By RICHARD WARREN

On Monday, November 15th, Civil Court Judge Bruce Wright spoke to a small but enthusiastic gathering of Baruch students in Room 4 North (23rd St. Building). He spoke for approximately an hour on his prime topic being racism.

Wright, a staunch advocate of centennial celebrations, termed them "flagwaving bunk." He said that since these two hundred years included the height of slavery, there could be no reasonable blacks to participate in such a celebration. Wright said that blacks should instead "celebrate survival, since for us survival is a miracle." He then said, "It was once considered a crime to teach blacks to read and write. When some went to the trouble to read or write anyway, they were taught to read the Bible. The Bible pacified them with the gleam and light of the hereafter as their reward."

Wright then responded to an accusation made against him that he is too "racial" to this he responded, "How can you help being racial? The first thing you see when you look at another person is their color. I never forget a social club called in Harlem the "Blair's Society"

Judge Wright At Baruch

This club was so named because in order to be a member your skin had to be light enough so you had blue veins. Continuing on the subject of racism, Wright spoke of the U.S. Constitution which counted blacks as 3/5 of a man, it stated that at the time the Constitution was written, importation of blacks was unlimited. But due to a restaurant, and the right to be treated in a hospital. Wright commented, "There were hospitals that wouldn't treat blacks. Blacks would bleed to death. There's a show on Broadway now about singer Bessie Smith called Me and Bessie starring Linda Hopkins. This show doesn't show how Bessie Smith died. She bled to death on the side of a road." Continuing on this topic, Wright stated, "We even had to go to the Supreme Court for the right to marry a woman he loved of another race. At the time Virginia had a law against it, but so did New York and California. After the ruling was made, a member of the California legislature stated he would oppose repealing the law, since in a few years the Court might reverse itself." Wright also stated, "We even had to go to court for the right to fight for this country." He then commented that one would expect white Americans to be glad to have blacks to use in front line combat, as the French and English were.

Wright attacked the NAACP for celebrating the 200th anniversary of the Supreme Court ruling. He was further disgruntled that Elliot Richardson was the chief and honored speaker at that celebration.

Loss Of Black & Hispanic Department Imminent

By GLENN BRAUNSTEIN

Today I had the privilege of interviewing teachers and a committee of six members of the Black & Hispanic group. There were also reporters present from the other school newspapers. What made the event such a big deal was the news circulating around the college that Black & Hispanic studies programs are being phased out at Baruch. Though not yet a fact, it is more than just a rumor.

Robert Martinez and Olga Cassonova Sanchez are some of the names you may never hear again around this campus. They are the most well known leaders in the Black Studies Dept. They feel that just when the Black & Hispanic students were gaining momentum into its own, and doing so much to help the ever increasing ratio of Spanish & Black heritage getting a chance for a good education. City Hall and the Board of Education have nothing to do with this. This is a black student's issue dreamed up by the hierarchy of Baruch College itself.

There is no budget crunch involved. It is strictly a local issue. The committee for Black & Hispanic Studies feels that this is an arbitrary decision by the powers in Baruch. Hispanics and Blacks lack political power. There is also racial overtones to deny Hispanics and Blacks their place in the political sun. They also feel it is not an important department.

The Romance Language Dept. is being swallowed up by a phony merger with the Germanic and Slavic Language Dept. Both Chairpersons of these departments have told the school that their assistants are not being considered for tenure. "They will be the last of the tenured assistant professors here," said one.

Because it's a "breeze and an experiment with writing and want to meet a lot of black people" the BSU is going to the Supreme Court to overturn the decision.

School Closed

School is closed this coming Thursday and Friday, November 25 and 26. We wish all our readers a Happy Thanksgiving!

ANOTHER VIETNAM

Jimmy Carter announced late last week that if the Arabs began an oil embargo during his administration, U.S. troops would militarily take over an area in the Mideast abundant with oil. Apparently the U.S. is not finished waging imperialist wars.

GET EXPERIENCE

THE TICKER can always use people willing to work hard. If you have some free time, like to experiment with writing and want to meet a lot of fun people, come to Room 307 in the Student Center.
W.B.M.B. Replies

The above four names also are people who performed up to our expectations in terms of contributions. The fact that they received the letters to the editor. They bang the drums in the station, but they do not receive the letters. Finally, Mr. Rodriguez's stance was against the administration. The right of removal of the board members is the executive board of a 23 states where the situation was stable, with objective and important. It is not a more efficiently run station. The station's financial condition would improve if we did not talk about it. W.B.M.B. would think twice before putting any tactics against the station. Mr. Patlan has been put under a lot of pressure. We are trying to prudently build the entire station. He may be paid more than he expected and he is suffering in the station. Instead of greeting W.B.M.B. with cheers, it is better to sing a song to support the station. The station's future is uncertain. This is the reason why the station's financial condition would improve.
The Ticker
The Student Voice Of Baruch College

Editorial
ESSA Elections Illegal

Last week, the Evening Session Student Assemby (ESSA) held its annual elections. There were several happenings, including three elections.
The first being that during the first night of the election, it was reported that only eight people had actually voted. After the election was over, about 300 voting slips remained in sealed envelopes.

But the most important issue at the election was the manner in which the elections were held. The Government of Baruch College, which is the official statement of college policy, demands that any question of the Respective student assemblies must be considered in the Senate Elections Committee of the Baruch Senate. When it was discovered that the Senate Senators were voting by mail and by Representative, the Senate President immediately called Senator Franklin. Senator Franklin replied, "I didn't give the names of the Evening Session representatives to the Senate until last evening." However, at the time the comment was made, it was several days after the elections were over, and the votes of the representatives from the different clubs were already held.

It is obvious to see that the Senate's position is to hold proper elections again, which may turn out to be a waste of time. But on the other hand, more students may participate or thoroughly check the motions in which the elections were conducted, and check for irregularities.

Any way it will be the Senate's responsibility to follow up before any new members of E.S.S.A. takes office.

Students Get Screwed Again!

As a result of Albany's slowdown in reviewing TAP applications, numerous students have yet to receipt their aid. Some students, who have not received tuition payments from these applications, are obligations against

The Baruch Community Presents
Adventures In Self
The American Dream: Illusion Or Real

Prof Michael Policastro
Dr. Milton P. Ehrlich

This Week

CONCERTS
Cecil Aronson - Nov. 24 at 11:00 P.M. in room 800, Baruch College; Neil Young, The NY Times - Nov. 25 at 11:00 P.M. in room 800, Baruch College; The Yorks - Nov. 26 at 11:00 P.M. in room 800, Baruch College.

TICKER
The Morgan Press 600 8th Ave. W. Palm Beach, FL. 33401

Budget Breakdown

For Your Own Good

By Charles Rotman

All right, all you students out there read this! The Baruch basketball team will be playing in Bloomington, Indiana for a game last year. That was the same year when the team played in the postseason tourney. The team's performance that year was so good that they were considered to be one of the best teams in the country. That year, they were assigned to play in the tournament. The year after, they were assigned to play in the tournament, but were assigned to play against a team that was stronger than them. They were not able to make it past the first round. Today, the Baruch basketball team is planning to play in the tournament again.

The Baruch basketball team is planning to play in the tournament again. The team is currently ranked #25 in the nation, and is expected to have a good chance of making it to the tournament.

The team's performance in the tournament will be a key factor in determining their success. If they are able to make it past the first round, they will have a good chance of winning the tournament. If they are not able to make it past the first round, they will have a difficult time winning.

The team's success in the tournament will also depend on how well they play against their opponents. If they are able to play well against their opponents, they will have a good chance of winning the tournament.

The team's success in the tournament will also depend on how well they play against their opponents. If they are able to play well against their opponents, they will have a good chance of winning the tournament.
Third National Student Conference Against Racism

By RICHARD RODRIGUEZ

Last Friday afternoon a protest took off from the campus of Boston University. It was the opening event of the Conference on Racist Apartheid. The event, which was attended by students and faculty from across the United States, was organized to demand an end to the system of racial segregation and discrimination in South Africa.

The conference, which is being held in the context of the recent escalation of protests against the apartheid regime in South Africa, is being held to raise awareness about the issue and to mobilize for action.

The protesters marched through the city, carrying signs and placards, chanting slogans, and calling for an end to the apartheid regime. The march was a peaceful protest, with no arrests or incidents reported.

The conference is being held in Boston, which has a large South African community, and is being supported by a number of local organizations.

The conference is expected to draw thousands of participants and is being held in partnership with the National Coordinator of the National Student Coalition Against Racist Apartheid.

The conference is set to address a wide range of issues related to the apartheid regime, including economic, social, and political aspects. It is expected to provide a platform for students and faculty to discuss and develop strategies for combating the apartheid regime.

The conference is being held in the context of a growing international movement to end apartheid, with protests and demonstrations taking place around the world.

The conference is being held in support of the struggles of the people of South Africa and is being held to raise awareness about the issue and to mobilize for action.

The conference is being held in partnership with the National Coordinator of the National Student Coalition Against Racist Apartheid.
John Collins

By KAREN LEE KAHN

The John Collins Band was formerly the Ozark Mountain Daredevils. The nucleus of the Ozark Mountain Daredevils was a three-member group composed of John Denver, John Fife, and John McEuen. The Ozark Mountain Daredevils have been successful in the country music market, but John Collins, the lead singer of the band, has expressed the desire to pursue a more contemporary music style.

Norman Lewis Retrospective

By LINDA PACREO

The production of "Nothing But Fun & Profit" was a collaborative effort involving many talented individuals. The show was directed by Reuben Scherer, who has directed several successful productions. The set design was entrusted to Robert Fife, who has received critical acclaim for his work in the past. The costumes were designed by the renowned costume designer, who has worked on several major productions. The lighting design was handled by the celebrated lighting designer, who has won numerous awards for his work.

Film Released For Showing

"The Pawnbroker"

By RICHARD WALKER

On Thursday, November 19th, the film "The Pawnbroker" will be released. The film is based on the novel by Theodore Sturgeon. It stars Rod Steiger as the title character, a pawnbroker who becomes involved in a business of human rights. The film has received critical acclaim for its powerful portrayal of the character and its exploration of themes such as racism, capitalism, and compassion.

Dynamo At The IRT

By PHILIP V. VENTO

The performance of "Dynamo" at the IRT is a significant event for the theater community. The production has received critical acclaim for its powerful storytelling and compelling performances. The cast has been praised for their ability to bring the characters to life on stage, and the production has been noted for its ability to engage and captivate audiences.

Boy Meets Boy

By L. PACREO

The production of "Boy Meets Boy" is a musical that follows the life of a young man named Jamie. The musical explores themes such as self-discovery, identity, and love. The show features a talented cast and a captivating score. The production has received critical acclaim for its portrayal of the characters and its ability to engage audiences with its message of acceptance and love.
You Can Do It

By M. MALLICK

It's surprisingly Easy to change your transmission oil, even from a manual car. Here's how to do it:

1. Park your car on a level surface.
2. Turn off the engine and set the parking brake.
3. Open the hood and locate the dipstick.
4. Remove the dipstick and wipe it clean.
5. Place it back and wait for the engine to cool down.
6. Remove the dipstick again and note the level of oil.
7. If the oil is below the 'add' mark, you need to add oil. If it's above the 'add' mark, you need to remove oil.
8. Open the oil drain plug with a wrench.
9. Place a drain pan under the plug.
10. Loosen the drain plug with a wrench.
11. Remove the drain plug and let the oil drain into the pan.
12. Once all the oil has drained, screw in the drain plug.
13. Close the hood and turn on the engine.
14. Check the oil level and add or remove oil as needed.

Eating Out

By STEVEN KENGIN

If you're looking for a new place to eat, then try Spac's! Spac's is located on the corner of First and Main, and they offer a wide variety of dishes. From salads to sandwiches, there's something for everyone. The service is friendly and the prices are reasonable. Give Spac's a try today!

Apathy

By RICHARD WARRIN

Several students have received letters from the Soviet Union, offering them scholarships. However, few have expressed interest in the offer. Some speculate that this may be due to a lack of information or a general apathy towards foreign opportunities.

Addendum

Please be informed that the student body is currently facing a crisis. We urge all students to attend the upcoming meeting to discuss the situation.

Oh! The Joys Of Commuting

By KAREN FALDON

Students who commute to college often face a variety of challenges. One common problem is the long commute, which can be time-consuming and stressful. Students must also deal with the cost of transportation, which can be a significant expense. Additionally, the lack of flexibility in the schedule can make it difficult to manage other responsibilities.

Speaking On Everything

By MILLIE SCHWARTZKOW

In recent weeks, students have expressed concerns about the school's policies on student government and representation. Many feel that the current system does not adequately represent the needs of the student body. There have been calls for change, and students are encouraged to participate in the upcoming town hall meeting to discuss these issues.
CAGERS HOPING FOR FIRST BREAK

We're looking forward to the start of the season, which will be held on October 28th at 5 p.m. at the Armory. The young and talented men's basketball team will make their debut in the annual CUNY tournament. On the strength of veteran players and new talent, the team is eagerly anticipating a successful season.

Pool Party

Christine Raheb and Jimmie Barrett led a hydrodol-like assault on the Baruch recruiting book as five time marks in six events were broken last Thursday. The men's basketball tournament held coincidently in the 23rd St. pool during club tours.

Miss Raheb, a sharp shooter, demonstrated the past weekend's potential by four seconds with a 24.4 showing. She later tied the mark in the women's 22 yd. duly, splitting the contents in a tie.

Barrett, who is also the starting basketball center, torched the men's 40 yarders, breaking a record that he had set. Vinny Provenzano dead-heated in the previous record time.

Tong had started the record parade in the first event: the 80 yd. include four men. John Dower, John Feretti, and Vinny Provenzano dead-heated in 9.2, followed by sharp, accurate spits to quickly build a 5-1 lead. A timeout by Coach Ferretti seemed ineffectual when Tong stretched the margin to 9-2 with four consecutive spits. But during the timeout, the coach had instructed his players to hit the ball deeper and towards the center of Holstorf's court for she had noticed that they were not covering it as well. The plan strategy soon paid dividends as Tong and his teammates followed through, forcing the Hofstra jims to split. The Baruch defense with well-defended cuts.

Cagers Hoping For Fast Break

The basketball season looks promising for the Baruch College basketball team. With the return of key players and the addition of new talent, the team is expected to perform well in the upcoming season.

The team is scheduled to play their first match against John Jay on October 28th at 5 p.m. at the Armory. The game will be a test of their preparation and readiness for the season.

Sportsbriefs

All intramural sports are scheduled to begin on November 1st and continue through the end of the month. The schedule includes basketball, volleyball, and soccer.

Good Luck, Harvey!

Jackson was one of the most consistent players on the team. With his speed and agility, he was a valuable asset to the Baruch College basketball team. His contributions were greatly appreciated by his teammates.

We're looking forward to seeing you all at the games. Let's support our team and cheer them on to victory!