$2 PIRG Fee Discussed At Meeting

by Mitch Greenstein

Last Thursday afternoon, the coordinators and university officials of a Public Interest Research Group (PIRG) got together to plan the strategy for their future. NY-PIRG is now being organized on a statewide basis, to work as a non-political, non-profit, non-advertisement-revenue generating organization. The student and the citizen of New York are important to the success of the organization.[1]

As noted in the group's meeting, the two major questions that are currently being discussed are the Proposition of the $2 fee and the refundability of the $2 that is being asked to tack on to the Consolidated Fee and the perpetual problem of people from outside the state being interested in supporting the University and in getting approval for PIRG. To get more information, the group recommends calling the PIRG office on room 315 of the Student Center.

CUNY Rally Uneventful

By Ada Smith

A mass rally was held at the Hunter College Campus last Thursday, March 27, 1973. The purpose was to join forces with SUNY and New York City high school students to find a common ground for waging off the attacks presented by the Keppel Commission's report.

Many groups presented proposals. The Third World CUNY Task Force presented a document demanding:
1) Free tuition at CUNY.
2) End tax on open admission.
3) No cut backs in open admissions, College Discovery and SEEK.
4) Expand open admissions.
5) Organize and support a statewide demonstration in New York City on April 7. That demonstration be massive, peaceful, and legal and that it does not have any connection with the school community.

Each of the proposals carried some merit, but no one group would admit that they were all fighting for a common goal. Each group or organization build for and be part of the school community. Most of them build on their own beliefs and ideas. There were no common beliefs. One group didn't understand the meaning of the others' activities and vice versa.

The United Community Centers, the New York State Student Council and the United to Save Humanity agree that the rally was a success.

Debts and Credits

Today's column is based on a dialogue between Professor Benis of Accounting and Zdanowicz of Finance and Professor Jasmin of Economics. They discuss the current financial situation and the importance of managing debts and credits.

Outsider...

In a recent interview, Professor Benis of Accounting expressed his concern about the increasing number of students with credit issues. He emphasized the importance of understanding the basics of accounting and managing personal finances effectively.

The fencing team won its fifth straight match and completed its second straight winning season by defeating Jersey City State, 20-7, at Baruch on Thursday night, March 22.

The swordsmen finished their second year of intercollegiate competition with a 9-4 record. Last year they went 6-2.

Smith won both his bouts to finish the season with a 34-10 record, the best on the team. Polish fencer Steve Schickler won two of three bouts to finish with 24-15, the second best mark. Steve Kursar, a 6-4 freshman, won his lone epee bout to finish with a 20-18 mark. He won 11 of his final 12 bouts. Arthur Sundre won both of his epee bouts and Rafael Blum won two of three foil bouts.

Single bout winners were Charles Vila, William Blake, Barry Portnoy, Fred Colfin, Sam Pollard and Alfred Mira.

In their previous match the fencers defeated Yeshiva, 19-8. Epee won 7 of 9 while the sabre and foil teams won six of nine bouts.

Again Baruch took charge in the first round winning 7 of 9 bouts. The second round rounds also went to the Statesmen by 6-3 margins.

Steve Schickler led the foil team with three straight victories. Barry Portnoy won 2 of 3, with Rafael Benjamin dropping 2 of 3.

Steve Kursar was a three bout winner in epee. Arthur Sundre and Alfred Mira each won two.

In sabre Smith and Rogelio Vernon each won 2 of 3. William Blake divided two bouts and Charles Vila won his lone bout.

TICKER and you are taking away part of a student's identity, if you take away the very item the student can take pride in.

TICKER: Has the Administration stepped in at all concerning the Senate's financial affairs?

MATULA: The Administration has shown a concern with at this time?

TICKER: What has the Administration been doing in the Senate's financial affairs?

MATULA: We have a budget at this time?

TICKER: And you are taking away part of a student's identity, if you take away the very item the student can take pride in.

TICKER: Is there any other major internal policy you are concerned with at this time?

MATULA: Yes. The governance structure. Baruch College Community Conference is an advisory committee. We see a governance plan drawn up and carried out in this school. Out of our chance. It's our chance. It's the place for the expression of student rights and student power. That's what student government is all about: rights and power. And also, by definition responsibility. That's why I'm so interested in it, as I hope every student attending Baruch is.
