Additional Space Sought for Baruch College; Committee Approves Election in New Vote

Decision Given On Thursday

The Disqualifications Committee voted Thursday to reverse its decision to invalidate the election results. The winners will take office next semester.

The decision was not announced until Thursday night when David Levinsky '68, president of the Lamport Leaders Society, and chairman of the Disqualifications Committee, presented the Committee's report to the Student Council.

Mr. Levinsky stated that "this election like previous elections had certain violations of the election rules and that the committee did not believe that the outcome of any of the executive board elections would be affected by the irregularities."

Next semester's Student Council should, Mr. Levinsky stated, re-evaluate the role of the disqualifications committee, with the hope of making the committee independent of Council. At this time, any student can appeal the disqualifications committee's decision to the Student Council.

Besides Mr. Levinsky, the other members of the committee are Max Berger '68, president of the Student Council; Barry Haberman '68, president of the Business Class; Edward Buchholz '68, editor-in-chief of Lexicon and Booster President David Feinstein '68.

RCA Building Considered

Negotiations are under way to evaluate the pros and cons of either leasing or purchasing the RCA Building at Twenty-fourth Street and Lexington Avenue for the Baruch School.

The talks have commenced following the approval by the Board of Higher Education last week. The BHE resolution gave the City University Construction Fund authority to explore the proposed sites to be used as additional facilities for the College.

According to Assistant Dean Samuel Thomas, who is representing the Baruch School, the next step is for the State Dormitory Authority to make a positive proposal to the Fund.

Before this can take place the School and the authority must present concrete plans for utilization of the seven-story building containing approximately 140,000 square feet.

The purpose of the talks is to decide whether the University should purchase or lease the building, stated Dean Thomas.

He said that depending on the results of the action, the new building will take.

ON THE MOVE: The R.C.A. building on East Twenty-fourth Street off Lexington Avenue.

The committee was originally called by Neil Lieberman '68, who claimed that the voting irregularities could have affected the possible outcome of the election and, therefore, should be invalidated.

Among the irregularities cited by the Committee when they originally invalidated the election were the following:

- There was only one week between the elections.
- The Beaver was stolen at approximately seven, on the morning of November 9. Reliable sources disclosed that four students were seen eating breakfast in the Colonial Coffee Shop, directly across the street from the Baruch School, at 8:42 that morning. A waitress, who wished to remain anonymous, stated, "Well, to the best of my knowledge, they ordered four coffees, two chocolate-frosted cakes, orange juice and toasted English, light on the butter. They were very poor tippers," she added.

As for the appearance of the students, the waitress could remember nothing. "One of them did return to get a pair of black gloves he had left behind," she said.

Miss Rappaport's investigation revealed that the Beaver was stolen at approximately seven, on the morning of November 9. Miss Rappaport's investigation revealed that the time the theft was discovered was at 8 A.M. At this point the trail gets foggy. No one saw the students leave the building but a search of the premises by the Baruch School Security Squad revealed no traces of Benny. The Administration is to be commended for not calling in any outside police officers.

Presently, informed sources indicate that the Beaver is locked in Dean Newton's office but the dean has refused to comment. This is suspicious.

Being frustrated in her search for the missing animal at the Baruch School, Miss Rappaport attempted bribery. Confronted with additional frustration, she turned to other sources. Following exortatory evidence, Miss Rappaport, though rather tall for her size, blood-hound her way to Beaver Falls. In her absence, mysterious squallings have been heard coming from the pantry, 307A in the Student Center. The Ticker photographer took a picture of the room, which is kept under special lock and key and developed the picture under iron-curtain conditions, the results of which are surprising.

McCarthy Wins Choice Poll in Nationwide Student Vote.

Coastal Strength Key to Victory

Washington, D.C. — Eugene L. McCarthy, runner-up in the New Hampshire primary, polled 100,576 votes in Choice '68, the nation's first nationwide student college poll, to win the victory from the Baruch School. In June, 1964, he majored in political science and was on the Dean's List for four semesters in other disciplines.

He is against unilateral withdrawal of the United States from Vietnam, for example, and endorses the current peace proposal in the Far East. Dear Miss Rae,

I would like to inform you of the不符合 the requirement for my position as a Temporary Office Personnel. As a former student at Baruch College and a member of the Student Government, I believe that I have the necessary skills and experience to fulfill the duties of this position.

I have a background in business administration and have previously worked in the office of a local business. I am able to handle a variety of tasks, including data entry, filing, and answering phones. I am also proficient in Microsoft Office applications and have experience with customer service.

I am available to begin work immediately and can be reached at the number provided in your advertisement. I am looking forward to the opportunity to serve the College and the community.

Sincerely,
[Your Name]
As an editor-in-chief, I find it difficult to express my feelings for the newspaper. During past three terms, I have been associated with The Ticker. During my tenure I have tried to present the news and views of the students of Baruch College, New York City. While putting out a paper is a big job, this is one that I have never taken advantage of the rights that are mine. It is a job that can not be surpassed.

The Ticker is not run by a small group of students. I, as a freshman joined the Ticker to learn the tricks of the trade. The Ticker is a student newspaper or can be found for next term. What is true, is that The Ticker is a student newspaper and not a faculty newspaper. It is a newspaper that is run by students and can be utilized by some enterprising and capable student to make it all that it is capable of being. The Ticker has been a test for me, and I have learned much from my experience in editorship.

WASHINGTON, D.C. — At Thursday's meeting the students' Senate voted to hold a referendum on the proposed name change for the day of a Jewish holiday. The original decision had been made by the Student Senate in the fall of the previous year. Mr. Levine decided to hold a new referendum as a result of the renewed interest in the issue. If the referendum is passed, the name of the day will be changed to an alternative name. After the referendum, the new name will be chosen.
The City College baseball team assured itself of a winning record in league and overall play last week by splitting a pair of games with Iona College, and Hofstra University. The Gaels upset the Beavers by a score of 6-5, while the Lavender got by the Flying Dutchmen of Hofstra University by a 7-1 tally. The game with the Dutchmen of Hofstra was one of the most exciting of the season. Both clubs played errorless ball and starter Andy Sebor overcame control problems to give the Beavers a come-from-behind triumph. Bob Nanes’ two-run home run in the first inning and Barry Port’s sole shot in the fourth, his fifth of the year, took the lead out of Sebor’s hands. The second run proved to be an insurance run in the middle of the fifth. In the bottom of the eighth Weronick led off with a walk but was caught at second on Sebor’s attempt at a sacrifice. Richter, slugged sharply up the middle but Sebor’s fielder Bunch grounded to deep short was handled brilliantly by Hofstra’s Tom McGinity who forced Sebor at third. Nanes then doubled driving in Richter, moving Mazzuca to third. Bernard Martin then delivered the game winning hit, a single to center. The City threatened in the ninth after game, and very rarely complained. Andy Sebor overcame control problems to give the Beavers a come-from-behind triumph.
