BHE Receives Baruch School Analysis

New Building Sought; 'Independence' Asked

A new downtown site with new and larger facilities for Baruch School was recommended to the Board of Higher Education at its meeting last night.

In addition, the "eventual elevation of the Baruch School to the status of an independent college in the City University system" was also recommended.

The other suggestions were made by Donald P. Cunick, dean of the College of Education, Ohio State University in Columbus, and by Dr. Suzanne C. Rosenberg, chairman of the BHE, who prepared some of the recommendations.

Another recommendation that the BHE was asked to consider was the raising of entrance requirements for the Baruch School to the same level as the other colleges in the City University system. Although the entrance requirements based on high school average are the same, the cut-off point for students without the requisite average is lower at the Baruch School.

In answer to another query, Dr. Rosenberg stated: "The CoTs reported that "a group of affiliated institutes should be created to carry out activities neglected in the past at the Baruch School."

The role and needs of the BHE were considered essential in the report. The BHE was asked to consider the recommendation that the new facilities for the Baruch School be shared by the Baruch School and the City University system, which would provide the present building. However, the area is considered a high-traffic area and sharing classroom facilities is, to have separate quarters for its independent faculty and staff since it is to be administratively separate from the Baruch School.

Baruch to be Present At Ceremonies Today

By Mark Grant

Bernard M. Baruch and Dr. Buell G. Gallagher will be present at the Baruch School commencement at 12 to witness the presentation of the diplomas by the chancellor.

Dr. John R. Everett

Dr. Everett has played a prominent role in initiating the doctoral program to start in September 1963. Dr. Rosenberg, chairman of the Board of Higher Education, will present the thesis at the creation of the City University. Without him we would not have it.

However, recently there has been strong criticism of the lack of financial support provided for the additional students by the city and state. Although Dr. Rosenberg had urged a doctoral program to begin in nine fields, funds are available for only four fields. It has been noted that there were many bitter scenes arguments about the graduate program, in which the board frequently disagreed with the chancellor.

The chancellor has stated that he would not be available for the graduation if he were to be offered to him. In answer to another query, he stated that the chancellor's position should exist in the City University system.

(Continued on Page 3)

Final Examinations Schedule

The following is the revised final examinations schedule.

Tuesday-May 29

Law 102, 104

1:00 p.m.

Advt. 124

Comp. Lit. 89

Eco. 126

Int. Tr. 114

Law 11

Mktg. 205

Phi. 39

Psy. 180

Pub. Rel. 120

Ret. 239

Chem. 18.2B

Mktg. 116

Friday-June 1

9:00 a.m.

Advt. 227

Eco. 7.186

Engl. 42.22

Int. Tr. 114

Mktg. 206

Phi. 19

Psy. 180

Pub. Rel. 120

Ret. 239

Soc. 5.26

(Continued on Page 3)
...the great mass of students suddenly labored under the assumption that the most important approval is the approval of the majority of the students. The Baruch School does not have a majority. It has a great many students, some of whom agree with each other, some of whom disagree with each other, some of whom are communistic or other-tarian, and some of whom are not. It is hardly less threatening that at Baruch, the most important approval is not the approval of the majority of the students, but the approval of the students themselves. It is hardly less threatening that at Baruch, the most important approval is not the approval of the majority of the students, but the approval of the students themselves. It is hardly less threatening that at Baruch, the most important approval is not the approval of the majority of the students, but the approval of the students themselves. It is hardly less threatening that at Baruch, the most important approval is not the approval of the majority of the students, but the approval of the students themselves. It is hardly less threatening that at Baruch, the most important approval is not the approval of the majority of the students, but the approval of the students themselves. It is hardly less threatening that at Baruch, the most important approval is not the approval of the majority of the students, but the approval of the students themselves. It is hardly less threatening that at Baruch, the most important approval is not the approval of the majority of the students, but the approval of the students themselves. It is hardly less threatening that at Baruch, the most important approval is not the approval of the majority of the students, but the approval of the students themselves. It is hardly less threatening that at Baruch, the most important approval is not the approval of the majority of the students, but the approval of the students themselves. It is hardly less threatening that at Baruch, the most important approval is not the approval of the majority of the students, but the approval of the students themselves. It is hardly less threatening that at Baruch, the most important approval is not the approval of the majority of the students, but the approval of the students themselves. It is hardly less threatening that at Baruch, the most important approval is not the approval of the majority of the students, but the approval of the students themselves. It is hardly less threatening that at Baruch, the most important approval is not the approval of the majority of the students, but the approval of the students themselves. It is hardly less threatening that at Baruch, the most important approval is not the approval of the majority of the students, but the approval of the students themselves. It is hardly less threatening that at Baruch, the most important approval is not the approval of the majority of the students, but the approval of the students themselves. It is hardly less threatening that at Baruch, the most important approval is not the approval of the majority of the students, but the approval of the students themselves. It is hardly less threatening that at Baruch, the most important approval is not the approval of the majority of the students, but the approval of the students themselves. It is hardly less threatening that at Baruch, the most important approval is not the approval of the majority of the students, but the approval of the students themselves. It is hardly less threatening that at Baruch, the most important approval is not the approval of the majority of the students, but the approval of the students themselves. It is hardly less threatening that at Baruch, the most important approval is not the approval of the majority of the students, but the approval of the students themselves. It is hardly less threatening that at Baruch, the most important approval is not the approval of the majority of the students, but the approval of the students themselves. It is hardly less threatening that at Baruch, the most important approval is not the approval of the majority of the students, but the approval of the students themselves. It is hardly less threatening that at Baruch, the most important approval is not the approval of the majority of the students, but the approval of the students themselves. It is hardly less threatening that at Baruch, the most important approval is not the approval of the majority of the students, but the approval of the students themselves. It is hardly less threatening that at Baruch, the most important approval is not the approval of the majority of the students, but the approval of the students themselves. It is hardly less threatening that at Baruch, the most important approval is not the approval of the majority of the students, but the approval of the students themselves. It is hardly less threatening that at Baruch, the most important approval is not the approval of the majority of the students, but the approval of the students themselves. It is hardly less threatening that at Baruch, the most important approval is not the approval of the majority of the students, but the approval of the students themselves. It is hardly less threatening that at Baruch, the most important approval is not the approval of the majority of the students, but the approval of the students themselves. It is hardly less threatening that at Baruch, the most important approval is not the approval of the majority of the students, but the approval of the students themselves. It is hardly less threatening that at Baruch, the most important approval is not the approval of the majority of the students, but the approval of the students themselves. It is hardly less threatening that at Baruch, the most important approval is not the approval of the majority of the students, but the approval of the students themselves. It is hardly less threatening that at Baruch, the most important approval is not the approval of the majority of the students, but the approval of the students themselves. It is hardly less threatening that at Baruch, the most important approval is not the approval of the majority of the students, but the approval of the students themselves. It is hardly less...
Beavers End Season With Loss to Hunter

City College's baseball team ended a disappointing season by losing to Hunter, 9-1, in a non-league encounter Thursday on the Hawks' field. It was the Beavers' seventeenth defeat in nineteen outings. They finished in sixth place in the Metropolitan Conference with a .382 record. This is the ninth season since 1953 that the Beavers have won a second division spot but the first time in four seasons that the team has finished in eighth place.

The Beavers dropped their final league tilt to Met champion St. John's, 14-2, May 14 on the warriors' field. However, hopes for next year are brighter since the team's leading pitchers are returning. Mike Lester and Zane Doody and Leo Klauber '23, the president of Metropolitan Conference Standings.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Name</th>
<th>W-L</th>
<th>W-L</th>
<th>W-L</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Mike</td>
<td>11</td>
<td>10</td>
<td>3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lester</td>
<td>11</td>
<td>5</td>
<td>5</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Doody</td>
<td>4</td>
<td>2</td>
<td>12</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Klauber</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Greenman, a sophomore, will be one of the heroes coming back. He lost five games in five outings—three of them by one run.

Howie Friedman, who won the Beavers' only two games, will be returning next season as a senior. He was defeated six times. Three other pitchers who saw extensive service, Richie Stearn, Vin Callapistas and Paul Lamprecht, will also be back. In addition, most of the starting lineup will return with a year of experience.

Against St. John's, the Beavers proved nine runs in the first two innings as the Redmen coasted to victory. The triumph equaled the conference record for wins set by N.Y.U. in 1948. The following day Manhattan crushed Manhattan, 13-1, to break the mark.

The Hunter loss followed a different pattern from previous Beavers games. C.C.N.Y. took a three run lead in the first inning, but then the Hawks scored two in the first and four in the second to pull away.

Beaver coach Frank Seely tried a new plan in an attempt to win. He let Ron Marino, a shortstop and center fielder, hurl seven innings.

Sport Shorts

Columbia had to wait until the final event to defeat a stubborn City College track team, 79-76, at Baker Field Saturday. It was the Beavers' third defeat in six dual meets. The Lions' victory in the one-mile relay put them on top. It was Columbia's thirteenth first-place finish of the seventeen events.

City's Benny Zane won the one-mile run in his best time of the season, 4:25.6. The Lavender also had the first three finishers (Mike Dudy, Mike Lester and Zane) in the two-mile run.

Awards Presented At Sports Night

The City College sports tradition (scholastically talented students who excel on the athletic field) was praised at the college's seventeenth annual All-Sports Night Thursday at the Prince George Hotel.

Twenty-seven players were accorded special honors, while 20 major and minor letters were awarded at the dinner attended by more than 500 C.C.N.Y. athletes, alumni, faculty members, friends and students.

Benny Friedman, director of athletics at Brandeis University and former football coach at City, was the guest speaker. Friedman was a former all-American gridiron star at Michigan.

President Buell G. Gallagher also spoke and expounded the College's free tuition policy. He noted that at school which gives no athletic scholarships must put an extra drive into sports contests.

Others speakers were Dr. Gustave Rosenberg, the chairman of the Board of Higher Education, and Leo Klauber '23, the president of the Alumni Varsity Association. The teammaster, Clifford O. Anderson '22, was a former Beaver basketball standout in the early 1920's.

Houtkruyer Citie As Athlete-of-Year

Ed Lucia beamed. His dream of mostly Ivy League schools, as the College's athlete-of-the-year, the Ben Wallace Memorial Award of the Class of 1913, went to Andre Houtkruyer. American soccer goals. Houtkruyer is in the armed services and Coach Hal Karlin accepted the trophy for him.

The Walter Tannick Award as the most valuable basketball player was presented to Tor Nilsen, a Tri-State League first team selection and an all-Metropolitan college second team choice. Nilsen also received the National Scholarship Award presented by the former basketball coach. This presentation evoked a round of applause, in appreciation of Professor Holman.

Mike Winston was honored with the Mr. Morris Schwartzfarb Award as the most valuable basketball player. He let Ron Marino, a shortstop and center fielder, hurl seven innings.

For the Very Best in FOOD ATMOSPHERE PRICES

It's the VARSITY

SWEET SHOP

Downtown City's Favorite Eating Place.

THE NEW LOOK

ALADIN COFFEE SHOP

(NEXT DOOR to CCNY)

Welcome

All City College