Two Seniors to Run For SC Presidency

Petitions for Student Council and Class Council positions are now available in 921. They must be returned by 4 p.m. today. Last week, two seniors—Bob Smith and Janet Weising—announced their candidacy for the SC Presidency, both are currently a council representative while Miss Minnigerode is SC Recording Secretary.

In the race for the presidency of Student Council, Bob Smith and Dave Tager have announced their candidacy. Both Smith and Tager were representatives of the Class of '62.

Wein is in a Class of '60 run, while Stein is a sophomore representing the Class of '64.

A petition letter from the student body, collected by the Student Council, contains signatures from 150 students favoring the candidacy of Wein.

Of yesterday's no had one for the Student Council Running Secretary position. Student council citizens included: Podofsky, news editor of THE TICKER.

Out-of-City Employment Urged by Placement Head

Baruch students were urged last week to "widen their geographical horizons" in seeking employment after graduation.

In a report presented to the Department of Student Life, Tuesday, Lawrence L. Lansner, director of the School's Placement Office, said students should not narrow their search for jobs to the "five boroughs" or "Manhattan-only" areas.

Mr. Lansner noted that job opportunities outside of the metropolitan area and out of the country are almost impossible to fill.

He said that many out-of-city firms call the Placement Office, but no students apply for these positions and the firms will send them again. Mr. Lansner asked that his office have many openings in the New Jersey and Long Island areas.

Opportunities To Grow

The Placement Director concluded by emphasizing that opportunities would grow tremendously if we can get a number of students to go out of the city.

In his report, Mr. Lansner cited a study made by Harvard University which predicted a decrease in opportunities in New York City and a growth in the service industries. The report said that opportunities would grow tremendously if we can get a number of students to go out of the city.

Job Expectations

Mr. Lansner told the students that expectations upon graduation depend on their specialization, grades, etc. He noted, however, that all students cannot expect the same job when they graduate because all students are not the same.

He added that many employers have commented that Baruch students "know the value of a job" and usually do "a day's work plus."

Seniors

All seniors, who haven't already done so, are urged to come to 921 to make photo appointments for the yearbook. This is the last chance to make appointments.
Lesson Unlearned

The Board of Education has refused to consider the students' demand that the student council be reinstated under the leadership of Melvin Weisberg. In a letter to the students, the Board's legal counsel, the late William Thayer, was quoted as saying that "the Board of Education has not been asked to consider the reinstatement of the student council under the leadership of any one person." This is particularly heartening to note that the Board of Education has not been asked to consider the reinstatement of the student council under the leadership of any one person.

There are many reasons suggested why the Board of Education has not been asked to consider the reinstatement of the student council under the leadership of any one person. These reasons include:

1. The Board of Education has not been asked to consider the reinstatement of the student council under the leadership of any one person because the students have not been asked to consider the reinstatement of the student council under the leadership of any one person.

2. The Board of Education has not been asked to consider the reinstatement of the student council under the leadership of any one person because the students have not been asked to consider the reinstatement of the student council under the leadership of any one person.

3. The Board of Education has not been asked to consider the reinstatement of the student council under the leadership of any one person because the students have not been asked to consider the reinstatement of the student council under the leadership of any one person.

Realty

It appears as if the Baruch School is leaving the students in the lurch by making it impossible for them to make an independent decision as to whether or not they want to continue in the same way as they have been doing in the past.

Correction

The Baruch School in its own way is making it impossible for the students to continue in the same way as they have been doing in the past. The Baruch School is doing this by making it impossible for the students to make an independent decision as to whether or not they want to continue in the same way as they have been doing in the past.

Basketball Season Begins

By Steve Rappaport

The City College basketball team will be looking to add more starts to its squad before the season begins. The team is looking to build on its impressive performance last year, which included a NYAC championship and a trip to the NCAA Division II tournament.

Julio Delatorre

The team has several key players returning, including senior center Julio Delatorre, who led the team in scoring with 15.5 points per game last season. Delatorre is expected to continue his dominant play and lead the team to another successful season.

Marty Groveman

Groveman is one of the team's most versatile players, capable of scoring from anywhere on the court. He is a key player for the team's success, and his scoring ability will be crucial in the team's quest for a trip to the NCAA tournament.

Guy Marcat

Marcat is a proven shooter for the team, who has shown the ability to make big shots in pressure situations. He will be relied upon to mash opponents and keep them from scoring.

The team will open its season on November 1st against a tough opponent, looking to build upon its success last year. With a strong squad and solid coaching, the City College basketball team is poised to make another run at the NYAC championship and beyond.
