Election for New SC Executives Tomorrow; Referendum on NSA Affiliation Is Set Also

SC Given NSA Report; Who's Who Is Discussed

At its Thursday night meeting, Student Council concerned itself with the National Student Association and Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities.

Approximately seventy-five pages in length, the report was discussed and debated by the Council. There was unanimous disagreement with some of the positions taken by NSA.

Max Berger '68 brought up a motion calling for the splitting of tomorrow's NSA referendum into two parts, the first part concerning

New Community College Established By the BHE

The establishment of a new community college was approved in principle by the Board of Higher Education last Monday. The new college will be located in or near a ghetto community and it will experiment in relating its services to that community. Students will be admitted to a common first-year curriculum and will choose a career or transfer program after the initial semester.

Assuming a major responsibility for community service in the area, the new college will work with local businesses and government agencies.

Admission to Community College Number VII will not be solely based on high school performance and achievement tests. They will seek new admissions standards which will not penalize students for poor choices or poor performance in high school.

The Board of Higher Education voted to request approval from the State University of New York as community colleges are conducted under the program of the State University.

The Uptown bookstore had been running uncontested for the presidency of the School's national student association this year. In the fourth contested race, Elmer Elkin '70 and Richard Faber '70, running for the Recording Secretary's seat, were both students with some of the positions taken by NSA.

If the Berger motion is accepted, it will mean that the organization would try to obtain economic benefits for students.

Over the years, the NSA has accepted the following terms for the contract which binds it together:

- That the organization would try to obtain economic benefits for students.
- That the organization would consider ways of improving the environment of the campus.
- That the organization would work to obtain greater student involvement.

New realizations have come to light, the report said, and it notes that mutual cooperation and interplay of N.S.A. is. "First N.S.A. functions taken by N.S.A. are..."

If the Berger motion is accepted, it will mean that the organization would try to increase the intellectual and social awareness of the campus through discussion of political and social affairs and more recently, through encouragement of cultural programming."

"A STUDENT casts her ballot in this term's special elections in the ballot box in front of the auditorium as others watch."

With four contested and one uncontested race and one post unattempted, students will vote in the regular Student Council executive board elections tomorrow between 9 and 3:15 in the lobby of the main building. Sandy Alan Eagon '68 will challenge the incumbent Max Berger '68 for the presidency of the School in the first contest for this position.

For the second open spot on the executive board, Marvin E. Scheketer '68 will oppose Pat Morrow '68 in the race for vice president.

Bookstore Shows Profit for 1966-67 Will Be Used to Offset Prior Losses

The City College bookstore, according to unaudited figures, has shown a profit for the fiscal year 1966-67. The figure, which represents the combined earnings of both the Uptown and Downtown bookstores, is subject to change before the final auditing.

The College's business manager, Mr. Cornelius Ahern, said that this year's profit would go toward offsetting losses incurred during the two previous fiscal years. In 1964-65 there was an $11,000 loss and in 1965-66 the loss was $35,000.

It is the intention of the business staff to break even on both the operations of the bookstore and the cafeteria, according to Mr. Ahern. He added that any profits are put toward paying for equipment and other operating expenses.

The Uptown bookstore had been managed for a number of years by Mr. Ronald Garretson. Following Mr. Garretson's resignation, Mr. Carmine Monaco was appointed acting manager for a six-month trial period. Mr. Daniel Weiner is manager of the Downtown bookstore.

Reacting to the amount of profit the bookstore will make in 1966-67, Pat Morrow '68, who attended the meeting of the Bookstore Committee in May, 1967, stated, "We were shown a budget for the last fiscal period of a deficit of $28,000." Miss Morrow added that she could not understand how the bookstore arrived at this figure.

Running uncontested for the position of Corresponding Secretary is By Galley '68.

In order to vote in the executive board races a referendum on the National Student Association will also appear on the ballot.

N.S.A. voting forms for the election will be available at the polls in the auditorium. Students will have to present their identification cards to the people at the booths, run by Sigma Alpha, Sigma Eta and Sigma Phi Epsilon, the Day Session honor-service society, which will also tabulate the final vote.

This year the Student Council will be faced with the problem of making major changes in the area of compensation. As President of the Student Council, I propose that all members of the Council be paid for their services.

1. To be elected to the Student Council, a student must be a senior and have completed at least 20 semester hours. He must also be in good academic standing, have a minimum GPA of 2.0, and have active involvement in student organizations.

2. The current philosophy of the Student Council is that all students have the right to participate in the decision-making process. This right is not limited to the Student Council, but includes the College Senate and all other student organizations.

3. Student Council members will meet at least once a week, with meetings held at the Student Center. All meetings will be open to the public, and anyone interested in attending may do so.

4. A resolution was passed at the last Student Council meeting that all student organizations should be required to hold a meeting with the Student Council at least once a month. This resolution was supported by all members of the Council.

5. The Student Council will work closely with the College Senate to ensure that all student interests are represented.

Against N.S.A.

The National Student Association is an integral part of the college experience. It provides a valuable service to students by promoting a sense of community and by offering a forum for the expression of student concerns.

There are several reasons why the N.S.A. should continue to exist.

1. The N.S.A. is an effective way to involve students in the decision-making process. Through its legislative procedures, the N.S.A. can help students to participate in the governance of their institution.

2. The N.S.A. is an important source of information for students. By providing information about campus issues, the N.S.A. can help students to make informed decisions.

3. The N.S.A. is an effective way to promote student involvement. By providing opportunities for students to become involved in the governance of their institution, the N.S.A. can help to increase student participation.

In conclusion, the N.S.A. is an integral part of the college experience and should continue to exist.
"Exit the King"

By MARSHALL ELLIOT

Before he was -- and it seems almost impossible to think of him as anything else -- Fidel Castro, the leader of the Cuban revolution, was a young lawyer who was determined to overthrow the government of Fulgencio Batista. The young lawyer, however, was not without his problems. He was a controversial figure, and his actions were often condemned by the United Nations. The international community was split on whether or not to support him in his struggle against the Batista government. The United States, for example, was hesitant to support him, fearing that it would only escalate the conflict. The United Nations, on the other hand, was more inclined to support him, as they saw him as a symbol of the struggle against colonialism and for freedom.

The young lawyer, however, was not deterred by the international community's mixed signals. He continued to press forward, using his legal training to argue his case before the United Nations. His arguments were compelling, and he was able to gain the support of many international leaders. With this support, he was able to launch a successful coup against the Batista government.

The coup was successful, and the young lawyer was able to establish a new government. He quickly set about implementing his vision for a new Cuba, one that was free from the influence of the United States. He nationalized the major industries, nationalized the banks, and nationalized the sugar industry. He also nationalized the Cuban Army and the Cuban Navy, and he was able to turn them into a powerful force for the people of Cuba.

Despite these successes, however, the young lawyer was not without his problems. He was often criticized for his harsh methods, and he was accused of being a dictator. He was also criticized for his policies, which were often seen as being too far to the left.

In the end, however, the young lawyer was able to establish a government that was truly representative of the people of Cuba. He was able to create a society that was free from the influence of the United States, and he was able to create a society that was truly representative of the people of Cuba.
Fencers Top Yale, 15-12; Second Period Nets Win

By MARC BLOOM

After 17 years the College parriers renewed their patent on shoutout fencing Saturday by sweeping the second round of their match with Yale to trim the Bulldogs, 15-12, in the season's opener at Westminster.

Trailing 5-4 after the first round, City rallied to take all nine bouts in the second round, giving them the 15-5 advantage that was necessary to withstand a 7-2 final period by Yale.

The starting fencers, led by Bill Berkowsky who won both of his bouts, were undefeated before being removed after the Beavers had clinched the victory.

Split Saber, Epee

The parriers, after a 6-3 fall match split the bouts in the other weapon divisions, scoring 5-4 in epee and dropping 4-5 in saber.

Coach Ed Lucia praised his swordsmen after they had recovered from an unwinnable position with staking out 12-7 Saturday.

"This showed what the boys could do when they realized what was at stake," said Lucia. "They went computer and were winners.

It was the first match of the season for both teams. The Beavers appeared healthy and had better reason to maintain that way if they expect to emerge equally successful in the two contests that precede the winter recess.

Another pair of Ivy Leaguers will match weapons with City within the next two weeks. Saturday's meet with national champions.

Bits 'n Pieces

The rifle team remains undefeated after winning its eighth consecutive meet of the season against Princeton at its New Jersey campus. Competing under five-man scoring rules instead of the seven-man score last year, City tallied 1343 points to Prince-tont's 1216. The individual leader was Nick Bucholtz who scored 276 points, one more than teammate Bob Gerstein. . . Coach Red Wolfe's brigade is expected to boost the varsity in scoring, with 14-1 ppg. and in rebounds.

Juniors Eye Queensboro After Opening Cage Loss

The junior varsity basketball team will try to even its won-lost record tomorrow afternoon when they tangle with talented Queensboro Community College in Hansen Hall. Coach Red Wolfe's brigade is one down after Saturday's opening 66-54 loss to Queens J.V. The game was a preliminary affair prior to the Queens-Yahiva main event in Fitzgerald.

The Baruchians' initial performance was marred by sloppy play and weak shooting. They recorded 25 turnovers (as did Queens) and could sink only 35% of their shots from the floor against 42% for the opposition.

"Gill Fishman turned 11 points, 3 less than high scorer Larry Keizer," suffered from an injured knee.

—— Chargers Also Falter

After a series of games that were marked by a bevy of upsets and surprises, the Intramural Basketball Tournament draws to a close Thursday when the Jets and the Pagans meet in Hansen Hall for the championship.

Both squads reached the finals by virtue of their convincing victories in Thursday's semi-final contests. The Jets beat the Chargers, 49-40, and the Pagans ripped the highly-touted Whiz Kids, 45-42.

The Chargers, with only a five-man roster, took a three-point lead into the final period. The Jets then took the offensive controls and outscored their opponents, 18-6, before the bell. The winners were led by Len Kellner and Harold Ostensen, who scored 12 and 10 points, respectively.

No rest for the Weary

The Chargers, all of whom played without rest, were led by Elliot Lautenstein, Stan Czobowski, and Larry Rosen, who scored 15, 12, and 9 points, respectively.

The second game took a one-sided complexion early in the contest. The Pagans, who exhibited a well-balanced scoring attack, were extremely accurate on 18- and 20-foot jumpers.

The Whiz Kids turned in an unusually lackluster performance with week rebounding and ineffective shooting. They failed to respond like the well-knit unit they are, falling apart in the closing minutes in schoolyard fashion.

On the other hand, the Pagans, who committed few errors, were topped by Larry Thomas, who had 9 points.

The early line for Thursday's final is pick'em.

Lineups:

Captain Larry Borger, 6-6, is the club's sixth man. He tough rebounder and strong defensive performer. The Lions suffered through another season last time around but played the entire year with a well-balanced and strong defensive unit. They became the best since the unbeaten season of 1961.

"I'm not out just to play against Columbia; I'm out to win!" so stated Beaver basketball Coach Dave Polansky Friday afternoon. The team managed a team of alumni led by Mike Pearl and Barry Eisenmann.

While many City exponents will probably be more than happy with their respectable performance Wednesday against the highly-favored Lions, Polansky and his charges will be satisfied with nothing less than complete success. Just what caliber a Columbia team will the Lavender face? Is U.C.L.A. — type squad? Not quite. But even the Brains were nearly upset in their opener against Purdue. This Columbia squad is one that has a healthy edge and could prove a real test for Ivy League leaders.

The Lions are led by 7-4 Dave Newmarck. The big center missed all of last season because of illness but as a sophomore two years ago led the club in scoring (22.9 points per game), rebounding and shooting percentage.

Sophomores Jim McMillan, a high school All-American at Thomas Jefferson, and junior Roger Walanske will start up front. McMillan, 6-8, led the freshmen with an average of 24.9 and Walanske, 6-9, headed the varsity in scoring, with 14.1 ppg. and in rebounds.

The backcourt will be manned by senior Bill Ames and soph Heywood Dolson. Ames, 6-5, averaged nearly 10 points last season and the 6-4 Dolson is quick and strong with a 9.3 scoring average.
