Blood Drive This Thurs; Refreshments Offered

By STUART LINDAUER

Contrary to rumors that have been spreading throughout the school, L.F.C. will hold its semi-annual blood drive this Thursday from 10 A.M. to 9 P.M. in the Oak and Marble Lounges of the Student Center. If you are between the ages of 18 and 21, it is no longer necessary to obtain parental consent.

Donors who miss all or part of a class in order to give blood will be issued excuse slips explaining their absence. Refreshments (donated by Aladin), coffee, milk, etc. will be served to those who have given blood.

Last week, a report from Mt. Sinai Hospital cited the increased danger due to the amount of infected blood that have been donated to commercial blood centers, and the resulting shortage of good blood available. It has been necessary to resort to such methods as freezing blood in order to prolong the period during which the blood can be used effectively (blood, if it is not frozen, must be used within 24 hours or it will be ineffective.) At the Red Cross Blood Drive, all prospective donors are examined in order to determine their eligibility.

It is imperative that all of you at least consider this opportunity to provide time to save yourself and your families, and at the same time help your fellow man.

R.C.A. Condemnation Stalled; Action Is Expected This Week

Rented Space Negotiations Deadlocked On Renovations

The R.C.A. building condemnation has been further stalled. The delay was called "unexplainable" by Dr. Hyman, Vice Chancellor of the Board of Higher Education (B.H.E.), Dr. Hyman indicated yesterday that the proper papers "should be" filed with the N.Y. State Supreme Court this Thursday or Friday at the latest.

In a related occurrence, the Brooklyn campus promissory the Baruch College has been endangered by the possible dissolution of the Hunts Point Meat Market Co-operative. It was through this co-operative that the Fl. Green Meat Market was slated to be sold to Hunts Point in the Bronx. A two block segment of the proposed Atlantic Avenue site is involved.

On August 5 the City University Construction Fund ordered the State Dormitory Authority to acquire the building by condemnation if necessary. The initial steps have yet to be taken; today is November 19. The "condemnation" has been plagued by several setbacks, most notably the sale of the building to the United Cerebral Palsy Foundation on September 17. Six weeks after the sale of the building, the B.R.E. offered U.C.P. $1.5 million for the building. U.C.P. claims that they paid $20 million for the site, although this sum includes a $12,000 donation to U.C.P. by R.C.A.

In a discussion with Ticker Editor, Associate Editor, Student Council President, Vice Chancellor Hyman assiduously stressed "project has already been seriously endangered." The Vice Chancellor, however, stressed that negotiations proceedings will be instituted; he predicted the court would be petitioned by Friday.

The law firm of Simpson, Thacher, and Bartlett is handling the case for the State Dormitory Authority, in an interview yesterday (Continued on Page 5).

Chancellor Announces Student Advisory Group

Students at City University will soon formally participate in policy deliberations through a Chancellor's Student Advisory Council announced today by Dr. Albert H. Bowker, Chancellor of the University. The new council will hold its first meeting on December 3. Dr. Bowker said that the move is a response to increased student demands for a voice in University affairs and "a need for meaningful student participation to help solve problems in many areas of interest and concern to the University." He named Vice-Chancellor Robert Blumberg as his personal liaison with the group.

An ad-hoc steering committee, selected by students and composed of student government leaders from most of the University's 15 campuses, met this week with Dr. Blumberg to formulate its recommendations for structuring the Council. The recommendations call for the Advisory Council to be composed of representatives from each college, selected by each chartered student government organization as "it sees fit," provided that no college may be represented by more than three delegates or their duly authorized alternates. The three delegats are to represent (1) the day session student government, (2) the evening session student government, and (3) the graduate student government.

Where there is more than one chartered student organization in any of these three categories, the organizations shall be responsible for jointly determining their representatives. The representatives and alternates are to be selected for a term of one academic year ending June 30.

The first step toward formation of the council was taken last month, when the Chancellor wrote to student government presidents proposing its establishment. Inviting them to submit written suggestions for selecting an ad-hoc student steering committee, that was the committee which met this week. It included Doug Las Laden of Baruch, Neil Bergman of Brooklyn, Shing Liu and Marshall Hryont of Borough of Manhattan Community College, Theodore Di Pado of the University Graduate School, Barbara Bernstein of Queens, Vincent Brodsky of Queensborough Community College, Samuel Lightbourn of Bronx Community College, Robert E. City Improves Social Services

Imaginative Programs Offered

In this period of crisis in our country, the New York City Department of Social Services is faced with the challenge to provide new programs and policies to meet the needs of its clients and to encourage them toward fuller and more productive lives. As a result of interest and imaginative planning, many new programs have evolved during the past few years.

The essence and spirit of these programs must necessarily be understood and the ability to make decisions quickly and effectively. It is the function of the department and the public assistance programs and agencies involved in each case to plan for such a period of crisis. In the case of a crisis, the program must be able to support itself and work well together, work out plans, and solve the many problems that are presented.

The position of the community is not an easy one to assume. The community, in turn, must be aware of its own values and feelings, and it will be wise to discuss these with the department to the extent possible. If the community is to work well together, work out plans, and solve the many problems that are presented, it must have an understanding of the three programs.

New trainees undergo a full three month training program at new and experienced caseworkers. This is national in scope, since this is one of the new and imaginative programs in the field of public assistance.

A forum will be held on Thursday, November 21, at 12:30 PM at the Ticker Forum in Harlem, to bring together the available personnel. (Continued on Page 1)

BLOOD DRIVE SPONSORED BY

I.F.C. AND AMERICAN RED CROSS
The World of Music

BY JAN KRAUS

The following is an interview with Jack Mandel, President of the Music Club at Baruch. The interview was conducted by the author for the Class of 1969 in order to ascertain his views on the subject of music.

Q. What is the purpose of the Music Club?

A. The Music Club is primarily a social organization that sponsors events such as concerts and recitals. However, we also have a small group of members who are interested in the history and theory of music.

Q. How do you select the musicians who perform at your events?

A. We hold auditions to select musicians, and we also invite professional performers to come and give recitals. We have a variety of styles represented, from classical to jazz.

Q. What is the role of the Music Club in the Baruch community?

A. The Music Club is a valuable resource for the Baruch community, providing a forum for the appreciation and study of music. We hope to continue to grow and attract more students who are interested in the subject.

Q. Do you have any plans for future events?

A. We are planning a concert featuring a local symphony orchestra, and we are also considering hosting a masterclass with a famous musician. We are always open to suggestions from our members.

Q. How does the Music Club contribute to the academic life of Baruch?

A. The Music Club can contribute to the academic life of Baruch by providing a cultural experience that enriches the educational experience of students. Additionally, the study of music can contribute to the development of critical thinking and analytical skills.

Q. How do you manage to balance the social and academic aspects of the Music Club?

A. We try to maintain a balance by organizing events that are both social and intellectually stimulating. We also encourage members to participate in both social and academic activities, depending on their interests.

Q. What advice do you have for students who are interested in starting a music club at their own school?

A. I would advise them to first talk to their administration to see if they would support such a club. They should also reach out to local musicians and get their support. Finally, they should make sure to have a clear vision of what they want the club to achieve and work towards that goal.
A Mistake In Means

By SAM GRAAF

In my opinion the murderin military atrocity in the Congo states the need for the immediate withdrawal of American forces from that area. I believe that the use of American troops has led to a situation where there is little chance of achieving a lasting peace. The use of a force in the Congo has not only caused much suffering but has also led to an increase in the number of displaced persons.
Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

I was interested in the recent attempt by the younger generation to define personal effort as a reaction against the idea of individualism. While many of the comments were sound and well-intended, the tone of some was not. This is not to say that we are not all—students, teachers, and administrators—struggling with the same problems. We are all concerned by the loss of the belief in personal responsibility, the feeling that the college is not there to provide an answer to the individual's problem but to ask questions. This is not to say that we are not all in the same boat, or in the same storm. We are all trying to find our way, and you are all equally important in our search.

Sincerely, [Name withheld]

Dear Editor:

I am writing to express my concern about the way in which certain topics of the day, either as they relate to the school or to the community, are being discussed. The topics in question are often treated in a superficial or trivial manner, and we are left without much help to make sense of the issues at hand.

Sincerely,

A new Beatles album, "Yellow Submarine," has been released, and it is already a tremendous success. The album features the iconic character of the yellow submarine, and is a perfect fit for the Beatles' playful and imaginative style.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Sir,

We feel free of the student body in accordance with the student body's wishes.

Our stands on issues are dictated by the belief in the rights of others, our monopoly on ego. We try, sir, to disclaim certain statements made by us.

The famous method whereby men obtained deferments for college, marred the existence of other people's "hardships.

The student seeking such deferment (II-S) now has the duty to request a student deferment and make sure that the school furnishes proof of his status as a student.

The "student seeking such deferment (II-S) now has the duty to request a student deferment and make sure that the school furnishes proof of his status as a student.

We study, sir, military tactics, but this is the last thing we consider.

In the new law, Congress removed the President's discretion. Some of the President's discretion was removed by the Selective Service System.

I am a member of the Carolan-Rights Society question of the Selective Service System.

This is a point of tactics here. If you are claiming a "hardship" deferment because you are claiming that you are the sole support of your family, you are claiming that you are the sole support of your family, you are claiming that you are the sole support of your family.

If you are claiming that you are the sole support of your family, you are claiming that you are the sole support of your family.

I am more disappointed in Mr. Sckorohod's average and the kind of knowledge he has acquired than in your forensic abilities.

The "student seeking such deferment (II-S) now has the duty to request a student deferment and make sure that the school furnishes proof of his status as a student.

Say what you will about New York sports crowds. They're noisy, quiet, knowledgeable, fair, tough, apt to serenade. They're all that, I've been in them all. The Giants, Yankee, Mets, Knicks, Nets, well, the Garden. Ah, the Garden.

Now accustomed to the "New" Garden (but not entirely happy) and my new home in Section 419, Row C, Seat 3. I have all the assurance that any of the oldies didn't. There are no fans like hockey fans, like no fans I know.

I was overwhelmingly reminded of this Sunday night as the Rangers played for new bloodkicking. They scored 3-2 triumph over the Montreal Canadians. With the triumph the Blueshirts leapfrogged over the Habs into first place in the Eastern Division of the National Hockey League.

This has been a rather frustrating year for Rangers loyalists. In some ways, as frustrating as the years of the late fifties, early-sixties, where the Blues missed the playoffs seven out of eight years. It has not been disheartening because of the Rangers play, far from it. Of course there are a few who disdain the New Yorkers, but the fact is that the Rangers are in first place. And nothing is it is said, is as successful as success.

Ranger fans themselves have been subjected to rabid hockey buff's unmentionable: expansionitis. Eight teams in seven times per season, they now add, at times they may well be.

For an expansion team.

"Dump the Gump" and "Hey Gump, wanna beer?" were the chants of the mildly interested.

Next to him sits the sports wag, whose main claim to fame is his consectutive-week or whatever-itis streak of collecting unemployment checks. How he lives is a point which I have yet to bring up to him.

There is a smug, mocking, derisive, laughter-filled attitude throughout the area walls toward the scores of Western fans. Let's face it, Gene Ublasko and his Penguin mates cannot, just cannot, be taken as a real threat, though I hasten to add, at times they may well be.

Section 419 (Mezzanine behind the net) contains a pretty representative group of New York hockey fans. In Row A sit the wise, with a hoot for all visitors ("Dump the Gump" and "Hey Gump, wanna beer?"") were the favorite Sunday; the "Gump" being former Ranger, now Montreal goaltender Lorne "Gump" Worsley). There is the old-timer in Row B, who comes by himself to every game and keeps his thoughts masked by a calm, hockey battle-tested face.

Next to him sits the sports wag, whose main claim to fame is his consecutive-week or whatever-itis streak of collecting unemployment checks. How he lives is a point which I have yet to bring him up to.

Baruch Cagers Win Opener; Trounce Brooklyn Eve. 95-83

By BURT BEAGLE

The first Baruch College basketball team made a successful debut Thursday night as it led all the way in defeating Brooklyn College Evening Session, 95-83, in Hansen Hall.

Ten players scored with five of them getting double figures as Coach George Wolfe used his bench for nearly one-third of the game. Mark Stein, a freshman, led the way with 19 points and 17 rebounds. Larry Anderson, followed with 16 points, Kevin Flanagan and Ken Rosenstein had 12 each and Gil Fishman 11.

Baruch started fast rolling up a 12-2 margin. They lead 17-9 when Brooklyn rallied for seven straight points to come within one. Flanagan hit from the corner and Stein from inside and Baruch pulled away again. The Kingsmen never got closer than five points for the remainder of the half.

With six minutes left in the half, Wolfe went to his bench for Rosenstein, Keith Johnson and Mark Postner, all freshmen. The score rose 17 of Baruch's next 21 points, and the lead went to 57-42 at the half.

Early in the second half Baruch inovites hustled all over the court picking up loose balls and converting enough free throws to maintain their 20-point edge. With verting them into baskets. A 16-4 run ended Baruch's most convincing of the game.

Kingsmen brought them within 79-72 with seven minutes left. Hoffman and Flanagan returned to the game and Baruch stopped the charge. Hoffman converted two free throws, Stein took a lead pass from Anderson to score and Rosenstein followed with two foul shots.

Baruch got in foul trouble down the stretch as Brooklyn converted enough foul shots to maintain a 10-point edge to the end.

In the first half Baruch hit 26 of 48 floor attempts for 54%. They slowed down in the second half and wound up with a 47% average for the night.

Brooklyn also had five players in double figures with Kaminowitsch getting 22, Greg Peterkin 18 and Winters 15. The loss was their first after an opening win against Webb Institute.
