Heald Report Submitted
Urging Tuition Charges At Municipal Colleges

President Buell G. Gallagher, chairman committee appointed by Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller to consider the possibility of putting an end to all tuition-free speech, has presented his report to the state legislature. The report, submitted to Governor Rockefeller, has been received and is now under consideration by the legislature.

The report recommends the establishment of a new system of tuition charges for higher education in the state. The system would be based on the principles of merit, need, and ability. The report also recommends the establishment of a new system of scholarships and grants to aid needy students.

The report has been widely praised by educators and students alike. Governor Rockefeller has expressed his approval of the report and has asked the legislature to consider its recommendations.

Lexicon Faces Many Enigmas

Lexicon '61, the senior yearbook of the school, faces a bleak future. It was learned last week by THE TICKET that the school has decided to discontinue the publication of the yearbook.

The decision to discontinue the publication of the yearbook was made by the school administration, who cited budget constraints as the primary reason for the decision. The publication of the yearbook has been a tradition at the school for many years, and its discontinuation has been met with sadness by many students and faculty members.

The yearbook, which is published annually, contains photos, articles, and other content contributed by students, faculty, and staff. It is a valuable resource for students who are interested in the history and culture of the school.

The decision to discontinue the publication of the yearbook has been met with a mix of reactions. Some students and faculty members are disappointed by the decision, while others are confident that the school will find a way to continue the tradition of publishing a yearbook in the future.

Church-related colleges and universities throughout the United States have established their own groups under the umbrella of the National Association of Church-Related Colleges (NACRC). The BHE, a member of this organization, has now expanded into a service program to benefit students in the New York City area.

The group will be marketed to all students at Baruch and in the City University of New York system. The goal is to raise $1 million by 1973, which would bring the total amount raised to $1.5 million by the end of the year.

The group is being marketed through a variety of methods, including a student leadership committee, which is headed by Dr. Paul Silverman, the Dean of the School of Business Administration.

2000 Signatures

The tuition free status of the municipal college system in New York City is deplorable. The system's press is full of propaganda in support of this status, but in general, the students are not satisfied. A recent survey revealed that 2000 signatures were collected to support the proposition that tuition be charged at the municipal colleges. We are forwarding these signatures to the Mayor and the Board of Estimate to demonstrate that there is a large body of public support for this proposal.

Expulsion Favorable

Minister of Education, New York, compared to other states, has been far more lenient toward students who commit serious offenses. This leniency has often been used by students to exploit the system. For example, a recent case involved a student who had been expelled from another school for stealing. When he entered the municipal college, he was allowed to continue his studies without any penalties. This case has shown that the system is not as serious as it claims to be.

Letters to The Editor

We have been receiving many letters from students who are unhappy with the treatment they have received at the municipal colleges. They feel that the system is unfair and that they are being exploited. We are forwarding these letters to the Mayor and the Board of Estimate to ensure that their concerns are addressed.

Restatement

We have previously stated our support for the Board of Higher Education in its efforts to improve the municipal college system. However, we feel that our support needs to be restated. The system is in need of major reforms, and we believe that the Board of Higher Education is the body best suited to address these issues.

Double Exposure

By Norman Kleinberg

The student enrollment at a school is a crucial factor in determining the quality of education. However, many students are excluded from the benefits of a quality education due to financial constraints. We believe that the system should provide more financial assistance to students in order to ensure that they have equal opportunities to succeed.

Tuition-Free Plan Installed To Assist African Students

By Pete Blank

The University of California, Berkeley, has installed a tuition-free plan to assist African students. This plan is designed to provide financial assistance to students who are unable to afford the costs of higher education. We believe that this is an important step in ensuring that all students have equal opportunities to succeed.

Dr. Vivian Mercier:

Professor Views California Students

By Joe Traum

Dr. Vivian Mercier, a professor at the University of California, Los Angeles, has recently expressed his views on California students. He believes that the system is failing to provide the necessary support to students who are struggling to succeed. We believe that this is an important issue that needs to be addressed.

Expansion Favorable

TV Instruction System Planned by City College

In two years, City College will inaugurate a good television system for instruction in some of its courses. Professor Henry Semat, chair of the Department of Physics and head of the department's television laboratory, is creating a delay in his basic courses. The funds are already available in the 1961-62 budget to purchase a television system for instruction in some of its courses.

Philosophy courses would be those most suitable for television instruction.
Beaver Basketball Team Prepares
Quintet Displays 1960 'New Look'

By Lew Lipset

City College's basketball five will have a new look when it opens its season against Wagner on December 1st. Missing will be Nat Holman, who retired in June from his long and illustrious career as Beaver mentor.

Also missing will be four of the Lavender's traditional rivals—New York University, St. John's, Manhattan and Fordham, who were dropped because of City's inability to compete with these "big time" powers. Replacing the Met rivals are smaller schools: Buffalo State, Northeastern, Bucknell, Upstate and American University.

Holman will be replaced by Dave Polansky, who by no means is unfamiliar with the Beavers. Polansky was the coach after Holman was forced to take a leave of absence last year with only three games of the season gone. He had been head coach in Holman's absence, guiding the team to a five-game winning streak.

Last year was an unsuccessful one for City as they won only two games and lost 14. Included in the losses were seven of nine Tri-State League games. The Beavers lost the first four, but re-
