Changes Slated for Summer and Fall Registration

by Joyce Rosenberg

Registration for the Summer Session and for the Fall Term is approaching, and some changes have been made in the registration process. For the summer session, registration will be from April 25 to May 27 ONLY if you are an undergraduate student at Baruch College. The deadline for registering students is May 31. For the fall session, registration will be from June 14 to August 8, or until all classes are full. Students who register after this date will be charged a late fee.

Students will not be able to register online. Instead, they will need to visit the registration office and complete the process in person. This change is being made to ensure that students receive personal attention and assistance with any questions or concerns they may have.

New Courses Offered

The Music Department is offering a new course for the fall semester. The course will focus on the study of orchestration and composition. Students will learn how to write for different instrumental ensembles and how to create their own compositions. The course will meet on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 9:00 to 11:00 AM. The course is open to all students, regardless of their major.

Career Conference Pulled Good Crowd

An enthusiastic crowd turned out for the 11th Annual Career Conference held on September 1.

The conference, sponsored by the Student Personnel Services, was attended by students from the Schools of Liberal Arts, Business, and the College of Creative Studies. The day-long event included workshops, panel discussions, and a career fair.

The conference theme was "Preparing for the World of Work." The day began with a keynote address by Dr. Jane Goodall, who spoke on the importance of environmental conservation. Panels on topics such as "Networking," "Resume Writing," and "Interviewing Skills" were well attended.

The career fair featured representatives from over 100 employers in a variety of fields, including finance, technology, media, and non-profit organizations. Many students were able to meet with potential employers and discuss their career goals.

The conference was considered a success, with over 400 students in attendance. The organizers are already planning for next year's conference, which will be held on September 9.

Psychotherapist Speaks
Before Psych Society
By Kevin Howard Dubrow

Dr. Elizabeth Mintz, a renowned psychotherapist, spoke on the Gestalt Therapy approach to therapy at the Baruch Student Psychology Society last Thursday. Gestalt Therapy is a unique approach to therapy that is centered around the work of Fritz Perls. It involves an emphasis on personal growth and self-discovery through a process of exploration and expression of feelings and thoughts. Dr. Mintz studied with the late Dr. Perls at Esalen Institute and has since maintained a practice of Gestalt Therapy in New York City.

Students For Security

The need for a tight security system is becoming more necessary every day. This is especially true of the Student Center, where student organizations have their offices. Many of these offices have been burglarized while individual students have been robbed.

There are fewer students in the Student Center; in the evening hours then during the day. Most of the robbers have gone out after 10:00 P.M., making security seem more necessary during this hour as 9:00 P.M.

Several methods of security have been suggested. These include the checking of I.D. cards as people enter the Student Center, wearing the I.D. cards at all times, having security guards patrol the Center, and hiring students as guards.

TICKER favors the idea of using paid students to act as security guards. The other three alternatives only bring us one step closer to 1984.

John Jay College has been using the student guard system with much success. A team of four trained to patrol the halls of the Student Center have been formed.

Each team could be assigned to one floor of the Student Center with a uniformed security guard in residence. This guard would be a relatively young one, unlike the prefects who sit in the Main Building. The entire system would fall under the jurisdiction of Baruch's head of security.

This method, if work begun now, can be—and should—lead to operation by the start of the Fall '73 term at the latest. The plan can be extended to include all the centers used by Baruch.

We urge the administration to implement such a plan as soon as possible.

The time test of delectors and to開啟 the public to the cutaneous or ear diseases, without the use of any drugs. We have no doubt that the American Indian method can be compared with the methods of Dr. Franklin's in terms of practical effectiveness, ease of use, and cost. The method is relatively simple, consisting of a combination of healing and insect repellent properties. The American Indian method also results in high nutritional values. The treatment has been found to be effective in treating the symptoms associated with diabetes, skin disorders, and acne.

Dear Dr. Wingofield,

The Day Session Student Government of Baruch College has been informed of the "Preventers" being awarded the "Preventers" for their outstanding work. We would like to commend the "Preventers" for their efforts in preventing crimes on campus.

As a result of their efforts, the crime rate has decreased significantly. Our student body has become more aware of the importance of safety and security on campus. The "Preventers" have demonstrated their commitment to the well-being of their fellow students.

We would like to express our gratitude to the "Preventers" for their dedication to making Baruch College a safer place.

Sincerely,

[Signature]

Due to "circumstances beyond our control" The Odd Couple took unexpected cornet and played on the opening night program. The performances were held in the college's Speech Department auditorium and were limited to a few hundred students who could not join the audience. The play was performed by the Speech Department and was directed by Tom Corbett, who also starred in the lead role. The play was scheduled for three performances, but due to poor attendance, it was canceled after the second show.

The Odd Couple is a play written by Neil Simon and first produced on Broadway in 1965. It is a comedic play about two divorced men who live together. The leads in this production were so natural and compatible that the audience could hardly tell that the play was not a genuine production. The performances were so good that the audience could hardly tell that the play was not a genuine production.

Netmen Lose Three

The inexperience of the tennis team continued to be a major factor as Baruch dropped three matches last week to Hunter, 5-4, Pratt, 6-2-3, and NYU, 6-3.

"We have been in most of the matches," notes coach Bob Givone, "but we have lost out in the end because our lack of experience catches up with us." Baruch lost its first four players from last year and has only three lettermen back.

In the NYU match Saturday the doubles team of Harvey Myself and Joel Lane won its third straight. Lane also picked up a singles victory. However in several other matches Baruch came up on the short end of 6-4 and 7-5 sets. Luis Estrella continued to play well but dropped his sets. With the exception of each match it took five hours to complete the day's activities.

Estrella did pick up a win against Hunter as did Mysel who dropped his in the third set. Harvey Myself and LXANE ALSO TOOK THEIR MATCH AS THE NUM- BER ONE DOUBLES TEAM. Estrella's play was the highest of the three. Playing at the start, he rallied to win in straight sets, 6-3, 6-7, 6-2.

This afternoon the netmen have a Met Conference match with the Manhattan College at the Fleet Tennis Club in the Bronx. Tomorrow they are at Pace, Friday home with St. Francis and Saturday visit Jersey City State.

Bob DiNardo went the final four innings before bowing 8-4. Four of the Knights runs were unearned.

Frank O'Leary singled, stole second and scored on Fred's single to put Baruch ahead in the first inning. DiSanzo's sacrifice fly after hits by Garcia and Fried made it 2-0 in the fourth. The margin jumped to 7-0 in the sixth on hits by Garcia, DiSanzo, Bob Deering and Joe Carrubba plus two errors and a walk. Triples by Garcia and Fried drove in three runs in the eighth.

Pratt led 3-0 going to the sixth inning before the Statesmen rallied for four runs. Rick Friedman's two-run single chased baruch ahead. Rene Velasco, who pitched the fifth inning, got the win. Tom Ortman went the final two innings for the save.

Baruch had opening game jitters against Queens falling behind 5-0 in the first two innings. The team came back to tie the game in the fifth inning before bowing 8-4. Four of the Knights runs were unearned.

O'Leary and Fried led the attack. Tomorrow afternoon Baruch plays John Jay at Randall's Island. Friday night at Randall's, Fordham University will be the opponent in a 7-30 start. For Fordham which first began playing college tennis, this was its first nighttime.

During the Easter break Baruch will play doublers with Stony Brook and Fairleigh-Dickinson of Madison and a single game with Brooklyn Poly.
