DEAN SAXE DISTINGUISHED

Dr. Emanuel Saxe, Morton Wolfman Distinguished Professor of Accountancy and Dean Emeritus of Baruch College, has been named Distinguished Professor of CUNY for 1979-70. He is the first Baruch-faculty member to be so honored.

A nationally known authority on accounting, and author of several definitive texts and numerous articles and research studies in the field, Dr. Saxe is a member of the Council (national governing body) of the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants. For twelve years, from 1946 to 1958, he headed the Baruch School of Business and Public Administration of City College, the predecessor of Baruch College.

Dr. Saxe has joined a company of outstanding scholars from the U.S. and abroad who have been so honored by various units of the City University under a new CUNY program. It calls for fifty such professorships, in 1897-92. A wide range of scholarly interests are included.

Dr. Saxe is a graduate, cum laude, of City College, class of 1925, where he was a member of Phi Beta Kappa. He also holds the J.D. and Ph.D. degrees from New York University, and the New York State CPA license. He was a member of the New York State Bar. He has been associated with Baruch College since 1926, except for the years 1946 to 1958 when he held the rank of full professor.

In addition to his academic work, Dr. Saxe continues his own professional CPA practice in New York City from 1926 to 1937. From 1946 to 1956 he was Managing Editor of the New York State CPA, most important journal. He is a member of the New York Bar and Federal Bar. He has been associated with Baruch College since 1926, except for the years 1946 to 1958 when he held the rank of full professor.

18 Year Old Vote Drive

The University Student Senate is sponsoring a voter registration drive in the month of January. The drive will conclude on registration day, which is at the City College who are becoming eligible to vote when the 18 year old vote goes into effect. The kickoff date for the drive is January 4th.

The drive has received the support of the Board of Elections and City College President Sanford Garelik. According to the President, "The drive is an important step in the process of involving young people in the processes of government and decision-making. The drive will not be limited to registering college students but will also go out into the surrounding communities. Directing the drive for the Senate is Fred Bandes."

COUNCIL PRESIDENT RANKS STUDENTS AS 'TWO-FOOT' VOTERS

With 18 year olds able to vote under a law taking effect in three weeks, Council President Sanford Garelik today gave endorsement to an immediate registration drive among 90,000 students who are 18 in the 20 year old students would be registered.

Money to pay student registrants after the drive is said that if the program were to be implemented, it would cost the College $20,000. The drive would be conducted on a "northern" basis by students from the various New York City colleges and universities, working with the College of New York City, which is the parent institution.

"Actually, the program would save the money," Garelik said. "The problem is that there are only 20 percent of the total cost, with 80 percent coming from the federal government." The registration drive will be conducted on a "northern" basis by students from the various New York City colleges and universities, working with the College of New York City, which is the parent institution.

Council President Garelik said that the plan is "a step in the right direction. The drive is a step in the right direction. The drive is a step in the right direction."

MARYA

What a great idea! I know you always love to go to the movies. That's why I was so happy when I heard about the new movie "High Noon". It's a western movie that takes place in the old west. I've been reading about it and it seems like it has a lot of action and adventure. It's about a man who has to protect his town from a gang of outlaws. I think you'll really enjoy it. I can't wait to see it with you!

VOTER REGISTRATION DRIVE

Dear Aunt Eva,

Dear Aunt Eva,

I've been volunteering for the voter registration drive and it's been really exciting. We've been going door to door, talking to people about why it's important to vote. I've been sharing my thoughts and feelings about politics and really trying to make a difference. I think it's important for everyone to participate in the democratic process. I hope you can join me and help spread the word about voting!

Best regards,

Mary

"High Noon" is a classic western movie that takes place in the old west. It's about a man who has to protect his town from a gang of outlaws. The performances of Audra MacGraw and Steve McQueen are fantastic. The film has a lot of action and adventure and is definitely worth watching. I highly recommend it!

Marshall McLuhan was on one of those surprise TV shows today: the John Hammond, Senior and Junior, were on Mike Douglas's WABC-FM talk show at the same time. And I had to come to Baruch this morning to learn stuff.

To Stu Goldman and Chipper: my most sincere wishes for a speedy recovery on behalf of my parakeet, Chi-Chi. Now to the music.

Neil Young's otherwise happy concert at Carnegie some weeks ago was seriously marred by some of those kids. Hippies. Now I know how many holes it takes to fill Carnegie Hall. They threw paper planes, they clapped happily along to 'Southern Man' after loudly and boisterously voicing their identification with Neil's politically shaded statement on the plight of blacks in America. Then the audience, after thus asserting themselves, went home to Ocean Parkway and, pardon the egression, Springfield Blvd.

Some hippie yenta saw fit to interrupt one of Neil's quiet numbers, with a rippling "Right on, Neil!" Well-intentioned, I'm sure. More paper airplanes. Neil began "Sugar Mountain." The kids clapped. They sang along. They had a good time. It interfered with the performance, with the best, with the sensitivity and expression Neil was otherwise wasting on most of the sold-out house. He began it a second time... and a final third. No success. Neil walked off for a short intermission.

The second half of the concert was also not a benefit for Mr. Kite: a splendid time was taken to reveal the circumstances and details of that issue. If you visit the Capitol Theatre, rapidly growing on me as the best place to view rock in the area, I've said it before; you can sit in the orchestra's last row and see every fingering on any guitar, any expression on any artist, anything. Imagine what the first row is like. The sound system is first rate as well. But as expected, their ushers hassle you, or at least the ones we met made us feel like we were in Las Vegas. But they're really goofable. Try asking them for their badge numbers. All in all, the Capitol deserves our support, what with the legal entrapments that the town of Port Chester is subjecting them to. See my piece in the "Music Supplement" (see how quickly they forget?) for details of that issue. If you visit the Capitol in February, why you might see the Dead.

There are some very serious reasons why I've been lately refraining from record reviewing in these pages. Steps have been taken to reveal the circumstances and eliminate the problems. All may yet be well. While we're waiting we're trying to get interviews with your favorite raves, and digging concerts. Coming soon: POCO.

As they say, or sing; keep on believing.
