Gallagher Announces Opening Of CUNY Doctoral Programs

President Buell G. Gallagher has announced that a program leading to doctorates in four fields will begin at the City University September 1962. The statement was made Wednesday at a student press conference.

The City University had originally asked for a combined total of six million dollars from the state and city to begin the Ph.D. programs this fall. When it was originally announced that the state would contribute only one million dollars and the city would contribute little or nothing, the Board of Higher Education stated that the program would not begin this year. However, the city announced later that it would contribute the same amount as the state had. This reversal prompted the City University to start the programs this fall.

The four fields in which the doctoral programs will be given are:

- Economics, which will be housed at Hunter College and taught by professors from the City University.
- English, based at Hunter College and taught by professors from the City University.
- General psychology, based at Brooklyn College and taught by professors from the City University.
- Chemistry, with the executive officer at Brooklyn College and the teaching done at each institution by the professors at that school.

Ph.D. programs were expected to be moved to a plot on the City College campus uptown. The program was recently taken over by the federal government.

The faculty will strive to "strengthen and enrich the total educational environment as well."

At the meeting, Dr. Everett stated, "It would be professionally irresponsible for the university administration to recommend that Ph.D. candidates be admitted to even severely limited Ph.D. programs if only the state's $1,000,000 is available for the 1962-1963 session. The administration of the university is prepared to recommend the acceptance of doctoral candidates in chemistry, economics, English and psychology in the fall of 1962 if an additional $1,000,000 is made available by the city."

When asked about the possibility of obtaining an increase for the following year, Dr. Gallagher emphasized that "increases are still necessary." However, he said that when the state and city granted the City University funds, it was for a fiscal year. This year's increase will bring these funds up to the level of the previous year.

A crucial matter was the reversal of the previous decision to give the Ph.D. program to City College. The president said that the Ph.D. program was expected to "strengthen and enrich the total educational environment as well."

President Gallagher also announced that Hamilton Grange, the home of Alexander Hamilton, will be moved to a plot on the City College campus uptown. This announcement was taken over by the federal government, but it will be on City College land. Dr. Gallagher stated that the award was given for outstanding service abroad.

Students and a Film

A picture was shown in a classroom last week. It followed the opening of a speech which is a reproduction of the course. The main picture was important, however, because it depicted the college students' ability to think and react. After studying the film, we can see that all the students had the same reactions. Since the students were able to react to what they saw, it is possible to see what their reactions were. The students were divided on what their reactions were. Some believed that the film was important while others did not. It was not possible to tell for certain what the students' reactions were. However, it is important that the students were able to react to what they saw. They were able to see what was happening and this is what they should be doing.

I am writing to express my concern about the slow elevator service. The service is extremely slow and is often delayed. This is causing a lot of frustration among the students and faculty. I believe that we need to take action to improve the elevator service. I would like to suggest that we increase the number of elevators and improve the maintenance of the existing ones.
