All students are urgently requested to read the following description of the proposed new academic calendar. The staff of the Ticker has endeavored to spell out clearly all the advantages and disadvantages of this proposal. The passage of this new calendar by the Baruch Community could have tremendous impact on the College and, perhaps more importantly, on each individual student, faculty member, and administrator. By the same token, should it be decided to turn thumbs down on the proposal, it is extremely important that such a negative decision be based on knowledge of all the facts and clear intelligent thought.

An impromptu meeting was held in the Auditorium on Thurs., 3-11. There were no more than two hundred students present at any one time during the two hour session. It was announced that the faculty was to have voted on this proposal on Monday, 3-18. A negative vote by the faculty at that time would have killed the proposal for good before the student body even had a chance to look at it. When the students attending the meeting in the auditorium heard this, they were outraged to find that a matter of such importance had apparently been kept secret. The students insisted that the faculty post its vote until the entire student body was given an opportunity to familiarize itself with the proposal, evaluate it, and express its views.

Therefore, we urge you to give this matter very serious consideration. It is not often that the student body has the chance to voice its opinions in a policy matter of such tremendous importance. Read about it. Discuss it with your fellow students and professors.

Hopefully, the student body will be given the opportunity to vote before the faculty makes its decision at their rescheduled meeting to be held next week.

Here is the proposal: Under the new calendar the academic year will consist of four semesters. To illustrate the way this would work we shall use the following examples.

1971-72
First Session—September 1—December 22; 12 class sessions.
Second Session—January 10—April 21; 15 class sessions.
Third Session—May 1—June 20; 12 class sessions.
Fourth Session—June 20—August 15; 15 class sessions.

ADVANTAGES:
1. Students who wish to accelerate their studies would be able to complete their baccalaureate degree in three years.
2. Students who enter college with serious academic deficiencies can enroll in remedial work during the fourth session, provided they pass all courses taken during their freshmen and sophomore years.
3. Students who are required to work while attending college may enjoy a competitive academic program during the summer sessions. Students could complete one-third of their degree by working in the summer and twice in the fall and spring sessions. In other words, a student could earn one year's credit in six weeks.
4. Summer session students earning normal, evening session course loads could complete their courses work in five years.
5. The calendar would be convenient for teaching during the first and second sessions for teachers who have an uninterrupted period for leisure and salaries for teaching during the first and second sessions. If they chose not to teach supplementary courses, they could be paid for teaching during the third and fourth sessions.
6. Students who enter college with a plan for earning supplementary registration especially to those who are required to work on days now designated as weekends.
7. The overall operating cost per FTE student would drop slightly in the summer session enrollment increased, as a result of the accelerated calendar. Summer session enrollment would probably equal the number of students who drop during the spring semester.

DISADVANTAGES:
1. The work load of the administrative staff would increase appreciably and the secretarial staff outside the Registrar's Office.
2. There would be some additional concerns by teaching one or two summer sessions at any time and three sessions during the second week vacation period in August. In addition, there would have been a considerable increase in the administrative staff and the secretarial staff.
3. The additional staff would be especially important for youngers members of the Faculty. The College may have to expand its secretarial staff and survey work.
4. The time which holidays presently afford for the completion of term papers for spring and fall courses would be no longer exist. The staff would be involved in secretarial work during the inter-session.
5. If the time which holidays presently afford for the completion of term papers for spring and fall courses would be no longer exist. The staff would be involved in secretarial work during the inter-session.
6. In order to get a green light on the new program after the first and second sessions and for six holidays during the first session, none during the second, none during the third, and one holiday during the fourth session.
7. The overall operating cost per FTE student would drop slightly in the summer session enrollment increased, as a result of the accelerated calendar. Summer session enrollment would probably equal the number of students who drop during the spring semester.

OTHER CONSIDERATIONS:
1. A basic assumption underlies the plan that more students will enroll in the third and fourth sessions and for six holidays during the first session, none during the second, none during the third, and one holiday during the fourth session.
2. Baruch does not offer the accelerated program, another senior college who if the program is expanded in the other institutions, but with less funding.

FINALLY, in order to get a green light on the new program from the CPE, the Baruch Community (students, faculty, and administration) will have to show real enthusiasm. You have the facts. Weigh them carefully. Remember that it is your college career and your extra-curricular life that will be affected. Think about it!

 Pointed Ramblings
by Howard E. March Jr.

The reader's pet peeve as the University of Illinois at Chicago turns to an all-black student newspaper, the Daily Illini, is that it will no longer carry the popular sports column, "Basketball Tournament: Best Men and Best Women." The newspaper's editors have decided to phase out the column, which has been a fixture of the paper for the past 10 years.

"Basketball Tournament: Best Men and Best Women," was first published in 1967, as a way to highlight the achievements of black athletes on the university's basketball teams. The column has been a source of pride for the black community, and has been a way to celebrate the accomplishments of black athletes.

The decision to phase out the column has been met with opposition from some readers, who argue that it is an important way to recognize the achievements of black athletes. Others, however, see it as a way to move away from a focus on race, and to focus on the accomplishments of all athletes.

The newspaper's editors have said that they are considering other ways to highlight the achievements of black athletes, and that they hope to find a way to continue to celebrate their accomplishments in a way that is inclusive and respectful.

Mr. March is a contributing editor to Pointed Ramblings, and can be reached at 123 Main St., Chicago, IL 60606.

Letters to the Editor:

"I think the newspaper's decision to phase out the column is very disappointing," said reader John Smith. "It is a way to recognize the accomplishments of black athletes, and it is important to do so. I hope the newspaper will find a way to continue to do this."
ABORTION SAFETY RECORD

Without a single serious complication, women have been counselled and placed for abortion under statutes in New York State by the Abortion Information Agency. Reports issued today indicated no serious complications.

Covering the 7-month period since June 1, 1971, the abortion statutes in New York have been enforced by private and voluntary general practitioners. Women in New York have been treated for abortion at the agency's hospital. The agency is not engaged in any activity that may be criticized.

This is one-fourth the reported rate of complications. Minor complications were reported. There were no deaths, no miscarriages. The rates of complications, both major and minor, are well below the rates.

Among the reasons for the low rates of complications are the following:

1. There were no deaths, no miscarriages. The rates of complications, both major and minor, are well below the rates.

2. The agency is not engaged in any activity that may be criticized.

3. The agency is committed to the goal of providing safe and legal abortion services.

The jazz society at Baruch has finally gotten off the ground. The club, which was formed last month and presided over by Ted Lasky, aims to bring jazz and popular music to students. The society was organized so that members may enjoy jazz under Recreation and Entertainment of the University. The club is in the process of recruiting members to add to its list. The society plans to arrange concerts and other events to benefit all students. Members will be entertained and the members will meet. The club hopes to sponsor a concert in the near future.

HOW TO CONDESCEND; A REPLY TO YAF

Three weeks ago, out of boredom, I tuned in to watch the "War at the Front" with a great deal of interest. I was impressed with the dedication to YAF and the way they portrayed themselves. It was a great moment to watch the battle of a physical character of a few of the members. I was even more impressed with the way the conservative citizens were treated in the film. I am encouraged that the conservatives will continue to do their job, but they should be more careful about their tone.

I would not say that conservatives should be satisfied with what they have, but I would not say that they are in an advanced state. I am still not entirely sure that conservatives should be satisfied with the way things are going, but I understand that they are in an advanced state.

It is evident that conservatives are not satisfied with what they have, but they should be more careful about their tone. I would say that conservatives should be satisfied with what they have, but they should be more careful about their tone.

Terry Klug Coming to Baruch

Terry Klug, an American Serviceman, who helped found the "Fort Dix" Blackarmy Projects, will be in Baruch. Klug's appearance is significant because he is representative of the brass who was in the armed forces in the 1960s. He was a member of theblackarmy Projects, which was formed a few years ago to organize draft resisters, workers on strike, and war demonstrators. 17 places to make money on Saturdays.

17. The Coca-Cola Bottling Company of New York, Inc.

We'll except only aluminum cans. They have corroded bottoms, are seamless, and non-ferrous. They crush easily — and if you crush them, you can carry a lot more of them.

All beverage bottles must be separated according to glass color, all metal caps and cans removed — and, for health reasons, they should be clean.

Now, 1/2 pound may not seem like a lot of money — but there are millions of dollars worth of bottles and cans in circulation. In fact, what we're undertaking is the largest recycling program ever. You see, the aluminum cans are sold to Reynolds Metals Company and the aluminum used to make new cans. The glass bottles are melted and used to make new bottles. This recycling helps preserve natural resources — and more can result in being collected and disposed of. Make a little money starting this Saturday. It'll be good for your economy — and environment.

For more information, call (212) 679-0077.

The function of this service is to accept empty beverage bottles and aluminum cans for money.

Since this is a public service activity, we cannot accept damaged, broken glass or aluminum bottles. Each aluminum bottle and each returnable bottle of Coke.

A home grown product, Mr. Rizzi has distinguished himself on the City team basketball team for two years. After a successful stint as the assistant coach uptown, it is thought that Mr. Rizzi, because of his young age (24) and background would be able to relate well to the players. He was pleasantly surprised by his enrollment at City, Ron Rizzi was at all times a team player and great team on their level.
