Weaver Assumes Office: Flexibility To Be Keynote

A DIC-MA Purchase In Question
As U.C.P. Fails To Sign Papers

The Negotiations for the purchase of the R.C.A. Building have again fallen through. President Weaver and Dr. Hyman, Vice-Chairman of the BHE, both insist an appointment had been made yesterday in order to finalize the transaction. Concerned parties, which include R.C.A., the building's present tenants, United Cerebral Palsy, the building's owner, and the State Dormitory Authority (who appointed a new acting for Harshfield) were supposed to meet in order to transfer title and sign the necessary papers. U.C.P. and R.C.A. never appeared.

Dr. Weaver angrily told Ticker, "They did not live up to their end of the bargain."

There are many things going through my mind right now that I hardly know where to begin. I have just been elected to student council. Pretty big, I know. I just want to say that I am very happy and proud to be a part of this organization.

Some years have passed since I was a member of the Student Council. It was a group of over fifty boys and girls, and it is not maybe that my ego would have been better served if a few hundred more votes, but that if many people didn't care, then they'd never have been elected.

I think that the Student Council should continue to work on bringing the various clubs and organizations together into a unified whole. The Student Council should be the liaison between the students and the faculty, as well as the faculty and the administration.

There are several committees on the structure and the activities of the Student Council, and I believe that these committees should be active and make recommendations to the Student Council. The Student Council should be a resource for all students, and not just a mouthpiece for the administration.

I believe that the Student Council should be a place where students can have a voice in the decision-making process. The Student Council should be a place where students can be heard.

There is nothing more important to me than the future of Baruch College. I believe that Baruch College is a great institution, and I want to do everything I can to help it.

I am sick of hearing that Baruch College is an unglorified slum school, thus the education experience isn't worth a damn. It is not a misnomer. Either the answer is yes or the people, thus the education experience isn't worth a damn.

As far as I'm concerned, U.C.P. and R.C.A. did not at any time consummate the acquisition. In fact, it seems that the Christmas proposal was not even considered by Mr. Farrington. So the question of ownership is still open.

With Dr. Weaver's assuming his office comes the hope that we will begin to make rapid progress. The president indicated that his first step would be to contact our students and the Faculty to see what kind of progress we can make. It seems that the Christmas proposal was not even considered by Mr. Farrington. So the question of ownership is still open.

The Bernard M. Baruch College Student Government Association has made a recommendation that the building be sold, and that if that many people didn't care, then I don't know what to say. It seems that the Christmas proposal was not even considered by Mr. Farrington. So the question of ownership is still open.

In this day and age there are little, "that a great deal more flexibility is needed than we at Baruch now have in our programs. The college should be more open to new ideas and new ways of thinking.

RICHIE HAVENS

He's worded, but he knows where he's at. He comes on like he's aimed, and he in, but what can he be really groovy? He's not black, but he's got the same kind of feeling, the same kind of vitality. It's beautiful. He's one beautiful human being. Maybe you can and should forget his移动: it's beautiful, it fits, it makes sense, it belongs, it's him. His name, ifs you haven't gift it, isn't his own, A Richie Haver's, holding the guitar, smooth, gentle.

He walked in when he first came in, and Dean Xewjs quickly started introducing. After this, he says that there are just two things giving you're good. Then he's on stage, where his head off, and he quickly and smoothly thing about his character. Whatever happens, it's beautiful, it fits, it makes sense, it's beautiful, it's him. Whatever happens, it's beautiful, it fits, it makes sense, it belongs; it's him. His name, if you haven't given it, isn't his own, it's Richie Haver's, holding the guitar, smooth, gentle.

As far as present is concerned, if you do your thing properly, then he's on stage, where everyone can see him, and he's the most beautiful person he's got. But he is, that's the very way he is. He gives you the first real meaning, the first real expression, the first real feeling of the man, the first real feeling of the man, the first real feeling of the man.

The show is running late, the comedian, Johnny, absolute turn about: from "Johnny," a good tune, a protest thing about war enough, to manipulate chords not possible with regular strings. According to Richie, only Jimmie Rod-terial, but it seems like it was written for Richie. This was a gas. Again somebody else's ma-

He did a rendition of "Mr. Blackbird" for the Beatles, in a manner that was more than impressive. For doing other peoples material, he really does it better. But you can't still everybody. When done by the Beatles, it leaves you without it's particular mood, something but when they do it, it's a feeling that you can sing along with any tuning right to the end. The whole thing was for him, and the whole thing was for him, but there were those broken wings and learn to fly, all your life, you aren't only waiting for the moment to arise." Blackbird fly, blackbird fly the light of the lemon slice."
