Convocation Planned
For Thursday, At Noon

Baruch's Yearly Free Concert To Be Held In Main Auditorium, 17 Lex.

Brooklyn Students
To Keep Baruch
In Manhattan

An organization is now forming which hopes to apply pressure on Brooklyn politicians who want to move Baruch College out of Manhattan and into Brooklyn. The Brooklyn Students to Keep Baruch College in Manhattan, organized by two Brooklyn-based Baruchians—Alan Shank and William Sachs, is open to all Baruchians, no matter where they live, but will concentrate on recruiting members who live in Brooklyn.

The organization feels that Baruch should be located in Manhattan because the School of Business and Public Administration should be located in the financial district. First it felt it is important for Business students to "intellectually integrate themselves with the proper atmosphere."

Although the Board of Higher Education approved Baruch's new Masterplan, to locate itself in Manhattan, the plan just was not yet accepted by the Board of Regents. It is feared that Baruch's location may become an issue in the upcoming regional race.

Students interested in joining the organization can write to Brooklyn Students to Keep Baruch College in Manhattan, 17 Lexington Ave., Brooklyn, N.Y. 11201.

Rascals was signaled by the departure of Eddie Brigido, who left the band years ago. Gene and Felix Cavaliere added several new voices to the group's six-part harmony, and the band grew into a heady blend of jazz, R&B, rock, and soul. They released their first album, "A Man and a Half," in 1965, and followed it with "Viva La Mancha!" Two years later, they released their third album, "The Rascals,"

The Rascals officially disbanded. There was a brief reformation in 1980, but it was primarily a vehicle for Gene and Felix Cavaliere. The band has continued to tour throughout the years, and their music remains popular today.
