Retailers Buy It In the Alley

Wheeling and dealing was the name of the game on Wednesday, October 30th, when the Retailing Society sponsored the Alley Fair. According to spokesmen for the group the purposes of the event were the demonstration of retailing techniques and for the members of the Baruch College community to participate and enjoy the festivities. Among the items up for sale were blouses, sweaters, costume jewelry, record albums, convenience foods and the like. Some of the items were first-hand while many were in second-hand, but saleable, condition. The Fair was well attended and most of the students who stopped for a look seemed to appreciate the idea. The proceeds totalled over $800.00 and the success of the event has prompted the idea of another in front of the Main Building on 23rd Street.

Theft at 360 P.A.S.

by NACY BOWKER

On Wednesday October 23rd at approximately 10 a.m., Professor Bryant Hayes of the English Department finished teaching a class and returned to his office on the 18th floor of 360 Park Avenue South. He discovered an apparent burglary in progress. He found an intruder in his office. Mr. Hayes asked the man what he was doing there, and he claimed to be a maintenance man from the building. After being asked, the man flashed an I.D. card in front of Mr. Hayes. After further discussion an altercation ensued. During an escape attempt, the intruder bit Mr. Hayes, who subsequently received treatment at the college medical office. Security was called, and a female security guard arrived. The burglar was taken downstairs for identification purposes, and managed to escape. Mr. Hayes and other members of his department feel there is a serious security problem at 360 Park Avenue South, and they do not feel it is safe to leave anything valuable (including books) in their offices overnight. This was the fourth burglary or burglary attempt of his office since Mr. Hayes was assigned to it last spring. Some members of the department question the quality of guards from guard agencies and would prefer to see a more direct contractual arrangement. However, Mr. Max Linden, Director of Security at the college, points out that budgetary restraints prevent him from hiring college employees as guards at this time. Mr. Linden admits that there have been a number of "thefts" at 360 Park, but states that corrective measures have been taken. There have been numerous changes of personnel since the beginning of this academic year, and all personnel have been carefully screened. The number of security guards assigned to Baruch's space in 360 Park has been increased, and stricter supervision of the guards has been instituted.

The effectiveness of these measures can only be judged by the number of times that occur in that area from now on. Mr. Linden says that cooperation of faculty members is needed; they should make sure their offices are securely locked when they leave.

Wrestling Travesty

by BOB LIPSON

If you stay home as I do most Saturday nights, you find yourself either reading a book, listening to the Top 40, or watching TV. Such contemporary classics of the tube these days include Mary Tyler Moore, Paul Sand, Archie and Edith, Kwan Chang, the movie, and the everpresent news on Channel 5 of who got mugged, murdered, raped, or combination of the three, followed by Dr. Martin Abend's commentary on our "permissive society." Saturdays have become boring here.

One of the entertaining aspects of Saturday television is Channel 67 on the Island, and its airing of the syndicated "Championship Wrestling" at 7:30. It's a joke, while also being somewhat of a sociological phenomenon: It has sociological implications because wrestling has a loyal following predominantly lower-middle or lower-middle class, as a recent visit to the Garden proved, where actually believe in the good guys like Bruno Samartino, or Pedro Morales, among others, and loathe the bad guys i.e. the Vaillant Brothers—Lustrious John and Handsome Jim. The television announcer is some guy in his 49:95 sports blazer and $15.00 layer cut, who knows what a farce it is, but enjoys the comfort that he's getting paid to put up with the "chaos" of "Hollywood Fashion Plate" Fred Blaise. The Grand Wizard of Wrestling (some clown in a red, white, blue, and silver coat with matching turban, and that former wrestler Albano, now managing his proteges the Vaillants—by the way everybody's got a protege on this show—say that people are poor because they're dirt and lack pride. He shouldn't insult the loyal following that makes him prosperous.

A recent Saturday's agenda, if you will, started with two women brawling to a draw. One was a petite (I'm being kind), Dottie Downs, and her opponent was newcomer Daisy May. It seems to me that she has been a newcomer for quite some time. I could be wrong, I suppose. Kentucky Ms. May had a penchant for wrinkling her arm, reminiscent of George Reeves as Superman hurling a lead pipe full of Kryptonite into Metropolis Bay, and then kicking her adversary in the rear end. And her opponent, with at least a thirty pound advantage, goes down on the canvas. It is hilarity borders on depression. The crowd at the arena is cheering.

Another match pitted Strong Koshbi against the woman who told you that everybody's got a protege against Jose Gonzalez, whom I might have seen on Channel 47's "Lucha Libre" Tuesday telecast. It turns out that while the flustered referee, who's supposed to be keeping an eye on the ring, had no idea what was going on, Koshbi threw a bag of salt into Gonzalez's face, thus blinding him. Needless to say, a victory was awarded Strong Koshbi.

Chief Jay Strongbow, a mainstay of the East Coast wrestling circuit beats a reluctant Green Mask. Otto Von Beller beats Bruno's Pittsburgh connection protege Larry Zabriske trying for rookie of the year kudos I might add. Then again I might add Tag teams Dean Ho and Tony Garhues (not gorillas) beat Jack Evans and someone else. I forget because I wasn't really taking notes, contrary to what some of my friends might say. And that's the way my evening went. My only consolation, along with everyone else, was that I had an extra hour to sleep the hangovers off.

SPORTS

by 0LMPHIA MIHAILIDIS

Among all the exciting sports available to athletically inclined Pennsylvanians, wrestling has been changing and gaining popularity in recent years. Women's wrestling has developed into a highly skillful and competitive sport, requiring a high degree of skill, concentration, strategy and precision...

Until this year the female students of Baruch could only participate as spectators in this or any other sport, if they did not feel competent enough to compete with men. Women's equality has finally penetrated the century-old stone walls of 17 Lexington Avenue as female students of Baruch have achieved a major breakthrough in equal opportunities with the male students.

You guessed it! A women's varsity wrestling team has now been established in Baruch. Twenty-four members of the team were held during the week of September 21 by Coach Peggy Jaeger, who was selected to lead the team. Basically all that is required of the women trying out for the team is interest in the sport. Commitment to attend practice three days a week for two hours a day, and a pair of wrestling shoes. Coach Jaeger said the team shows "a lot of promise but not enough woman-power." therefore new applicants will be considered. Anyone interested in trying out for the volleyball team should inquire of the volleyball office or come to the gym between three and five P.M. on Mondays, Tuesdays or Wednesdays.
