SAULE’S RECEPTION

by Robert Tucci

A tea was given to honor Vigeo Saule of the art department, last Thursday, November 12. The works of art that are currently on exhibit in the Oak Lounge were created by Prof. Saule.

Prof. Saule explained that before he even begins to paint a picture, he would think over the idea and format of the painting for a month or two. Though he spends much time planning his paintings, he attempts to capture a spontaneous feeling while keeping the painting simple.

Saule has a definite style in his work of which one does not tire. A person can gaze at these paintings for as long as he likes, and continue to be fascinated.

In the spring the work of Saule is exhibited at the Beacon Art Gallery. For the winner he picked a bird sitting on top of a bottle. He said it was the most original and interesting subject.

Every year has brought new interest in effect on professionals in the field of marketing. Advertising is a region of the marketing field which has experienced explosive growth in recent years. As a result, competition for advertising positions is at an all-time high. One advertising student, in a recent interview, stated that he had found a job, but by a seemingly non-traditional method. "I sent out letters," he said, "and I got a call back." His letter was written on a white-trimmed piece of yellow note paper, which was not returned. "I see no need," replied the admissions officer. "But I thought you were one of the best students in the class," said the admissions chair, "and you should be in a prestigious firm." The student was flabbergasted. "I had no idea firms were interested," he replied, "but I'll take it." An interview was arranged, and the student was hired on the spot. As a result, advertising is part of marketing, and marketing has changed. The purpose of this meeting is to bring together those who wish to broaden the more serious students of the marketing trade, to attend, although it is hoped that programs will be interesting enough to motivate and warrant attendance. This "collegiate brotherhood for advertising impart of university, professional sales executives." In Pi Sigma Epsilon, one can work alongside of people in the national professional (not social) fraternity of marketing, sales management, and professional sales executives. This fraternity will have its Fall rush*, which exists Pi Sigma Epsilon. According to its president, Steve Siegel, "Pi Sigma Epsilon is Baruch's chapter of the national professional (not social) fraternity of marketing, sales management, and professional sales executives. The fraternity of marketing, sales management, and professional sales executives is part of Pi Sigma Epsilon, which also provides more for the marketing professionals" meets every Thursday from 12-2 in Room 1506. Members are not forced to attend, although it is hoped that programs will continue to be interesting enough to motivate and warrant attendance.

"ANTI CRIME BILL"

President Nixon recently signed legislation which he described as "Giving us the means for a total war against crime." The us in his statement referred to Attorney General Mitchell, J. Edgar, et al.

The president said that this bill would be a warning to those who engage in senseless acts of destruction, and that the administration would not tolerate these activities (sabotage of military and judicial buildings) any longer. After the bill was signed he handed it to Hoover and Mitchell and said, "Gentlemen, I give you the tools. You do the job."

The bill provides for the death penalty for anyone involved in a bombing or arson which results, accidently or otherwise, in a death. In addition it permits the F.B.I. to enter any college campus or school where a bombing or arson has occurred, whether the administration wants them there or not!

"The streets of our country are in turmoil. The Universities are filled with students rebelling and rioting. Communists are seeking to destroy our country. It is this danger from without and within, and our nation can not survive..."

Adolph Hitler 1932

The most significant part of the bill, is a section which permits federal judges to add 20 YEARS to the sentence of any convicted person they think is a "dangerous special offender." A "dangerous special offender" is anybody who has been convicted of two felonies, or anyone the judge considers to have "a pattern of criminal conduct." It also applies to anyone who the judge feels was part of a conspiracy to engage in a pattern of criminal conduct. What this comes down to, is that a judge can put anybody away for an extra 25 years without charging them with a specific new crime, and without a jury trial.

There are also provisions which will weaken existing safeguards against illegally attained evidence, and self-incrimination. Contempt of court provisions, which have been used in the past to sentence radical defendants to years in prison, have been stiffened.

It should be noted that this bill passed the Senate with only one dissenting vote.
