Six Student Seats Asked

A motion calling last week's Ticker Association election "a mockery of democracy" and recommending a change in membership of the committee was passed by Student Council 18-1 Thursday.

The motion, sponsored by Thomas Murray, denied the election of Harvey Marks '68 to editor-in-chief of The Ticker and recommended the resignations of two other members of the Student Board. Marks defeated Frank O'Connor, the current editor-in-chief, in the election.

Text of Council Motion on Ticker Election

The School's newspaper may be responsible and responsive to the needs of the student body and, therefore, the proposals of the newspaper staff and the student body, should be so presented as to ensure a process which primarily involves student participation in the editorial process.

However, Wednesday's Ticker meeting, an apparent weakness in our present system was revealed. Seven student leaders were formed, one of them being the editor-in-chief of the Daily Telegraph, the editor-in-chief of the Daily Telegraph, the president of the House Plan Association, and previous members of the Ticker. These seven leaders, elected by the Student Board, were recommended to select candidates for the Ticker's upcoming elections.

Therefore, the Student Council recommends that the elected editors-in-chief and editorials of the newspaper be elected by the student body, thereby increasing student participation in the editorial process.

At yesterday's meeting, it became apparent that the present makeup of the Ticker Association would not be able to provide the necessary participation of the student body. The motion was passed, and the results were announced.

Cassidy Also A Candidate

Mr. Marks defeated Frank O'Connor, the current editor-in-chief of The Ticker.

The Student Council's motion was passed, and the results were announced.

TAC Election Is Criticized

The Thunder has received a number of letters concerning the recent election of the Student Council. The election was held on May 23 and was conducted in a fair and orderly manner.

However, some students have expressed dissatisfaction with the results of the election. They have accused the election of being unfair and biased.

One student wrote, "The election was not conducted fairly. I believe that the students who were elected were not the best candidates for the positions they were elected to." Another student wrote, "I believe that the election was biased and that the students who were elected were not qualified to serve in the positions they were elected to."

Verner was second with 184. Levitt led with 270 votes. Nick forces swung their votes to force the anti-discrimination laws.

Levitt is a member of the Peace Corps or "VTS-MDGC Pi." A proposal urging the implementation of the Peace Corps or "VTS-MDGC Pi." at the School was defeated.

At the end of the first ballot, Mr. O'Connor, who won on the second ballot, found a job for the summer, if you weren't feeling well during the winter term, you were never feeling well during the winter term.

The Ticker that I know and care for no longer exists. It is a step at making the School newspaper a free newspaper. A responsible editorial board, pride, and genuine concern for The Ticker, a force for change and reform. You have gone too far this time.

Marks Is Chosen Editor-in-Chief of Ticker

Seven students spoke in Mr. Cassidy's behalf or praised his ability to return the newspaper to its former role. Those who spoke were Mel Katz '66 and Norman Lipton '67, former student council presidents; Howard Mushkin '67, the president-elect of the Interfraternity Council; Steve Feldman '66, the president of House Plan Association; Tom Nicot '65, former editor-in-chief of The Ticker; Bob Famighetti '57, present editor-in-chief, and Paul Rogoff '68, the association editor.

One faculty member in attendance and several students said they did not speak because they believed that Mr. Cassidy's election was assured. One student speaker pointed to his past experience as an editor and the respect which leaders of the student body held for him.

Mr. Lipton noted that, when he was the president of the student body and offered to go to the editor-in-chief, Mr. Cassidy said he was willing because he believed that Mr. Cassidy's election was assured. It has been rumored for several weeks that a change in The Ticker's editorship would occur.Associate Dean of Students David Newton had asked Paul Namm '68, the editor-in-chief of The Greek Way, L.C.'s newspaper, to run for editor-in-chief. When Mr. Cassidy heard the decision, he noted, "I couldn't believe it because the criteria used to make the judgment were not apparent to me. Also, no criticism of my work on The Ticker was brought up at the meeting."

Mr. Cassidy, in addition to having served five terms as the editor-in-chief of The Ticker, is the chairman of the Sigma Alpha Cultural Affairs Committee, selected to the Dean's List, and was formerly a Baruch School Fellow of the International Board.

The meeting lasted from three to six thirty. The executive session lasted about forty minutes. While the members of the association were in executive session, students in attendance at the meeting joined other students gathering to learn the results of Council's election of representatives and Class Council executives. There was no doubt, is there? Mr. Marks later commented that he was sure he had been defeated and he was ready to go home. Students still expressed "shock and dismay" at the outcome of the election, days after it had occurred.
