Honors Program Gets Under Way

by Robert Barrett

"For some time to come," said David Rudolph, Chairman of the Committee on the Undergraduate Honors Program, "it will be difficult for most departments to offer courses in honor work with full registration on a regular basis. Every department, however, may now have a limited number of students who are ready for independent study under supervision, and who ought to be encouraged to pursue their interests in a structured honors program."

To meet the needs of these students, the Committee has devised a way that honors programs can be conducted. Each Department is to establish its own criteria and supervise its own students. It will recommend the student, who satisfactorily completes the program, for consideration by the Honors Committee.

The purpose of honors courses is to enable especially capable students to pursue work in the department in which the candidate has satisfactorily completed his work.

Honors involve individual assignment to independent research or creative work in some field, as well as advanced and intensive study.

Departmental honors committees will designate honors students to take necessary work in their respective department.

The following regulations shall apply:

1. The number of credits to be granted for an individual honors assignment shall be determined by the appropriate honors committee.
2. No candidate for a special honors degree shall be allowed to take more than six honors credits in one semester.
3. The entire program of each candidate may not exceed 17 credits.
4. The entire program of each candidate shall be the sole judge of the achievement of the student in his honors work and, in case of failure to attain the honors standard, is to grade the work of the student and assign the number of credits (if any) that the student is entitled to receive.

Interested students should consult with members of the appropriate department and members of the Honors Committee. Besides Mr. Rudolph, the members of the Committee are Keith Smith, Howard Ross, Edward Arlich, Darley Ruiter, Joseph Boed Susman, Marshall Schneider, Leon Rosenberg, Seymour Kweeel, Selma Bottel, and Jean Davis. Other members of the Committee are currently being named, and will graduate in June 1973. The following regulations shall apply:

Collier & Group Play Good Set At 50th St.

by Linda Levy

Jimmy Collier and Sweet Medicine held a concert in the Baruch Freshman Center on Thursday, February 23. The group presented a unique mixture of soul and folk music. Their wide-ranging selection kept the audience unaware of the type of music that would be presented next.

Collier sang soul, blues like "Zip-a-dee-doo-da" done in a rock, a working song (where the "HMPPII"), a country love song, and songs with social meaning.

One of their songs, "I Am Somebody," was one of the lines.

"I Am Somebody," was one of the lines.

"I Am An Animal," featured how the liquid sound of the group's sound can be heard on the record Freedom On My Mind (Fishbone Records), and on Everybody's Got A Right (Brookside Recordings), and in the directions to the Baruch theater.

Speech Dept.'s
Levy At Poetry Recital

by Kevin Howard Dubrow

Professor Louis Levy, Chairman of the Speech Department, conducted the poetry recital this past Thursday afternoon in the Pulaski Street Building. In attendance were over 50 students, administrators, and faculty.

Professor Levy was introduced by Professor Service of the Speech Department, who cited his meritocratic 40 years of service as head of the college. Professor Levy has received many honors in his career, including the Roberta Prinze award from his undergraduate poetry reading days at City College, and the Faculty Service Award in 1962, for his faculty member who has contributed the most to the life of the College.

The department at Baruch, Professor Service told of his three decades of producing special and directing programs at Baruch through the theater troupe.

The group read fourteen selections that moved the audience to tears and to deep reflection for others. The opening selection was from "I Am Somebody" and was an excellent choice for an opening selection. The group then presented the time for the afternoon. The next piece, "I Am An Animal," featured how the group can be heard on the record Freedom On My Mind (Fishbone Records), and on Everybody's Got A Right (Brooksied Recordings), and in the directions to the Baruch theater.

Toward the end of the afternoon, the group joined the audience in a final selection, "I Am Somebody," which was sung by everybody present. The event was a success and everyone was happy to be a part of it.

Today, renovation is still incomplete. Painting and should have been completed in October. Again, as with students safety is being overlooked.

Will Day Follow Evening?

The outstanding three-day celebration held by Evening Session Student Council and Student Personnel Services was a gala event that Baruchers rarely see. On February 20, 21 and 22, more than 1000 students and administrators attended the event. In fact, the majority of day session students were welcomed to a true social event. The evening sessions were to bring evening students back to the Student Center and promote evening clubs and activities. From every standpoint it was highly successful. To the student center personnel members received a full evening's worth of appreciation.

The question now is can Day Session put aside club priorities and work for the benefit of all students. The need for Day Session to follow the fine example of Evening Session and involve more students and faculty.

Let's Clean Up The Mess

The renovation of the Student Center was supposed to have been completed by December, but the competing deadlines then changed to Christmas vacation. The renovation was to begin February 15, 1973. The heads of the organization were told that painting and renovation was due to be completed by April 15, 1973.

Unfortunately, the renovation is still incomplete. Painting and should have been completed in October. Again, as with students safety is being overlooked.

Are we going to continue our operation? As a student, we are also waiting for the actual completion.

"A Reconciliation Of The Ages"

The columns will follow this format: first, information is given about the government and the American people. The government creates laws that are meant to govern the people. But when these laws are not followed, the government becomes more powerful than it should be. This is true for many countries, including the United States, where the government has the power to make laws that are not always fair. When the government becomes too powerful, it can lead to corruption. For example, in the United States, the government has the power to make laws that affect the rights of individuals.
