The Ticker
The Student Voice Of Baruch College

Volume LXXVIII, Number 8  Tuesday, March 30, 1976

A Free Press

Press Meets Wingfield

By RICHARD WARREN

March 26 — Today, Sentry Editor-in-Chief Mark Friedman and Editorial Board member Ada Solia, along with Socialist Party candidate Catarion Garza met with President Wingfield concerning the alleged assassination attempt on Friedman and or Garza.

President Wingfield stated that if police wished to enter the Garza residence, Wingfield also said that if police had told him they had no reason to believe any Baruch student was involved in the incident, and the firing of random shots is not unusual in this area. Wingfield also said that if police had no respect for the journalism of the Sentry which he described as inaccurate, biased and lacking in credibility. He also asked the Ticker in a similar way, and referred to any assembly member that its best to present news accurately and to correct our inaccuracies. The Police Deputy Commissioner of Public Information’s office has told this reporter it has not been determined whether or not it was an assassination attempt.

Wingfield was angered about Sentry’s accusations against Baruch College students and stated he did not believe a Baruch student was responsible for the alleged assassination attempt. He did not give much weight to the death threats in the Baruch Eye. He also called attention to an article that has been published in the legitimate Baruch College publications. Wingfield stated his predecessor had no respect for the journalism of the Sentry which he described as inaccurate, biased and lacking in credibility. He also asked the Ticker in a similar way, and referred to an assembly member that its best to present news accurately and to correct our inaccuracies. The Police Deputy Commissioner of Public Information’s office has told this reporter it has not been determined whether or not it was an assassination attempt.

Wingfield was angered about Sentry’s accusations against Baruch College students and stated he did not believe a Baruch student was responsible for the alleged assassination attempt. He did not give much weight to the death threats in the Baruch Eye. He also called attention to an article that has been published in the legitimate Baruch College publications. Wingfield stated his predecessor had no respect for the journalism of the Sentry which he described as inaccurate, biased and lacking in credibility. He also asked the Ticker in a similar way, and referred to an assembly member that its best to present news accurately and to correct our inaccuracies. The Police Deputy Commissioner of Public Information’s office has told this reporter it has not been determined whether or not it was an assassination attempt.

Another Fire At Baruch

By RICHARD WARREN

Last Wednesday, March 24 a fire broke out in the 5th floor bathroom of the 23rd Street Building. Mark Ronke discovered it when he left his office at 9:40. After spotting the fire he immediately called the alarm and then returned to class to inform his classmates.

The fire was put under control when Friedman discovered it. The bathroom was evacuated in 9 minutes with no student or faculty member being injured. The fire was extinguished by fire department immediately after the discovery by security and medical department. It was a fire department that had appeared about 8 months ago. It had been called in to determine whether the building was safe to reenter. The building was searched by security but no evidence of fire was found. At first Friedman thought it had a false alarm, but after it had been several months, Mr. Max Wingfield’s head of security, called that the quality of working false alarms could also be understood to the fullest extent of the fire danger. He also explained to everyone that people can still get hurt during evaluations.

The cause of the fire was not determined since there were no suspects. There was no evidence of arson. The fire had been determined that it was caused by people who had been using the bathroom. Mr. Friedman had called in to determine whether the building was safe to reenter. The building was searched by security but no evidence of fire was found.

DSSG Treasurer Fran McGinn

DSSG Treasurer "Resigns"

By CARLYLE THORNHILL

March 26 — Today, Sentry. The eight members of the Assembly would be considered as having resigned. The news that they would resign was expected to come before the secretaries of the Assembly met with, "I have determined that the. Ticker has been published in the legitimate Baruch College publications. Wingfield stated his predecessor had no respect for the journalism of the Sentry which he described as inaccurate, biased and lacking in credibility. He also asked the Ticker in a similar way, and referred to an assembly member that its best to present news accurately and to correct our inaccuracies. The Police Deputy Commissioner of Public Information’s office has told this reporter it has not been determined whether or not it was an assassination attempt.

Wingfield replied "I don’t know that to be the case.” He also stated that these changes could be documented in a publication lead to federal prosecution. The cause of the fire was not determined since there were no suspects. There was no evidence of arson. The fire had been determined that it was caused by people who had been using the bathroom. Mr. Friedman had called in to determine whether the building was safe to reenter. The building was searched by security but no evidence of fire was found.

Another Fire At Baruch

By RICHARD WARREN

Last Wednesday, March 24 a fire broke out in the 5th floor bathroom of the 23rd Street Building. Mark Ronke discovered it when he left his office at 9:40. After spotting the fire he immediately called the alarm and then returned to class to inform his classmates.

The fire was put under control when Friedman discovered it. The bathroom was evacuated in 9 minutes with no student or faculty member being injured. The fire was extinguished by fire department immediately after the discovery by security and medical department. It was a fire department that had appeared about 8 months ago. It had been called in to determine whether the building was safe to reenter. The building was searched by security but no evidence of fire was found. At first Friedman thought it had a false alarm, but after it had been several months, Mr. Max Wingfield’s head of security, called that the quality of working false alarms could also be understood to the fullest extent of the fire danger. He also explained to everyone that people can still get hurt during evaluations.

The cause of the fire was not determined since there were no suspects. There was no evidence of arson. The fire had been determined that it was caused by people who had been using the bathroom. Mr. Friedman had called in to determine whether the building was safe to reenter. The building was searched by security but no evidence of fire was found.

Another Fire At Baruch

By RICHARD WARREN

Last Wednesday, March 24 a fire broke out in the 5th floor bathroom of the 23rd Street Building. Mark Ronke discovered it when he left his office at 9:40. After spotting the fire he immediately called the alarm and then returned to class to inform his classmates.

The fire was put under control when Friedman discovered it. The bathroom was evacuated in 9 minutes with no student or faculty member being injured. The fire was extinguished by fire department immediately after the discovery by security and medical department. It was a fire department that had appeared about 8 months ago. It had been called in to determine whether the building was safe to reenter. The building was searched by security but no evidence of fire was found. At first Friedman thought it had a false alarm, but after it had been several months, Mr. Max Wingfield’s head of security, called that the quality of working false alarms could also be understood to the fullest extent of the fire danger. He also explained to everyone that people can still get hurt during evaluations.

The cause of the fire was not determined since there were no suspects. There was no evidence of arson. The fire had been determined that it was caused by people who had been using the bathroom. Mr. Friedman had called in to determine whether the building was safe to reenter. The building was searched by security but no evidence of fire was found.

Another Fire At Baruch

By RICHARD WARREN

Last Wednesday, March 24 a fire broke out in the 5th floor bathroom of the 23rd Street Building. Mark Ronke discovered it when he left his office at 9:40. After spotting the fire he immediately called the alarm and then returned to class to inform his classmates.

The fire was put under control when Friedman discovered it. The bathroom was evacuated in 9 minutes with no student or faculty member being injured. The fire was extinguished by fire department immediately after the discovery by security and medical department. It was a fire department that had appeared about 8 months ago. It had been called in to determine whether the building was safe to reenter. The building was searched by security but no evidence of fire was found. At first Friedman thought it had a false alarm, but after it had been several months, Mr. Max Wingfield’s head of security, called that the quality of working false alarms could also be understood to the fullest extent of the fire danger. He also explained to everyone that people can still get hurt during evaluations.

The cause of the fire was not determined since there were no suspects. There was no evidence of arson. The fire had been determined that it was caused by people who had been using the bathroom. Mr. Friedman had called in to determine whether the building was safe to reenter. The building was searched by security but no evidence of fire was found.
Crafting a narrative piece on the Elizabethan age

By ANDY BARNES

Elizabith... Elizabethan... symbolizes an age of beauty,esych, and elegance. It is a time when the arts were at their finest, when literature flourished, and when the world seemed to be full of promise and possibility.

In the Elizabethan age, the arts flourished. Poetry, drama, and music all reached new heights. Shakespeare, Marlowe, and Spenser were among the most prolific writers of the time, and their works continue to be read and enjoyed today.

Music was also a major aspect of the Elizabethan age. The courtiers were known for their love of music, and the Elizabethan era saw the development of many new musical forms. The lute, for example, became a popular instrument, and the lute song was a common form of entertainment.

The Elizabethan age was also marked by a number of significant events. The death of Queen Elizabeth I in 1603 marked the end of the age, and with it came a period of political instability and economic decline. However, the legacy of the Elizabethan age endures, and its influence can be seen in many aspects of modern life.

In conclusion, the Elizabethan age was a time of great beauty and elegance, and its influence can still be seen today. The arts flourished, music reached new heights, and the world seemed full of promise and possibility. The Elizabethan age was a time of great achievement, and its legacy continues to inspire us today.
Queen Band

(Continued from Page 1)

Dean's Office of the Dean of Students, but the Dean was away at a convention in Dallas, Texas. Mr. Ron Asner, who has lately been involved with matters regarding the Petition, was also unavailable for comment when the Observer called. Students, Florence Siegel was unaware of any communication concerning the petition. By far the strongest statement on the matter came from the Director of Student Activities, Mr. Jerold Grodin. Mr. Grodin expressed doubt that the attendance of the Assembly was not a member of the Assembly and the submission of the petition above did not apply to Ms. McGinn. In addition, Mr. Grodin expressed doubt that the attendance of the treasurer, Ms. McGinn was ever recorded.

However, Ms. Doris Dixon, Secretary of DDSG, has stated that she is ready to introduce records to show that the attendance of the entire Assembly has been recorded for all meetings and that the eight individuals named have been absent for three consecutive meetings without prior written excuse.

Article IV of the DSSG Constitution seems to answer all questions concerning the Treasurer's membership of the Assembly. It reads, "The Assembly shall consist of 29 members elected by a plurality of the votes cast by the Day Session Students and four appointed members as described in the sections of this article, (and goes on to describe the President, Treasurer, twenty-four Assembly members and thirty five repeaters)."

Most of the College Officials seemed unwilling to comment, but students were not as reluctant. Jack Pasquale, Treasurer of CDF/AVID, seemed to sum up the prevailing opinion when he said, "It would seem that once the Treasurer's position as an Assembly member was determined and formal attendance records could be produced to substantiate the claim that there has been an infraction of Article VI, Section 3, Subsection I, there would be the need for appropriateness of the Assembly."

Big question now on campus is who is going to be the new Treasurer.

Hosts Takeover

BY RICHARD WARREN

March 29 — Five days ago, Hosts students took over the administration of their college, about 500 students participated in the takeover. The other students have continued to attend classes, and professors have continued to teach, with students taking over the administrative functions.

They hope to mobilize support outside of the campus. There will be a protest in front of CIBS, Thursday at noon. This site was selected because of CBS' lack of support for the struggle of CUNY students.

Hosts students have presented seven demands. They are:

1) Save Hosts and Medgar Everette.
2) Maintain Open Admissions.
3) Continuation of Free Tuition.
4) No further cuts.
5) Restore funds already cut.
6) No cuts in existing programs.
7) No furlough

Most students are attending classes and professors are teaching. On behalf of the Ticker, I express full support for this action. It is hoped that the college will not be asked to make sacrifices when the men on top are not.

Queen Band

(Continued from Page 2)

Company is also one of two songs that Brian May sings. It sounds surprisingly enough like Paul McCartney.

The last song on the album is Mercury's incredible "Bohemian Rhapsody." For a little history on the song, "Bohemian Rhapsody" was released in England in November. It took two weeks to reach number one where it stayed for nine weeks. The song which is 6 minutes long is getting a tremendous amount of airplay on all of the rock stations. "Bohemian Rhapsody" is a hit of everything. Reading Gilbert and Sullivan operatics!

Queen just completed a tour of the States. They played four days at the Beacon Theater. Queen's stage show is as outrageous as you might expect.

The concert began with "Bohemian Rhapsody" complete with a light show, visuals, and explosions. Queen generated so much energy that most of the audience found themselves unconsciously standing throughout the show.

Essay Contest Column

(Continued from Page 2)

Question: Are these subject headings just for books listed in the card catalog?

Answer: No. The specialized bibliographical indexes use one or more of them. The Education Index, for instance, lists articles under Student Self-Government. Student Organizations and Societies, and Administration of Schools - Student Participation. The ERIC system uses Student Government and Student Organizations in its index Resources in Education. As a case in point, computer-based systems the search terms are short and have no subdivisions.

Question: Is there a way to find ready-made bibliographies on student self-government?

Answer: Look into Bibliographic Index under Self-Government (in Higher Education). This index reveals bibliographies that are otherwise buried in books or at the end of periodical articles. Why not profit (in this honest way) from someone else's work?

Send your query in to Essay Contest Column, Ticker. All questions will be answered.

Next Week: History from a historian's point of view.

Looking for a job?

Attend the A.M.A. Career Conference April 6th.

Register Thursday, April 1st, Room 831, 26th St. Center between 12-2 p.m. All students wanting an interview with a company must register at this meeting or they will not be given an interview.