Disorganized Ring Day Attracts Juniors
by Howard Hochrad

For many Juniors in the Class of '74, the senior ring is a symbol of their years at college and the beginning of their quest to attain a higher education. From the time a student enters college, two of his many goals are usually to graduate and buy his senior ring.

On April 12 was the first chance for Juniors to buy their rings. The scene in the lobby of the Student Center was quite hectic and disorganized. Students were lined up 12:00, lines started to form at 10:30 and by 11:00 there were already lines to purchase the rings. Two of the Student Center was quite hectic and disorganized. Students were lined up at 12:00, lines started to form at 10:30 and by 11:00 there were already lines to purchase the rings.

The leads in the four performances, who were treated to an eloquent and dynamic speaker at the conclusion of the assembly, were first in line. The leads were treated to an eloquent and dynamic speaker at the conclusion of the assembly. The rings are being made by the student council. There is also a $10 deposit required at the time of purchase.

Those students who did not place an order for the ring will have a second chance when the rings begin to be sold on April 13. The rings are being made by the student council. There is also a $10 deposit required at the time of purchase.

Wollman Lecture Set For Monday

The School of Business and Public Administration and the Baruch College of Alumni Association will sponsor the second Morton Wollman Lecture for the spring semester. The lecture will be held from 12:00-1:30 p.m., prior to the lecture.

Beame Denounces Keppel Report: Would Diminish Home Rule

Comptroller Abraham D. Beame called on the Legislature on April 3, 1973, to reject the Keppel Commission recommendations because they were "a one-sided attempt to force students at City University of New York to pay tuition, because of the cruel hardship that would impose on their lower middle-income working-class parents.

"If I had been required to pay tuition when I attended City College, I could not have gone to college. I would not have gotten a college education, I would not have become an accountant or teacher, and, chances are, I might not have become Budget Director of the City of New York. I might not have been elected Comptroller, and I might not have had the chance to run for the Office of Mayor of this great city.

"Young people today are entitled to the same breaks I received, and more, if we really believe at all in the progress of humanity. Their parents or their children will be able to afford college, and it will be just high enough to make a college education feasible for 'needs scholarships.'"

Countless thousands of young people and families from enrolling in college, because of a 190% tuition increase, is a tradition of equal educational opportunity.

4. Drive many middle-class families out of the College.

In place of the tuition increase, Comptroller Beame said that CUNY would:

1. Discourage thousands of young people and families from enrolling in college.
2. Quell a 190% tuition increase and a tradition of equal educational opportunity.
3. Drive many middle-class families out of the City.

The Musical Theatre Workshop in all Baruchian interest in musical theatre, which was entertaining and his motions were good. The best was a loud beautiful venue and the use of a few good minds and it seemed to enjoy his role. His voice was entertaining and his motions were very expressive. The tempers, Angel, who goes back and forth between good and evil, was played by a pretty Paula Newirth. She made the part cute and her singing, although too soft and low, was appealing. The play is basically carried by Barry and Paula. The Iowsen and poor Orphan is not enough to overcome the horrible singing and choreography.

The work of director Freeman Parks, a non-Baruch professional, and choreographer Mary Jane Eisenberg could have been better. The musical director, Jack Light was unsuccessful in coming up with a half-way decent singing group.

The orchestra was much better in the second act. According to Bruce Klinger, the rest was the best and the orchestra stage was too bland and the theatre, room 114, 24th Street Building, too 1960's provide the intimacy the play strives for. The lighting under the auspices of Nigel Redman was the more than adequate lighting under the auspices of CUNY Redman.

The play needs some work. An important aspect, however, is the atmosphere. The play and musical are developed with their own creation. The beauty of a college play over many other is that the actors are talented and touchable. A bright spot to the first performance was the musical director, Jack Light. He made many well and the orchestra stage was too bland and the theatre, room 114, 24th Street Building, too 1960's.

With A Little Bit of Hope

Hopefully this will be the last editorial that will have to be written about the two concerning registration periods. We feel that this has been a trial period, and we are all happy that it is finally over. The problems that have occurred have been handled in a professional manner, and we believe that the Registrations Office has done an excellent job.

Everyone including Registrar Lewis Romano, Dean Bertha Reinhold of the College Center, and Student Body President Fred Levinson, have been very helpful in answering questions and providing information. It seems to us that the Registrations Office has been able to handle the increased workload due to the two registration periods.

TICKER hopes that registrants will find a better advisement system, speedier lines, and much less aggravation than they did last time. We hope that a registration system that pleases everybody will finally take place. It is important for everyone, including the registrants, to cooperate with each other.

The Play’s the Thing...

...that is making Baruch an interesting place to be. This year, the Spanish Department and Theater put on two very successful plays. The comedy, "The Devil’s Own," was both jam-packed for its short runs. The musical, "The Mystery of Edwin Drood," made the production process the most enjoyable they have experienced for a long time. The libretto of the musical contains many references to Baruch and its students.

The Players are still looking for new people to join the theater group. If you are interested, please contact Mr. Tinker in the 24th Street Building. Baruch College theater is open to all students and staff. For more information, please call 744-3540.

The Freshman Seminar Workshops Continue

This is the third week of the Freshman Seminar Workshops at the 50th Street building. Students are still learning about the seminar system and how it works. The workshops are held on Wednesdays and Saturdays from 11:00 a.m. to 1:00 p.m. in the seminar rooms. Students are encouraged to attend these workshops to learn more about the seminar system.

Wounded Knee As a Symbol To The American Indian — Down But Not Out

There have been a number of attempts to remove Wounded Knee offices. As a recent instance, the police in Rapid City, South Dakota, raided the Indian Development Office, which is a Wounded Knee office, on the grounds that the Indians were preventively selling liquor. But for a number of reasons the raids had to be called off.

On March 15, the FBI raided the Wounded Knee office in Rapid City and made 72 arrests. The FBI charged that the Indians were selling liquor without a license. The Indians charge that the police, who have been raiding Wounded Knees offices for years, are merely trying to drive them out of business.

The FBI raid has been described as a "strategy to get the Indians out of business," and the Indians have called it a "war on Wounded Knee." The Indians charge that the raid was a "ploy to get the Indians out of business." The FBI has denied this charge.

The raid has caused a great deal of confusion among the Indian people. There have been many reports of the raid, and many of the Indians have been arrested. The Indians have been seeking legal advice, and they are planning to file a lawsuit against the FBI.

Promises Made And Broken, Just Like In The 19th Century

Wounded Knee, S.D. (LNS) - Promises, more than a century after the 1890 Massacre, were broken at Wounded Knee Sunday when the FBI agents toting M-16's man a roadblock 3 miles from the Independent Sioux Nation perimeter.

The agents were said to have arrested two men for "carrying an illegal weapon." The arrest was made in connection with the occupation of Wounded Knee which has now lasted 29 days without bail on charges of sedition and treason.

A man named White Shear was arrested outside the Wounded Knee Legal Office on Sunday after the death of Garcia, a 25-year-old Chicano from El Paso, Texas.

Garcia, a 25-year-old Chicano from El Paso, Texas, was killed in the conflict between the FBI and the Independent Sioux Nation. His death was reported to be the result of a "suicide" as the police searched for evidence.

The police searched for evidence for more than an hour after Garcia's death. The search was said to be for weapons and ammunition that were previously taken from the area by the FBI agents.
