BHE Postpones Vote For 2nd Time

Student Demos Successful

By Steven Gaynor

In my initial column last week I promised you a résumé of the most significant events leading up to the Student Government election. It was my intention to outline the major issues and the manner in which they were interpreted by the student body. However, due to time limitations, I was unable to do so. Today, I will provide a brief summary of the events that have occurred since last week.

The suspension of all student admissions for the spring semester has been lifted after the Board of Higher Education voted to end the suspension. The vote came after the Student Government leaders presented a petition to the Board, demanding that the suspension be lifted.

The Board's decision was based on the recommendation of a special committee appointed by the Board to examine the situation. The committee found that the suspension was necessary to ensure the safety of students and faculty, but that it was not the best solution.

The Board also announced that it would be reducing the size of the student body by 20 percent. This decision was made after the Student Government leaders presented a petition to the Board, demanding that the suspension be lifted.

The decision was based on the recommendation of a special committee appointed by the Board to examine the situation. The committee found that the suspension was necessary to ensure the safety of students and faculty, but that it was not the best solution.

I hope this summary helps you understand the events that have occurred since last week. I will continue to provide updates on the election and other important events in future columns.

What Happened To The Fight?

By Jim Hedges

Three weeks ago Baruchians were fighting for their education. Marches on Wall Street and in Washington, D.C., rallies at home and abroad, and the filing of a lawsuit by the students of this nation that CUNY students would not roll over and play dead in the face of a crisis. CUNY fightback rallies occurred in the main administration building, as well as in the halls and Baruch campuses. The students were gathering together at these rallies to show their support.

It is now December 10. The frequent rallies have not abated altogether. What HAPPENED? CUNY students, with the aid of student Government leaders, at one time the most vocal and active participants in the fight to keep Baruch alive have silenced and now seem more interested in putting together election campaigns.

Endorse Ticker's Referendum

By Richard Rodriguez

Last Thursday, the newly formed Reform and Unity Party held its first major public platform meeting. This meeting was held in room 404 North. Despite poor planning and limited publicity, the turnout was fairly moderate.

Each speaker presented his platform and hopes for the future. Many criticisms at that meeting expressed dismay at the party's pro-club attitudes which disregarded over bureaucratic mismanagement.

THE MOUTHS MEET. TICKER Managing Editor Stuart Bloom met with Congresswoman Bella Abzug during the recent CUNY march on Washington rally.
DICKENS' much beloved mother. We extend our sincerest condolences to Dr. Finkleman. We wish him continued health and success in his future endeavors.

On December 17th, the Day Session Student Body will hold its annual elections for Student Government. This is an important opportunity for students to participate in the democratic process and have a voice in the governance of their institution. We urge all students to read the proposed referendums carefully and consider the implications of each option. We wish all of the candidates the best of luck, and we look forward to seeing you at the polls.

The Embarrassment That Is Art Fishman

By E. Gold and A. Krieger

The scenario had been played out many times before. A newspaper prints a ranting and raving diatribe whose relevance has passed as minute as the writer's intellect. The topic is an attack upon Israel which is taken as verification that the writer is Jewish. A local Rabbi appoints himself official spokesman for this and jusself-summary. A ranting and raving rebuttal, concluding with the usual "Israel Melkis." What is accomplished? Last week, Art Fishman, in his article, "Zionism: A National Liberation Movement?" attacked Zionism as a form of racism. Of course, Mr. Fishman's propositions can be articulately refuted, but this is unnecessary, for here, as in the U.N.'s anti-Zionism resolution, Zionism is not the issue. Mr. Fishman would argue just as vehemently for the rights of left-handed Albanian dwarfs. If by doing so, he would be able to voice his leftist opposition to American policies.

On November 11th, 1975, the General Assembly of the U.N., eroded with exaltation and malaise, with good reason pleased in light of their open hostility towards Israel. How is one to explain the profuse joy exhibited by such diverse ideological and geographical countries such as Mexico, Cuba, India, and the Black African Block? One may not recall the Declaration of the Nonaligned Nations in 1975, when the issue at hand was the admission of communist China and the expulsion of Taiwan. There, too, the communist, unaligned and socialist countries opposed Taiwan as an Inhumanitarian, Imperialist and Cheesemonger state. The Cuban delegation can challenge Mr. Fishman, but they don't seem to understand its meaning and implications. But when given an opportunity to voice their views, they suddenly become staunch anti-Zionists. The same holds true for Mr. Fishman. Mr. Fishman, fortunately, is a blind artist of anticommunism. In the late 1960s, he and his species roamed the college campuses of America in search of a following. But now that the dust has cleared, all that remains is the excrement in the form of outdated and shallow claptrap. Unfortunately, some of that excrement found its way onto the pages of Ticker. Therefore, it is beneath the dignity and severity of the historical truth to defend Judaism from the likes of Art Fishman. It is impertinent for the reader to understand what an Art Fishman is. Mr. Fishman is of the Party of True Zionists, and both the Party of True Zionists and the Party of True Revolutionaries. He will always make a lot of noise about the next consequence. In his diatribe, he takes an Arab stance. He sides with Black Africa, but is not black, nor is he African. What is Art Fishman? He is an American White and a Jew, yet he calls his fellow Jews racists. This does not disturb me, for if he were Black, he would undoubtedly call his fellow Black bigots. That is the cloth from which he is cut. Art Fishman is an embarrassment to his people, to his family and to me for I never felt that Judaism had a status so low as that occupied by Art Fishman.

points at 81-69 with 2:17 left, but the team didn't give up. Eight straight points brought the deficit down to just four points with a long minute to play. However, a missed shot was recovered by Stony Brook and Baruch fouled trying to get the ball. Stony Brook converted five of their six free throws in the closing minute to maintain the lead.

Lanham led all scorers with 20 points. Charney and Steuer had 18 points apiece and Matos 15. Charney had 11 rebounds and Steuer 8. Baruch converted 25 of 29 foul shots for a .862 mark, a new school record. Steuer was 7 for 7.

Ticker's Referendum

By Richard Rodriguez

In recent months, Baruchians have seen the TICKER discontinue for one reason or another. Problems usually result from the fact that the administration places roadblocks from time to time, preventing student government from distributing student funds. It is the only reason this issue has Wednesday's date on it. This semester, and Graduate Divisions have solved this problem by establishing independent funding for their respective publication associations.

On the other hand, TICKER must apply to student government for their funds, and depend on student club advertising to complement her budget. The passage of this referendum would give TICKER enough independent funding to run club ads absolutely free while remaining a free press: free from either administrative or student governmental influence.

It should be noted that the passage of this referendum would not cost students any additional fees. It would merely re-direct monies already paid directly to TICKER to insure the maintenance of a free student press. We urge all students to sign the referendum at their earliest convenience.

A complete text of this referendum appears on the editorial page of this issue.

Foley Square Rally

By Robert Rosezweig

Wednesday, Dec. 3, 1975 — Today a rally was held at Foley Square (near City Hall) to demonstrate public opposition to Senate Bill S-1. About 100 devoted souls assembled in the raw weather to hear speakers representing labor, the judiciary, and civil rights groups denounce this harshly repressive piece of legislation. The rally was sponsored by the New York Coalition to defeat S-1, a broad spectrum of citizens from left to right who united in the desire to preserve our Constitutional Rights.

This bill, if enacted, could result in the arrest of peaceful demonstrators, persons who make public any classified government documents, and persons who merely SPEAK of revolution. There are numerous vague sections of this bill which could result in the arrest of innocent people under other "crimes." The speeches were short and succinct. Judge Bruce Wright's speech was for me the high point of the rally. He began by saying that this was our last chance to speak out against the government. Because S-1 would make public criticism of the government illegal. He quoted President Ford and said "this country is slowly slipping into the position of a police state and it is frightening to those of us who have eyes to see it." He wound up with the interest of our constitution we must defeat S-1.

The other speakers struck similar notes and one aptly summarized their analysis of S-1 by stating it was a criminal code written by criminals (meaning the Nixon crew). Dan Feldman, local Representative Elizabeth Holtzman, office, and a statement from the Congressman. In it she said the opposition will fight S-1 because it represents the Nixonian use of the criminal justice system to cover crimes by government officials. She further stated that S-1 is a power grab. It aimed at "establishing a system to charge crimes by government officials," and that after giving a history lesson on the evolution of federal jurisdiction which (S-1 facilitates) can easily lead to the formation of a national police system, and declared that we must stop S-1.

French(ing) At Baruch

By Carol Targum and Zeina Abiad

The French Club of Baruch is an organization which has been overlooked by students as being too elite, too decorated with native French-speaking people, or students taking French classes. This is not so. You do not have to speak a language to be acquainted with its culture. Le Cercle Frangais, as it's often called, has never been more ac- ceptable than it is this semester. The student body has had a terrific response from the French community to attend the shows presented. The historical film we showed earlier this semester entitled "The Rise of the Moors" is an excellent film of this historical period. Of course, last year we showed two Psychologically oriented films "Tannenbaum" and "The Man Who Lives." We are thinking of showing the film "Bornsalive" (produced in 1970) an internationally popular film in French with English subtitles. The stars of this film are quite famous, Jean-Paul Belmondo and Alain Delon. If possible, we are trying to get some French Pornography (E7), if we can get it at a reasonable price, we will show it.

In the event of a fashion show and a play in French, Le medecin malgre lui, by Moliere, it will be put on by our parish, which will be a reflection of French culture. We will all be served, a combination of beverages, food of course, food will be served, a combination of cheeses, food of course, food will be served.
