Secretary of Labor Arthur Goldberg

Arthur J. Goldberg, Secretary of Labor of the United States, will deliver the major address of the 12th annual Charter Day Convocation Tuesday, May 22. His topic is not yet known.

Mr. Goldberg will be the ninth participant in the Bernard M. Baruch Distinguished Lecturer series. President Gallagher was the first speaker at last year's convocation and in 1960 Bernard Baruch and John McCloy highlighted the event. In previous years, Brigadier General David Sarnoff, Thomas J. Watson, Sr., Frank Pace, Jr., Paul G. Hoffman and Senators Herbert H. Lehman and Jacob R. Javits have spoken.

Mr. Goldberg was appointed Secretary of Labor by President John Kennedy December 12, 1960. Secretary Goldberg was the ninth child in his Chicago family. He received his elementary education in the Chicago public schools, graduating in 1924 from high school. Mr. Goldberg attended the City College of Chicago and North Western University, where he received the degree of Bachelor of Science in Law in 1929 and Doctor of Jurisprudence in 1930. He completed postgraduate courses at New York University and was the top student in his class.

CHENG HSI-LING, Press Officer, President Meng created a three-member committee which decided to hold a press conference to discuss the situation. I carry a very heavy responsibility for one's actions; the plea of temporary insanity is the defense of many people.

The traditional concept of individual responsibility has also been questioned. Social workers and psychologists, of course, have also been trying to modify what now seems a harsh decree.

The plea of temporary insanity is the defense of many people. The line? We may say that the insane person is not responsible for his actions has now become a moot point. This is the case in the defense of insanity. The plea of temporary insanity is the defense of many people.

A Success?

At the recent meeting of the Student Senate, the committee on special elections adopted a resolution which would allow the Student Senate to hold special elections during their regular meetings. The resolution was passed unanimously, and it is expected that the Student Senate will use this new power to hold special elections on a regular basis.

Elevators and Space

The Student Senate has recently discussed the issue of elevators and space on campus. The senators have expressed concern about the limited availability of elevators and the lack of adequate space for student activities. The Student Senate has recommended that the administration take steps to address these issues, including the installation of more elevators and the expansion of existing facilities.

Brooklyn Defeats Lavender
For Eleventh Baseball Loss

By Steve Rosenblatt

Brooklyn College's baseball team wiped out an early lead to edge City 13-12, Wednesday in a non-league affair on the Kingsmen's field. It was the Beavers' eleventh consecutive loss against one win.

City, scored up a 3-0 lead at the end of two innings, making seven of its ten hits. Highlights of the second included were Ron Marin's terrific triple and Baruchian Mary Cacciatore's third homer of the year, a long drive over the left field fence.

However, after the outburst, Brooklyn chipped away at the lead and went on top with a run in the eighth.

City out-hit the winners 13-9, but Brooklyn knocked around thirteen walks. Three of Brooklyn's nine safeties were doubles.

The Beavers dropped five other contests including three league games by close scores during the spring season.

Shortstop Mike Gremban was the hard luck loser in 16 games. He sent the ball against right-fielder John's, but killed in the first frame. Gremban also dropped a 5-1 decision to Fornal on an error to center.

Baruchian Richie Stein placed seventh on the sixth inning.

The Beavers lost the second game of the twin-bill 5-4 Wednesday at Roosevelt Field. Brooklyn, 5-4, and stretch its winning streak to 24 games.

Hilton and Hofstra were the other teams to inflict defeats by 15-8 and 8-2 scores, respectively.

The Tigers did it behind the five-hit pitching of Alan Schofield, who held a no-hitter against City last Sunday, Frazetta drove in three.

The Hofstra baseball team scored a whipping handed to them earlier this year.

Pioneers, Kingsmen Vanquished

City's track team maintained its winning ways last week by defeating C.W. Post and Brooklyn College by 70-60 and 113-2-3-2 2-4, respectively. The Beavers have now won three consecutive dual meets.

In other events during the spring vacation, Coach Francisco Castro's men placed third in the Collegiate Track Conference's one-mile relay at the Queen's-Lona events, April 21 and fourth in the third section of the Silver Baton Meet at Philadelphia.

In the C.W. Post meet at Brooklyn, the Long Island Wednesday the Beavers, paced by Leni Zanne and Vern Harns, took third in the finals event. After finishing Mike Schermerhorn, a student from South Africa, captured the first two-weeks Bill DeAngelo started C.C.N.Y. on the victory trail by setting the 800-yard run in 2:25 Sept. 28.

In the 440-yard run, City's Bill Vasquez, Bill Hill and Joel Saland first, second and third. Hill's round out his day with victories in the mile and the mile run with 4:36 and 9:07.

In the field events, City was victorious in the shot put and the javelin throw, while Zanne broke the meet high jump record with a leap of 5-9.7. The post won the meet 33-7.7.

Coach Castro and his men take all sixteen events in the dual meet against Brooklyn's Kingsmen April 23 at Lewishaw Stadium.

A strong comeback enabled City College's tennis team to nip Brooklyn College, 5-1, and stretch its winning skein to six matches.

The netmen also defeated Pratt, Queens and New York State Maritime during the spring vacation. Each contest was won by a 9-0 score.

In the contest at Brooklyn April 25, all winning teams claimed 4-2 at the end of six singles matches. Al Smith and Bernhard Wasserman were the only two winners for City. Stan Freundlich, Karl Otto, Joe Borowski and Jeff Zupan lost their matches, matches, each of the players having been undefeated.

However, the Beavers rebounded and captured three of their four doubles matches. Smith and Freundlich, last year's Metropolitan Conference Doubles Champions, were the form as they defeated Jeff Pomerance and Ben Gibbs, 6-5, 6-5.

After a week of weather and Wasserman clicked, and united to beat Steve Robin and Bob Goldstein. In the final match Borowski and Steve Karin and Bill Ames 6-1, 6-4.

The netmen have two more tough matches remaining before they can claim the Metropolitan Championship. They play Kings Point, the defending kings, Saturday, and next Wednesday visit Adelphi, a strong contender for the crown.

Violets Also Beaten

City College's freshman baseballers split four games during the spring vacation. The Beavers defeated N.Y.U., 7-6, and Cuba, 10-2.

Center fielder Ray Cortez paced the team in both victories. He was four-for-four against the Kingsmen and two for four against the Violets.

Baruchian Neil Silverman picked up the win in relief against Brook-lyn, which added eighteen hits to their offensive total. Bill DeAngelo turned in a nine-hit performance.

The John Peter Zenger Case

By Bob Signer

During the mid-18th century, the American colonies faced a battle for freedom. One of the most important figures in this struggle was John Peter Zenger, a printer and journalist who stood up for the rights of the people against the oppressive British government.

Zenger was born in Germany in 1719 and came to America as a child. He settled in New York City, where he became a printer and editor of the New York Weekly Journal. Zenger's newspaper was known for its outspoken criticism of the British government and its policies.

In 1733, Zenger published an article criticizing Governor William Cosby, who was accused of corruption and abuse of power. Cosby ordered Zenger's newspaper to stop publishing any articles critical of him. When Zenger refused, he was charged with libel, a crime that was punishable by a fine or imprisonment.

Zenger's trial became a symbol of the struggle for freedom of the press and the right to speak out against tyranny. The case was heard by the Supreme Court of New York, and Zenger was found not guilty, setting a precedent for the freedom of the press.

Zenger's victory was a significant moment in the struggle for freedom in America. It helped to establish the principle that the government cannot silence the press, and it paved the way for the development of a free press in the United States.

The John Peter Zenger Case

Thudner on the Right

By Dr. Fred L. Israel

Who does the federal government serve? The courts? The Constitution? The people? Or do they serve the few? This is the question posed by Dr. Fred L. Israel in his latest book, "Thunder on the Right." Israel argues that the federal government has become a tool of the rich and powerful, serving the interests of a few at the expense of the many.

Israel cites examples of the federal government's policies, such as the War on Drugs and the War on Terror, which he argues are not in the best interest of the American people. He argues that these policies are designed to maintain the power of the wealthy and the military-industrial complex, and that they serve to divert the attention of the public from the real issues facing the country.

Israel also criticizes the erosion of civil liberties and the erosion of the rule of law. He argues that the federal government has become a tool of the rich and powerful, serving the interests of a few at the expense of the many.

"Thunder on the Right" is a call to action for all who believe in the principles of democracy and the rule of law. It is a call to reject the policies of the rich and powerful, and to fight for a government that serves the interests of all the people.
Magic for the Millions

By Dr. Margaret Servio

Recently the American-Foreign Lady, Margaret Servio, visited this country to discuss the "magic" two weeks of her life.

I, too, as I look back on nearly two months in this country, can see clearly the "magic" two weeks of my life.

Although I was not exactly a "magic" woman, I did find three surprises in the country. The first was the magic of the people, the second was the magic of the land, and the third was the magic of the "moon." In short, letting the "magic" tourists that fate than on the trains.

And so I turn to the "magic" of the people. For supporters of Western liberalism, liberal White American, and each group has a liberal White American to each Coors unaffected, he will argue; that the American

Clichés of the Classroom

By Dr. Harry Leston

The new model of the television set as 'the third' one in a classroom is like that of the new bus. It is an improvement over the old one, but you still have to sit at the back of the room and attend while the person at the front of the room is talking. It is not much better than the old one, and if we could have made a better one, we would have. But the television set and the bus are the same thing, and they are both good enough for their purpose.

On the subject of television, it is interesting to note that the television set is the only one of the three that is actually used in a classroom. The other two are used only as a means of entertainment. The television set is used for entertainment in the classroom, but not for education. The bus is used for transportation, but not for education.
