The Pinto Project for the Academic Department for a five-week period to be cooperation of College Marketing Corporation. Baruch College. is sponsored by Ford with the Marketing Department of Baruch College, for students, he said:

"The Pinto Project for the Academic Community" will soon get underway in the Marksmanship and tennis teams. George Wolfe was a dedicated teacher who gave freely of himself. He spent countless hours of his own time counselling his students or performing duties which would benefit the college.

George Wolfe was an outstanding athlete for his years. He was voted the outstanding basketball player and was the recipient of an individual championship trophy in 1941. He received the Philadelphia Invaluable and Loyalty Service Award in 1944. At the George "Red" Wolfe's night in Philadelphia in 1945, he received a citation for outstandingscholarship in the large of sports. He has received so many other honors and awards that they are too numerous to list.

George Wolfe's death has left a terrific void in our Department and College community. We feel that he is still passing and will be mourned not only by the students, faculty and administrators of the college but also by the sports world.

One of the freshman orientation classes is starting an experimental college program in Baruch. Parent and non-credit courses in which students do the teaching. The classes, which are opened to students, and faculty, are held each week and enrollment is on a voluntary basis. The two classes are Photography and Judicature. Nineteen students have volunteered to direct the Judicature class, and even students have enrolled in it. The Photography class is in the making.

Baruch Bowling Team

Baruch Bowling Team begins activity at a new position, stemming from a leadership change. The new national league offers a variety of movements. Four teams are competing, and students who wish to join should contact the administration.

The Council meeting on November 5, 1970, was held in the Student Center Lobby.

The meeting opened with an address from H. Ronald Watford, who thanked the Council for its support. He then introduced the new President, Leon Yancey, who offered a vote of thanks for the students who attended the meeting.

The meeting then proceeded to elect a new position, which was offered to the students present. It was not accepted.

There was some debate over the position of students on departmental committees. It was agreed that students should be involved in these committees, and the administration agreed to consider this request.

The TICKER budget was passed. This term, the budget is available at the next Council meeting.

There was a motion to resign. It was not accepted.

The meeting adjourned at 8:30 P.M.

The meeting was well attended, with a variety of students present. The administration was pleased with the turnout and promised to continue the tradition of open meetings.

Ed note: Editorial staff apologizes for the above misinformation. Formation concerning appointment to the new position was eliminated, and a salaried secretary, Denice Weeks, was voted to resign. It was not accepted.

Baruchians are invited to come down and give their support.
CONCRETE POETRY

In concrete poetry, the appearance of a poem is the same as its meaning. The form itself is the message, for form and content are one.

They can be made with a typewriter, or with transfer letters such as Prestype or Letraset.

These examples were made as a class exercise by the students of Art 131 (Advertising Layout).

Higher Education may not find it too easy to stop on Baruch when it comes to decisions of building more classroom space or a campus in Brooklyn, or reducing the amount of students next spring and fall, or the raising of fees to over $100, or cutting Baruch funds to peanuts. It would give the BHE great pleasure to pass that proposed motion which would allow them to suspend any student without due process during any disturbance or protest when our Student Council was one of you elected like it was a popularity contest. Damn it—GIVE A CRAP AND WAKE UP, before it's too late. Good-night Agnew.

Any group that gives us 20,000,000 dollars of the Digest and Petticoat Junction is a threat to Democracy. This nation stands for charm and violence and we don't want a small minority of the older population spoiling it for the rest.

The President is going to be on television tonight; so is Ed Musky. The baton twirler and the man with an appropriate name and the facial characteristics of Gomer Pyle are both telling me who to vote for. At eleven o'clock Barry Gray has the three would-be senators. He deserves them. We've had them long enough.

The girl with the fat ankles just asked if she could vote for Basil Paterson. The answer is Goldberg and Paterson are a package deal, like the flowers at the Bar-Mitzvah. She doesn't like Bar-Mitzvahs. She doesn't like Goldberg. Tomorrow Rocky put his whole weight on his heel and then stepped on her sandaled foot. If you see a girl with the word "needle" on her foot, call Mr. Porkolab; he likes sex too. He then invited me to the Roosevelt Hotel for the victory party.
