It was one week ago, and Mike Del Giudiee, Mark Grant, and I were at our printers' shop waiting for Steve Eagle to phone us with the results of the Assembly's vote from Albany. At last the phone rang, and at last we heard the news we had all been waiting for. The Assembly had defeated a motion to discharge from committee a bill mandating free tuition at the City University. We, the students, had lost.

At last the phone rang, and at last we heard the news.

"Therefore, a headline was drafted which was rather surprising," said Mike Del Giudiee.

"It is true? Has the fight that so many did so much to aid ended, we all knew was coming, the news we had hoped would not.

Gallagher: ‘Fight Has Not Begun’

Although the bills to mandate free tuition were discharged from committee, President Buell G. Gallagher declared that "we have not yet begun to fight." At a press conference for student newspapers, Thursday.

"We are still hopeful," stated the president, "that the Republicans will release some of their own money in favor of free tuition during the legislative session."

In reference to the referendum on the strike for free tuition, Dr. Gallagher said that he "questions the wisdom in striking against ourselves. Why should the student cut their own educational opportunities?"

He emphasized that he was in favor of any constructive demonstration in favor of free tuition.

Lansdowne View's Job Hunting In Large, Small Business

Job hunting in New York City and career utilization of the alumni of the College Office was dedicated Thursday at the Student Center for the Advancement of Management by Lawrence R. Van Dyke, director. The event was sponsored by Mr. Van Dyke.

The lecture will be sponsored by the Student Center and the school will be held in the memory of Orlando T. Anderson. In an attempt to reach the students' audience to the opportunity for a career, the lecture will be held in the memory of Orlando T. Anderson.

The general trend in the distribution of the graduates in the fall of 1964 shows a reduction in the number of students in the spring. However, the spring is still high.

Mr. Van Dyke is director of the school and, in addition to this position, he is also a member of the advisory board of the school.

Free Tuition — Our Pledge

In an attempt to get them to reason and to buy, some people are offering to give a student a tuition-free ride for an entire year. This is a ploy which is sure to work for an individual student, but it is not a pledge to the entire student body. A pledge to the student body must be based on a plan for an entire year, and such a plan must be carefully worked out and agreed upon by all members of the student body.

One such plan is the Free Tuition Program, which is being planned by the Student Council. The program will be based on a plan for the entire year, and it will be designed to provide for free tuition for all members of the student body. The plan will be presented to the Student Council, and it will be debated and voted upon by all members of the student body.

The Free Tuition Program will be based on the principle that education is a right, and that every student has the right to receive an education at the taxpayer's expense. The program will be designed to provide for free tuition for all members of the student body, and it will be voted upon by all members of the student body.

City Harriers Deadlocked In Tournay

By Joe Rosenberg

City College's indoor track and field team topped one meet mark and set another in a three-way tie for second place in the Collegiate Track Conference Indoor Championships Saturday at Queens College. First place went to Iona with forty-two points. The Lauder, Kings Point, and Fairleigh Dickinson scored thirty-four points apiece. Montclair State followed with fourteen.

The highlight was the Beavers' triumph in the one-mile-relay. City set a new meet mark of 3:27 to break the former record of 3:31:36 set by Iona last year.

In the 1,000-yard run, Lenny Zuckerman set a record with a 2:17:8. Baruchian Jim Bums placed first in the mile run with a 4:33:5. Second place medals were awarded to Paul Bronstein, for a 40-9 toss in the shot put and to Norm Jackman, in the javelin. A new record of 24 feet was established in the pole vault.

In the 60-yard dash, Owen Mastic of St B's was disqualified. However, Bill Casey registered a 1:13:8 in the finals.

The Beavers scored fourth in three events. In the broad jump, Bill Hill jumped 19'-6". In the high jump, Dick Wilhelm reached a height of six feet and in the two-mile-relay they placed second in 3:18:8.

Injuries Plague JV Cagers But CCNY Hits 5-5 Mark

Despite key injuries throughout the season, the City College junior varsity basketball team finished its season with a 5-5 record. The five victories came against Queens, the New York Community College (2), and Cathedral College (2).

The team produced two players who averaged in double figures. The first was high scorer Ken Trevi, who hit 22.2 p.p.g. and led the team in almost every department. The other was senior guard Johnny Klein, who averaged 12.5, but saw action in only four games, because of an ankle injury.

Sharing the far positions with Trevi was Junior Dave Saks, who averaged 10.0. The third of the starting five was senior Larry Siegel (2.8), who took over the scoring chores when Trevi was out of action. While scoring, he also did both a good job of blocking the outside.

Ken decided to study accounting in his senior year at Andrew Jackson High School. He received an Alumni Scholarship offer from Virginia where his father was an All-American football tackle in 1934. But Virginia did not have an accounting program so the offer joins this outside organization to which belong some of the best fencers in the country. By fencing the Beavers, he gains valuable experience.

At a typical fencing practice session, the team practices combinations, with the emphasis on repetition. The fencers work in pairs, putting their techniques into practice. When a combination is well developed, it is used to train the United State-Olympic team. Mobility training: fencing choreography, where the team practices the motions until they become a habit.

During the remainder of the season the team practices in the gymnasium, and celebrates its birthdays. The Beavers are expected to perform well in the national championships this year. Larry Klein, a senior, is expected to lead the team to victory.
