Holman is returning to his coaching post after a two-year leave, in which he spread his knowledge of basketball in the Orient. During his absence, the Beavers were coached by Dave Polansky. Last season's team did not provide much excitement for the Beaver rooters; the team ended the season with a 9-8 record. Even though Columbia didn't win against the major Metropolitan foes, New York University, St. John's, Fordham, and Manhattan, the team succeeded in winning the municipal championship for the third straight year, thereby retiring the trophy.

The Lavender opened its season by beating Columbia. They didn't stay unbeaten long, as Hunter, with a last-second basket, squeezed out an 82-50 win. After this setback, the Beavers proceeded to rattle off four straight wins to run their record to 5-1.

City's winning streak did not last any longer. The Beavers were upset by Fairleigh-Dickinson, as the Panthers came back from an 11 point deficit to win. Then City dropped a tilt to Manhattan College, and avenged its Hunter defeat by routing the Hawks in a return engagement.

In what was probably the most exciting game of the year, City dropped a close one to St. Francis, by four points. The rest of the season had little to offer in the way of thrills or excitement for the Beaver rooters. The team was vastly classed by N.Y.U. and St. John's, but put up good struggles before giving up to defeat.

With the departure of two big men, Bob Silver and Lenny Walitt, Beaver height is considerably lessened. Returning from last year's squad are 6-5 Hector Lewis and 5-4 Joel Ascher. Marty Groveman, and Julio Delatorre.

Lewis is the key to the CITY line. Lewis has all of the natural qualifications," Holman says. "He has the height, the speed, the reflexes, and the competitive spirit." Since Lewis is the tallest player on the squad, Holman plans to use him in the pivot.

Ascher may not be able to play against Columbia because of a leg infection which kept him from participating in pre-season workouts.

Groveman has a deadly jump from the foul circle area. He is fast, and a good playmaker. Delatorre is a rugged ballplayer, who can do a lot of damage if he isn't watched very closely.

Supplementing these four are 5-9-Hector delatorre and 6-1 Barry Klansky, who, along with Groveman and Delatorre, make a solid backcourt trio.

"Basketball isn't grim at all this year," Lewis says. "Basketball" is the key to the CITY team. "In our own class we should give a good account of ourselves. Against teams in the V.I.P. category, we will have our work cut out for us."
