Quotations of the Decade

"I shall not seek, and I will not accept the nomination of my party as your President."

"Tonight, in the hope that this action will lead to early talks, I am taking the first step to de-escalate the conflict. We are reducing—substantially reducing—the present level of hostilities. And we are doing so unilaterally, and at once."

—President Lyndon Baines Johnson

Filing Date Announced For Financial Aid Applications

Undergraduate students wishing to apply for financial assistance must submit their applications no later than April 22.

Forms, which may be obtained in the Financial Aid Office, 411 S.C., are applicable to National Defense Loans, Educational Opportunity Program, Federal Work-Study positions, Bernard M. Baruch Scholarships and other financial aid programs for the upcoming academic year.

According to Leon Woloshin, the newly appointed financial aid officer, a standard application form prepared by the College Scholarship Service located in Princeton, N.J., is to be filed by students.

The service, which is used throughout the country and on the Uptown campus, evaluates the needs of the student according to information supplied by the School in determining who shall receive awards.

Petitions for Treasurer Due; Council Denies Film Funds

Action Is Taken On Diploma Rule

Student Council, while refusing to grant fifty dollars to show the film "Inside North Vietnam," discussed the Baruch College diplomas. The Ticker's finances and the Fees Committee allocations at Thursday night's meeting.

After a lengthy debate, Council voted down a motion by David Trager '70, Campus Affairs Committee chairman, to co-sponsor Felix Greene's controversial film "Inside North Vietnam."

A representative of one of the eight clubs already sponsoring the film, claimed that another fifty dollars was needed for the presentation.

Some factions on Council felt that the film was anti-American, andshould not be shown in the College. The motion was defeated by a small, alleged vote.

Button Sale Halted for Student Strike; Charity Drive Committee to Hear Case

The steering committee for the international student strike was dealt a slight setback Wednesday when it was informed by Dr. Irving Gregor that it must discontinue its sale of buttons because a "political" group must exist as a non-profit organization.

Dr. Gregor, director of student services, told representatives of the committee that it is against School regulations to continue button sales within the confines of the School grounds.

Despite this, it was learned that the Charity Drive Committee can approach the Student Council for a City College diploma could then receive one.

The motion passed and letters were sent to Acting Provost Emanuel F. C. Gross, and C.U. Chancellor C. E. M. F. Barker.

Plans Readied For Special Election

Petitions are due tomorrow at 12 for the position of Student Council Treasurer in a special election to be held next Wednesday.

There will be an election meeting tomorrow at 3 for the purpose of determining ballot positions and reviewing the rules and regulations of campaigning in 305 S.C.

The position of treasurer became vacant when Paul Rogoff resigned from that post two weeks ago. In the interim Arthur Ainsberg '68, Student Council Treasurer last year, and an assistant is fulfilling the function of the treasurer. Mr. Ainsberg this term is serving as a special assistant to President Max Berger.

The Ticker was in trouble of not being able to print any more because of its re-assertion that the film "Inside North Vietnam" was anti-American, andshould not be shown in the College. The motion was defeated by a small, alleged vote.

The election will be held next Wednesday in the auditorium lobby at a booth run by John Boos, a second-year student. In order to vote Bursar's and Identification Cards are required.

The election is being called by the Council president according to the constitution, and will be held from 9-3:15.

Course and Standing

The Committee on Course and Standing will meet tomorrow in 312, Office of the Registrar. On its agenda will be a review of the appeals made by students protesting the alleged changes in philosophy grades received last term.

Criticism of the Administration's policy in Vietnam has led many American citizens to challenge the leadership of the United States of many allies. This section will introduce the world in Vietnam, and their open resistance to the United States. This is the first gathering coming together the United States and Vietnam, and we are going to discuss the current state of affairs.

The next move must now be taken by Hanoi. The United States has already stated the Administration would be seeking to resolve the problem of war and the Democratic solution. This can be evidenced by his state of being.

Mr. Johnson moves to Vietnam after a Geneva meeting co-chaired by the United States and Vietnam. This move marks a major turning point in the evaluation of the Selective Service System.

The President's move must have been a surprise to many American citizens. He has become a strange situation. He has become a lame duck president, and this has put him in a situation that he might not enjoy.

Johnson's withdrawal should certainly involve the cooperation we need if we are going to solve the problem of war in Vietnam. The public outrage against crime in the streets is but only one aspect of our American history when four predecessors, its heads of state and the congressmen, is the growth and great turbulence of those committing felonies. Felonies are completely non-accepting to the people.

One of the most important acts to be taken in America's foreign policy is the establishment of a unified society to reorient ourselves. To these people has been the establishment of a unified society to reorient ourselves. Perhaps the only source of hope for the future of America is the establishment of a unified society. This is the case when thousands of Viet

"I think you can measure a company's interest in its people by its willingness to invest in them."

"I joined IBM in June, '54, in operations research. I liked the work well enough, but after a year and a half, I began to think that the ideal field for me was computer programming. (This is Alvin Palmer, an Associate Programmer at IBM.)

"But by this time, I was making a pretty good salary. So I was faced with a big question. Would IBM be willing to let me move into a new field and invest in me?"

"I thought that the ideal field for me was computer programming. (This is Alvin Palmer, an Associate Programmer at IBM.)

"The answer was yes. I went to IBM and asked if I could study that field full time for three months. And IBM agreed to pay my full salary.

"And that is a tremendous kick-out of the company. It means you're telling a company you want to get out of their business. But because you're interested, they're willing to invest in you."

You don't need a technical degree.

"Your major doesn't matter. There are plenty of programmers at IBM with degrees in liberal arts or business. Many of those degrees have been in accounting or finance. But they are looking for people with aptitude. And if you can measure their aptitude, they will invest in you."

"I was young, I was ambitious, I was willing to make the change. I think it indicates how far IBM will go to help you make the most of your abilities."

City Nine Rips Manhattan Community

By PHIL WAXBERG

The City College fencers, after a long season and a hard winter, finally emerged victorious in their final season's straight exhibition. They competed in every single and earned the prize in the third with a fourteen-inch singles that gave them an unassailable 7.2 advantage.

The lads bright. When it's over, August kills right field and Ray Velven will swing in at short.
