State Senate Passes Bill for City University

The city colleges moved closer to university status last Monday night when the State Senate unanimously approved half of the two Zaretski-Brook bills. The second half is now in the Assembly. However, the legislation makes no change in the present tuition-free policy of the colleges. Introduced by Senator Joseph Zaretski, minority leader of the Senate and Assemblyman John R. Brook, the bills are designed to clear the way for expansion of the present curriculum to include graduate work towards doctoral degrees. The municipal colleges may not now award degrees above the master's.

G.H.E. Chairman Gustave G. Rosenberg said, "If the questions of free undergraduate tuition comes undergraduate tuition comes, we will tackle it then." Last December, a Board of Higher Education Committee to Look to the Future proposed the reform of educational institutions in the New York area. Under the plan, the Baruch School to discontinue its membership in the N.S.A.

The opponents contended that if the students want N.S.A. they cannot be given "directly or indirectly, in aid or main-or control of directions of education controlled by religious denominations." Senator John H. Hughes, a Republican, exhibited this feeling by urging the bill. The opponents argued that if the students want N.S.A. they must be willing to pay for it. They argued that the students pay for their association with the national group, but voted subdividing it, it would, in effect, ruin the affiliation.

The opponents also noted that the Baruchians may be in favor of an affiliation with N.S.A., but against allocating funds for representatives to the summer congress.

A Step Forward

City University of New York, with full power, and the University Board of Regents, will hold a special meeting Tuesday, February 28, at 12 in 507, to discuss the possibility of the establishment of a full-fledged university system in the city.

The University Board, which includes representatives of all of the city's colleges, will be called upon to make a recommendation to the Regents. The meeting will also be attended by representatives of the College of Liberal Arts, the College of Arts and Sciences, and the College of Education. The Board will also hear reports from the various colleges and departments.

The meeting will be open to the public, and all interested parties are encouraged to attend.

Beavers Split Two Games; To Play Hunter and Rider

City College's basketball team split two Tri-State League games this week, beating Bridgeport 76-67 Saturday and losing to league-leading Fairfield 22-77 Saturday.

The Beavers will play Marine Academy tomorrow night and participating host to Rider Saturday.

The victory over Bridgeport brought prominence to Baruchian playmaker — Baruchian Mike Winston. Winston's 15 point performance was of only secondary importance to his playmaking, which set up many scores and his ball-handling, which protected the Beavers from their opponents.

Leading only 37-36 at the half, the Beavers exploded in the second half to steadily pull away from their opponents. Tor Nilson hit 19 points to lead the Beavers and was followed by Shelly Bender with 17, Winston with 15, and Irwin Cohen with 14.

Also impressive was sophomore Don Sidat who tallied ten points, earning himself a starting position in the Fairfield game.

Fairfield came into the game with an 8-0 league record and had already clinched the league title for the second consecutive year.

The game was little contested as a steady flood of points poured into the Fairfield basket. Winston led the game at the half, 37-22. He had 11 points at the half, 37-22. Sidat was top man for City with 17 points, his career high.

Bob Hutter led Fairfield scorers with 17, Winston was top man for City with 17 points, his career high.

Hunter Game
Hunter will pose one main problem for City which will be stopping 6-6 Charley Rosen. Rosen is one of the Tri-State League's top scorers and recently scored 33 points. He is averaging about 25 points per game.

Rider who recently upset highly rated American University, is led by Bill Gramlich, a member of the All-League team last year. Rider has a 2-2 league record and is tied for fourth place with City.

City's Junior Varsity also split two games, losing to the C.W. Post game with 19 and 22 points respectively.
