NSA Financially Tied To CIA; Berman Warns of Disaffiliation

NSA Benefits Cited By SC Head

"I would hope that the current controversy concerning the Central Intelligence Agency and the National Student Association will not lead to mass disaffiliation by member schools," stated Marc Berman '67, president of Student Council.

The disclosure last week that the National Student Association was receiving large sums of money from the Central Intelligence Agency has led to controversy amongst many people and organizations which are involved.

"Mr. Berman added, "It is unfortunate to see that the NSA"

Graduate Center Expands: Enrollment Reaches 2000

By MICHAEL DUNST

The City University Graduate Center is in the process of rapidly expanding in order to accommodate up to 5,000 doctoral students. Nine hundred sixty-seven students are currently enrolled in doctoral programs, a thirty-five percent increase over the 634 enrolled in the fall of 1965.

As of December 1966, almost sixty-five percent of the doctoral students, who were advanced in their course work, have taken the remainder of these seventeen story building at 33 West 42 Street where it already has quarters.

The centers, as a criteria for acceptance, have three-hundred member schools across the United States.

Students Demonstrate Outside BHE; Want Recognition of College Courses

"Two, four, six, eight, the BHE's got to go," chanted over two hundred college freshmen from the arts faculty of the City University of New York's newly created College of Arts and Sciences in protest because of board's policy, decision regarding college courses.

"The students, members of the Baruch School, were requesting a reconsideration of the B.H.E. policy decision stating that these students would have to present for acceptance to one of the senior colleges a high school average of eighty-five percent or a composite score of one hundred and fifty-four.

The students were most disturbed by the decision of the Baruch School to not accept the students who were denied admission to the senior colleges because of lack of funds.

The students were notified by mail during the summer of the Baruch School's decision, and that all students would be placed by September of 1967.

According to Melanie Herman, who led the original drive for the establishment of the center, Dr. Albert Bowker, Chancellor of the B.H.E., told them that they were C.U.N.Y. freshmen. Miss Herman further noted that numerous state legislators take this statement to mean that as freshmen they should be able to present, and in addition to their high school record, their college grades during their stay in the centers, as a criteria for acceptance.

Administrative Vice Chancellor C. Lyman Lowery mentioned that "he was glad that there was a reconsideration of the Baruch School's policy decision regarding college courses."
Levy Tells of Friendship with Eliot (Continued from Page 3)

Levy frequently stayed at Eliot's apartment, which is a relaxing weekend, and often met friends there. "Eliot's room is one of the most comfortable in the building," he said. "It has a warm and inviting atmosphere, and we always enjoy spending time together."

Levy remembers first meeting Eliot in 1941 at the time of his Harvard graduation. "I was fortunate enough to be one of the first people to meet him," Levy said. "He was so kind and personable, and I knew immediately that we would be friends for life."

Levy and Eliot had similar interests in literature and art, which led to many conversations and shared experiences. "We often discussed our favorite books and artists, and sometimes we would go to see plays and movies together," Levy said. "Our friendship was always characterized by a deep understanding and respect for each other's ideas and perspectives."
School Placement Director Explains Shortage of Summer Employment

By LAWRENCE LEMBER

The following excerpt is from a recent article in the New York Times

Hiring: Why a period of low unemployment... (Read more)

School Placement Director Explains Shortage of Summer Employment

By LAWRENCE LEMBER

The following excerpt is from a recent article in the New York Times

Hiring: Why a period of low unemployment... (Read more)

School Placement Director Explains Shortage of Summer Employment

By LAWRENCE LEMBER

The following excerpt is from a recent article in the New York Times

Hiring: Why a period of low unemployment... (Read more)
Neglected Suggestions

Petitions for Student Council positions are gaining popularity. A number of suggestions, caused primarily by the inability of the Student Council to address many of the students' concerns about nitty-gritty campus life, have been made over the years by many students on the campus. We are grateful to the Student Council for its efforts and appreciate its help in making the campus a better place to live.

Baruch School - 2006

By: Paul Medoff

It is the time of year when Baruch School is planning for the new academic year. As of this year, our "new" student bodies are starting to take shape, and we are looking forward to the new academic year.

The Chancellor Speaks

By: Michael Stern

The chancellor of the City University of New York was speaking at a recent conference on the future of higher education. He discussed the importance of providing access to a quality education for all students, regardless of their background or financial situation.

End of Free Tuition?

There is no evidence at the moment that tuition prices will continue to rise at the same pace as the previous year. However, some experts predict that tuition prices will increase by as much as 5% in the next year. This could have a significant impact on families who are already struggling to pay for their child's education.

Of Hobbits and All That

By: Marshall Eizen and Robert Healy

A letter to the editor, signed by a student, has been published in the New York Times. The student is critical of the decision made by the New York City Board of Education to reduce the number of hours dedicated to the English language arts curriculum. The student believes that this decision will have a negative impact on the quality of education for all students.

A Move to Harlem

The school board has announced plans to move the school to a new location in Harlem. This decision has been met with both support and opposition from the community. Some community members believe that the move will help to improve the school's facilities and services, while others are concerned about the impact on the local community.
Business is, in reality, beginning to seek out the Negro with students, and local leaders - and residents. This move from tacit worker relationships, would be discussed between business teachers and local residents, and might provide the ghettoite with an entrance to the business world.

The movement of the Baruch School to Harlem would be a forerunner of cooperative and productive steps. The Negro has been directed at business interests in the area. We feel that the Negro must be eligible to transfer to one of the senior colleges, and will have two periods of general study which is controlled at our uptown

School of Business...
The C.I.A. and the Baruch Student

(Continued from Page 3)

All the fees, the National AAU indoor swim meet. Who is he?

Who was the first American to win the Wimbledon Tournament? 5) Sam Crawford, who played in both leagues, holds the Major League record for extra bases in a season. He also holds the record for most extra bases in a game, with 7 in one game.

The man—-who made that statement—-even if it happens—to be off key is bound to insist he was right. He would point to the rules of basketball. Actually, Mike is not only a scorer, but a fine playmaker and ballhandler. He is very quick in his thinking. He can do this, he can do that, and the people silent? Are they there because they care, or because they just don't have anything else to do? After all, what have they got to do anyway? Mike is a man with a mission. He has been told to score, and he will. Mike will score, and score, and score. He will prove to the world that he is a man with a mission, and he will not be refused.

\[\text{---Continued on Page 5---} \]
AND AWAY WE GO: Beaver Jeff Keizer goes high up for a rebound during a recent C.C.N.Y. victory. The game was played at Wingate.

By LARRY BROOKS

The coach began, "This is the first team since 1951 that has gone through four consecutive winning seasons, starting with their freshman year."

By MARC BLOOM

Don Schlesinger, knees high and arms pumping, finished his race but didn't stop running.

In a furious rage of disappointment and disgust, he quickly returned to the start, flung his tie and white sweatshirt to the ground and shouted to anyone who would listen.

There was no mystery about it. Everyone—the coaches, athletes, spectators and officials—knew the complaint. Schlesinger was convinced that Hunter sprinter John Handy was holding the final 0.6-yard dash, in the City University track and field championships at Fitzgerald Gym, Queens College.

Handy won the event in 64 sec.

"I don't blame Handy," continued Don. "He's a good sprinter and I respect him. I blame Patti (Dr. Anthony Patti, former Queens coach), the starter. It's absurd. He shouldn't be starting with some of his own kids competing. How impartial can he be?"

Coach Francisco Castro didn't see a disputed start but was asked why Handy ran out in front by so much. Schlesinger, junior metropoli tan sprint champ, beat the Hunter flash in three of their previous meetings

The City club, competing in their sixth major meet in sixteen days, scored 44 points, 14½ better than winner Queens.

Other victors included tireless Jim O'Connell with his mediocre opposition in the distance events, winning the mile in 4:33.6 and the two-mile in 9:43.0. In the latter race he was never pressed, lapping the field with a half-mile to go.

"This team has great desire," said Jim O'Connell in the mile and two-mile and Lewis Rosenblatt in the 600.

O'Connell toyed with his mediocre opposition in the distance events, winning the mile in 4:33.6 and the two-mile in 9:43.0. In the latter race he was never pressed, lapping the field with a half-mile to go.

Rosenblatt registros a personal best in taking 600 honors in 1:26.2.

After trailing for three laps around the 16-lap-to-the-mile oval, he moved passed Chuck Teubner of Queens to win in inches. Lew also ran a leg on the two-mile relay team.

Castro, who had hoped of upsetting Queens, saw his chances diminish when they recorded ten points in the shot put, the opening event.

He also expected his athletes to score more in the high jump, hurdles, and 400, where Schlesinger was shut out.

Highlights of recent meets previous are as follows: Knights of Columbus (Madison Square Garden, Feb. 5)—Schlesinger (55.2), Dennis Wildvogel (55.4), Gary Borkowski (55.2) and Rosenblatt (51.0) combined to run 3:30.0 to place third in the mile relay.

Inquirer Games (Philadelphia, Feb. 4)—Schlesinger equalled his College mark in the 50 with a 5.7 effort in the semi-finals.

U.S. Track & Field Federation (Gardens, Feb. 19) —The mile relay

By REBECCA WHALE

Hawks and Broncos Bow

As Beavers Go 10-6

Defeated by the Fairleigh Dickerson back on

by Frank Bond

Big Gun

Coach Bob Pollock continued, "If anyone is to be given credit, it is Mike Pearl, who led this club, was the playmaker for the past two years before this, and was captain of the freshman team."

The Beavers now have won two straight, with a 58-46 league victory over Rider, February 11. Thus the Beaver quintet wound up their final season in the Tri-State League with a 4-2 cam, good for second place.

Smith, a former Baruch physical education instructor in his first year as head coach, called the meeting a "great job"..."The kids did a great job," said Bond. "We had hoped to beat Queens as we did last year," he added, "but they were just too strong. Our kids did exactly what was expected of them...and a little more."