BARUCH HOOPS NYU

by Alan Steinberg

After being humiliated by Pace last week, Baruch came back and swept NYU 3-0 this week in similar fashion. The keglers finally put it all together and continued in their quest for first place. Baruch avgd. 182 per man and beat NYU 945-838, 901-815, and 877-805.

Leading the attack for Baruch was Greg Jentzen who now has the league high series—652. He bowled games of 201, 203, and 248 in a fine exhibition of pocket shooting. Also contributing to Baruch's win were Walt Mademann with a 547 series and Harv Cohen with a 545 series.

Baruch is now back in second place, 1% points away from 1st place St. Johns. They take on Cooper Union this Sunday. All are invited to come down and give one of Baruch's best teams your support! Bowler Lanes, 110 University Place, Manhattan (N. 4th Ave. and 14th St.) The top five teams are:

- St. Johns 22 0
- Baruch 20% 9
- Pace 20 10
- St. Francis 19 11
- Bklyn. Poly. 19 11

This is a weekly review of the ways in which various segments of the College community rob the students of good education.

Rip Off One: Student Council. At the meeting of Dec 10, the President of the Student Council was away at meeting of the University Student Senate. The meeting was left in the incapable hands of Bruce Rosen and the rest of the clowns. Council to date has not worked out a new constitution, nor has Council staffed the student voting seats on many faculty committees. Come up next Council meeting on Thursday at 4:30 PM, room 903 and see the most humorous effort. Had Council done it's job, instead of attending its weekly therapy session, we all might have found next term con

LUKEMIA AND Hodgkin's Disease

Two Baruch students are in desperate need of blood. One is suffering from leukemia, the other from Hodgkin's Disease. Baruch College has always offered an unlimited supply of blood to any student; but now our blood bank is suffering from a critical shortage. To help remove this problem, a blood drive will be held on Tuesday, December 22, between 2:PM and 7:30 PM. Any student who wants to donate blood at this time but has a class will be excused from that class. As an extra incentive, a $25 award will be given to the club or organization whose members donate the most blood. It is urged that Baruch students participate in this blood drive.

The room was filled with about thirty students from various colleges, and the film was projected on a large screen. The audience was interested and quiet, as they watched the movie. The story was intense and emotional, and the audience was deeply moved by the characters and their struggles. The film was directed by Robert Redford and produced by Columbia Pictures. It was a masterful work, and the audience was impressed by the performances of the actors. The film was a tribute to the courage and determination of those who fought for freedom and liberty.

The film's setting was the United States during the 1920s, and the audience was transported to that time period. The story was told through flashbacks and dreams, and the audience was able to understand the characters' struggles and motivations. The film was a reflection of the struggles for freedom and equality that are still ongoing today.

The audience was silent as the film ended, and the applause was热烈的。The film had touched the hearts of the audience, and they were moved by the courage and determination of the characters. The film was a call to action, and the audience was moved to think about the struggles for freedom and liberty that are still ongoing today.

The film was a masterpiece, and the audience was impressed by the performances of the actors. The film was a tribute to the courage and determination of those who fought for freedom and liberty.

Another Face

In the home room, the father had pushed the daughter from each and every window. The sun was shining on the streets and the sky was clear. He had been passed by the bodies without heads and the bodies without hands — watching, searching, calling. Faint cries filled the air. Faces were pressed against the glass. A coldness was felt in every corner of the room. The father turned his back on the bodies and walked into the living room. There was a silence. Everything was still. The fan blew coldness.

For a moment two bodies made love with earnestness, eagerness and vehemence, into a cramped existence. Each cast was isolated. The wall, the singer shrilled soprano sounds in endless drifts apart. A coldness was felt in every corner of the room. The fan blew coldness. The fan blew coldness.
