Mashinini At Baruch

By EDWARD E. SCOTT, II

For weeks, posters throughout the campus had announced his coming, now he had arrived. It was Thursday, December 8th, and after having just finished a television interview in the Oak Lounge for the ABC television network, he was sitting in the auditorium of the 23rd and Lexington Builing, before a packed house of eager students, preparing to speak on a subject that was very close to his heart.

His name was Tsietsi Mashinini; he was the president of the Soweto Students' Representative Council (SSRC) in Soweto, South Africa. He was also an eyewitness, participant, and organizer of the workers' stayhome strike and the resulting riots that took place on June 17, 1976.

He stood and walked slowly to the microphone. His expression was calm and alert. He seemed slightly distracted by the camera crew as they set up their equipment to videotape his speech for evening news. Mashinini prepared to relate the painful story that he had related so many times before across the U.S. and Europe.

The young revolutionary told his story as he recalled the others who had refused to tolerate being treated in the Dutch language of Afrikaans in their schools. He spoke of the students encouraging their parents to support their decision by not going to work. Then he gave a vivid description of the riot.

He spoke of watching his mother, father, brother and pregnant sister die shot by police with American-made guns, while he could only stand and watch. After the riot had stopped running, and the tear gas subsided, he recalled organizing and watching the police with American-made guns, while he could only stand and watch. After the riot had stopped running, and the tear gas subsided, he recalled organizing and watching the police with American-made guns, while he could only stand and watch.

After this he paused, he looked slightly drained and a little pale under the bright television camera lights. Before he ended his speech, he turned to the audience and punctuated his speech with a cry of, "Power! Today is our day!"

A thunderous applause from the audience showed their approval. He returned to another question, he ended his speech with a cry of, "Power! Today is our day!"

After the question and answer session concluded, Mashinini responded to the question. "Yes, it might be, but the people are tired of sitting in their houses waiting for freedom. They are willing to die for their freedom." Then he added, "Besides, there are 18 million of us and 4 million of them."

After the question and answer session concluded, Mashinini responded to the question. "Yes, it might be, but the people are tired of sitting in their houses waiting for freedom. They are willing to die for their freedom." Then he added, "Besides, there are 18 million of us and 4 million of them."

The audience showed their support of majority rule in South Africa. They were ready to control the country. His reply, "When we get the power, we will know how to use it."

The next question posed was, "How can we (Black Americans) help?"

"We would like to see the big (multinational) corporations that support the policy of Apartheid in South Africa. We also can see the black South Africans ready to control their country. As concerned administrators like us have been in contact with both the corporate headquarters in Indianapolis and also with the company's regional director, a Mr. LaPardo. LaPardo assured the students that Mr. Faria is not doing anything illegal on campus. Dr. Fritz has been in contact with both the corporate headquarters in Indianapolis and also with the company's regional director, a Mr. LaPardo. LaPardo assured the students that Mr. Faria is not doing anything illegal on campus."

"Power! Today is our day!"

The audience showed their support of majority rule in South Africa. They were ready to control the country. As concerned administrators like us have been in contact with both the corporate headquarters in Indianapolis and also with the company's regional director, a Mr. LaPardo. LaPardo assured the students that Mr. Faria is not doing anything illegal on campus. Dr. Fritz has been in contact with both the corporate headquarters in Indianapolis and also with the company's regional director, a Mr. LaPardo. LaPardo assured the students that Mr. Faria is not doing anything illegal on campus.

Mashinini At Baruch

By ROBERT STEINBERG

Late Monday afternoon, Day Session Student Government leader President Chris Niles initiated procedures to take legal action against the Hert Jones Corporation. During the last few months, local representative John Faria has been selling college rings to unsuspecting Baruchians who have been led to believe that Faria can offer them the same commodity at a substantially lower price.

Many students and members of the Senior Affairs Committee like Mr. David Schwartz, as well as concerned administrators like Dr. Ruth Fritz, Director of Student Activities, have repeatedly asked Mr. Faria to cease his usage of the college's name and stop advertising illegally on campus. Dr. Fritz has been in contact with both the corporate headquarters in Indianapolis and also with the company's region director, a Mr. LaPardo. LaPardo assured Dr. Fritz that Mr. Faria was engaging in any irresponsible illegal advertising techniques. He would put a stop to it. Aside from this remark, LaPardo seemed quite disinterested and rude. Little satisfaction, if any, is likely to result.

Chris Niles and DSSG Treasurer Errol Grannum have indicated that students are being constantly asked to tap their financial resources, without being ripped off by a company using unethical business practices and selling phony college rings as they would the "real McCoys."
Baruch Rings And John Faria

By PHILIP V. DIOVETTI

Faria and I have no objection to the present proposal. The students are present in the book store, and the present proposal has been in the book store.

Faria: We still have no objection. The present proposal has been in the book store. Everytime she brushed by a... 2 Eggs

Faria: The present proposal has been in the book store. The present proposal has been in the book store.
The Ticker
The Student Voice Of Baruch College

Page 4 • THE TROLLER • Thursday, December 14, 1976

Letters-to-the-editor

In response to your editorial "Phony Rings,"* the Student Senate of Baruch College, in connection with the Baruch College Student Government, would like to make a few comments in an attempt to set the record straight.

The circulars distributed by Herff Jones, Inc., were delivered to the students' dormitory rooms by JAN employees. Since that time, the JAN employees have received numerous threats and threats of violence. This has been the result of the Janitors' union's stand against the ring sale, which is against their contracts, as well as the long tradition of support for the students by the JAN employees.

The circle distribution was done in connection with the ring sale, and there is no reason to believe that this practice will continue in the future. The Student Senate of Baruch College, in connection with the Baruch College Student Government, has made every effort to support the JAN employees in their efforts to prevent the ring sale.

The Student Senate of Baruch College, in connection with the Baruch College Student Government, will continue to support the JAN employees in their efforts to prevent the ring sale, and will make every effort to support the JAN employees in their efforts to prevent the ring sale in the future.

Thank you for your cooperation.

Freshman Survey Results

Phony Rings

A controversy has arisen over the rings currently being sold by Herff Jones, Inc., and the Baruch College Student Government has conducted a survey of the students in connection with the ring sale.

The results of the survey are as follows:

1. The majority of the students who purchased rings are satisfied with their purchases, but a minority (less than 10%) are not.

2. A majority (60%) of the students who did not purchase rings are not interested in purchasing rings.

3. A majority (60%) of the students who purchased rings are not interested in purchasing rings.

4. A majority (60%) of the students who did not purchase rings are not interested in purchasing rings.

5. A majority (60%) of the students who purchased rings are not interested in purchasing rings.

6. A majority (60%) of the students who did not purchase rings are not interested in purchasing rings.

7. A majority (60%) of the students who purchased rings are not interested in purchasing rings.

8. A majority (60%) of the students who did not purchase rings are not interested in purchasing rings.

9. A majority (60%) of the students who purchased rings are not interested in purchasing rings.

10. A majority (60%) of the students who purchased rings are not interested in purchasing rings.

Thank you for your cooperation.

Phony Rings

A controversy has arisen over the rings currently being sold by Herff Jones, Inc., and the Baruch College Student Government has conducted a survey of the students in connection with the ring sale.

The results of the survey are as follows:

1. The majority of the students who purchased rings are satisfied with their purchases, but a minority (less than 10%) are not.

2. A majority (60%) of the students who did not purchase rings are not interested in purchasing rings.

3. A majority (60%) of the students who purchased rings are not interested in purchasing rings.

4. A majority (60%) of the students who did not purchase rings are not interested in purchasing rings.

5. A majority (60%) of the students who purchased rings are not interested in purchasing rings.

6. A majority (60%) of the students who did not purchase rings are not interested in purchasing rings.

7. A majority (60%) of the students who purchased rings are not interested in purchasing rings.

8. A majority (60%) of the students who did not purchase rings are not interested in purchasing rings.

9. A majority (60%) of the students who purchased rings are not interested in purchasing rings.

10. A majority (60%) of the students who purchased rings are not interested in purchasing rings.

Thank you for your cooperation.

Jewish Youths Movement Invites You to Chanukah Party

Mon., Dec. 20, 5-8 p.m.
Oak Lounge, Student Center
FREE Glatt Kosher Food Served
Remember the date! Bring your friends down!
Exiled South African Speaks At Baruch

By PHILIP O. SIKOTRO

Baltimore, December 11. Baruch College's 4-North auditorium was filled with 300-400 students who came to listen to Tsietsi Mashinini. The 25-year-old, leader of a student movement in South Africa, fled to the U.S. after being imprisoned in South Africa.

Some witnesses claimed that police used tear gas to try to disperse high school students. Soweto residents, parents, teachers, and other community leaders organized a rally at Orlando Stadium.

The police began a search for Mashinini because they believed he was involved in the riot. The police said that they were looking for students who had attacked them during the riots.

Mashinini opened his speech at Baruch's student community. Speaking at Baruch, Mashinini said, "Because we couldn't stay in our homes, we went to the streets and organized a rally at Orlando Stadium. Quiet, well-organized, we were surrounded by anti-riot squads and attacked with tear gas and batons.

We were blocked by a contingent of black police, under the command of white officers. Police were firing shots in the back of the crowd, but organizing a legitimate demonstration in the face of that brutality, I believe that the protest movement is alive and well.

Tsietsi Mashinini was born in South Africa. He has been imprisoned twice for political reasons.

The police began a search for Mashinini because they believed he was involved in the riot. The police said that they were looking for students who had attacked them during the riots.

Mashinini opened his speech at Baruch's student community. Speaking at Baruch, Mashinini said, "Because we couldn't stay in our homes, we went to the streets and organized a rally at Orlando Stadium. Quiet, well-organized, we were surrounded by anti-riot squads and attacked with tear gas and batons.

We were blocked by a contingent of black police, under the command of white officers. Police were firing shots in the back of the crowd, but organizing a legitimate demonstration in the face of that brutality, I believe that the protest movement is alive and well.

Tsietsi Mashinini was born in South Africa. He has been imprisoned twice for political reasons.

The police began a search for Mashinini because they believed he was involved in the riot. The police said that they were looking for students who had attacked them during the riots.

Mashinini opened his speech at Baruch's student community. Speaking at Baruch, Mashinini said, "Because we couldn't stay in our homes, we went to the streets and organized a rally at Orlando Stadium. Quiet, well-organized, we were surrounded by anti-riot squads and attacked with tear gas and batons.

We were blocked by a contingent of black police, under the command of white officers. Police were firing shots in the back of the crowd, but organizing a legitimate demonstration in the face of that brutality, I believe that the protest movement is alive and well.

Tsietsi Mashinini was born in South Africa. He has been imprisoned twice for political reasons.

The police began a search for Mashinini because they believed he was involved in the riot. The police said that they were looking for students who had attacked them during the riots.

Mashinini opened his speech at Baruch's student community. Speaking at Baruch, Mashinini said, "Because we couldn't stay in our homes, we went to the streets and organized a rally at Orlando Stadium. Quiet, well-organized, we were surrounded by anti-riot squads and attacked with tear gas and batons.

We were blocked by a contingent of black police, under the command of white officers. Police were firing shots in the back of the crowd, but organizing a legitimate demonstration in the face of that brutality, I believe that the protest movement is alive and well.

Tsietsi Mashinini was born in South Africa. He has been imprisoned twice for political reasons.

The police began a search for Mashinini because they believed he was involved in the riot. The police said that they were looking for students who had attacked them during the riots.

Mashinini opened his speech at Baruch's student community. Speaking at Baruch, Mashinini said, "Because we couldn't stay in our homes, we went to the streets and organized a rally at Orlando Stadium. Quiet, well-organized, we were surrounded by anti-riot squads and attacked with tear gas and batons.

We were blocked by a contingent of black police, under the command of white officers. Police were firing shots in the back of the crowd, but organizing a legitimate demonstration in the face of that brutality, I believe that the protest movement is alive and well.

Tsietsi Mashinini was born in South Africa. He has been imprisoned twice for political reasons.

The police began a search for Mashinini because they believed he was involved in the riot. The police said that they were looking for students who had attacked them during the riots.

Mashinini opened his speech at Baruch's student community. Speaking at Baruch, Mashinini said, "Because we couldn't stay in our homes, we went to the streets and organized a rally at Orlando Stadium. Quiet, well-organized, we were surrounded by anti-riot squads and attacked with tear gas and batons.

We were blocked by a contingent of black police, under the command of white officers. Police were firing shots in the back of the crowd, but organizing a legitimate demonstration in the face of that brutality, I believe that the protest movement is alive and well.

Tsietsi Mashinini was born in South Africa. He has been imprisoned twice for political reasons.
C.U.N.Y. In Recruitment Drive

By JIM MERCER

The City University system is going on an all-out recruitment drive to attract prospective students. Each of the colleges within the system is kicking off this drive in its own fashion, and the students are ready to respond.

The reason for this unified drive is due to the fact that enrollment at C.U.N.Y. has decreased by 10,000 in the last year. More and more students are leaving the system to take advantage of the New York State Scholarship Program, which covers the full cost of tuition. As a result, many of the colleges within C.U.N.Y. have experienced a drop in enrollment.

In order to reverse this trend, each of the colleges is launching a recruitment drive to attract new students. Promotional material is being distributed to high schools, and advertisements are being placed in local newspapers and on radio and television stations. College representatives are also visiting schools and communities to talk about the benefits of attending C.U.N.Y.

The students are responding positively to this drive, and many are expressing interest in attending C.U.N.Y. This is a positive development, as it will help to ensure the continued growth and success of the system.

The Italian Society Holds Its First Social Meeting

BY ISRAEL VICTENS

The first social meeting of the Italian Society was held in Room 114, December 7th at 5:00 P.M. The meeting was attended by approximately 50 students, who participated in a variety of activities.

The purpose of the meeting was to introduce new members to the society and to discuss the upcoming events. Many of the students were impressed with the diverse events planned for the year, which include guest speakers, film screenings, and cultural events.

The Society is sponsored by the Board of Disney Education and seeks to promote and preserve Italian culture. The board consists of students and faculty who are passionate about Italian culture and willing to devote their time to organizing events.

The Society holds its first social meeting and is looking for new members to join its ranks. The meeting was well attended, and the organization appears to be growing stronger with each passing day.
Christmas is GIVING

Baruch’s Circle K Club is having a Toy and Game Drive to help different children’s groups.

Give what you can — drop off toys in lobby of 23rd St. Building during weeks of Dec. 18.

Box 425

Tuesday, December 14, 1976 • THE TICKER • Page 11

Sell Poular Health Product
No Risk Factor
Opportunity To Supplement Income
Reps Needed

The Ticker Box 425

Selling Bonafide

For the Editor-in-Chief and a Business Manager.

Applications must be made in
by December 23, 1976.

THE TICKER ASSOCIATION

15 W. 44th St., NYC 10036

Tuesday, December 14, 1976 • THE TICKER • Page 11

Freshman Survey

A majority of students (81%) have parents who feel that it is important that their children have some type of part-time job. This is in sharp contrast to the results of a recent national survey of high school seniors which found that only 31% of high school seniors in the U.S. worked part-time. This suggests that our students are more independent and self-reliant than their peers and place a higher value on financial independence.

The survey also revealed that the majority of students (70%) are interested in being involved in community service activities. This is a positive sign that our students are willing to contribute their time and efforts to help others in need.

An interesting finding is that there appears a significant difference between the academic years and the amount of time students spend on extracurricular activities. Students in their junior year spend the most time on extracurricular activities, while students in their senior year spend the least time. This may indicate that as students progress through their academic career, they become more focused on their academic work and less interested in extracurricular activities.

Of particular interest is the finding that there is a significant difference between the GPA of students who work part-time and those who do not. Students who work part-time have a lower GPA, which suggests that working part-time may be competing with their academic efforts.

Finally, the survey found that there is a significant difference between the GPA of students who are involved in community service activities and those who are not. Students who are involved in community service activities have a higher GPA, which suggests that being involved in community service activities may have a positive impact on academic performance.

Sportsbriefs

The freshman survey was an attempt to gauge the attitudes and behaviors of our students. The results of the survey indicate that our students are more independent and self-reliant than their peers and place a higher value on financial independence.

The survey also revealed that the majority of students are interested in being involved in community service activities. This is a positive sign that our students are willing to contribute their time and efforts to help others in need.

Italian Society Society...

The Italian Society at Baruch is one of the most active and vibrant groups on campus. The society was founded over 15 years ago and has grown significantly in size and influence. The society is open to all students, regardless of their Italian heritage, and provides a space for students to explore and celebrate their Italian culture.

The society has a variety of activities throughout the year, including social events, cultural events, and service events. These events are open to all students, and are a great way to meet new people and learn more about Italian culture.

In addition to its social and cultural activities, the Italian Society is also involved in service projects in the community. The society partners with local organizations to provide assistance to those in need, and helps to raise awareness about important issues.

Overall, the Italian Society is an integral part of the Baruch community, and provides a valuable opportunity for students to explore and celebrate their Italian heritage.
Statesmen Outhustled By South Conn., 76-67

By CHARLES ROTHMAN

It was a quiet bus ride home. Sandy Lanham sat alone, looking out the window into the cold, dark night. John Steuer looked at the statistics sheet. Ken Trush and Dom Marranaro whispered to each other. Joe Hollis thought about other CUNY Conference basketball teams.

Steve Postler slept. And up front, isolated from the rest of the team, Jimmy Barrett was speaking to Jimmy Barrett.

Baruch's hoopsters had just played their worst game of their young season, absorbing an unexpected— but totally deserved— defeat from an aggressive, hustling South Connecticut State College squad, 76-67, in New Haven last Thursday night.

Good defense by SCSC forced poor shooting and numerous turnovers by the Statesmen, who, despite their many mistakes, still snatched defeat from the jaws of victory.

"We just don't have the desire to win, and I don't know why not," observed a disgusted Harvey Jackson. He had just watched his team fail to run an effective offense, and worse, play like they were unaware of where they should be during plays. He had suffered through another 25 for 68 shooting— that's also a read out other CUNY Conference tournament.

"They just didn't think anything out there. They had got to know when to push the ball up and when to slow down and wait," the shakiness resulted in 15 first half turnovers, most of which occurred on fast breaks from unsure, errant passes. Harvey Offman, who has detained the role of third guard by moving the ball well, explained, "I didn't know what Sandy (Lanham) was going to do on one 2 on 2 break," said Steve. There was no doubt that he was going to cut to the basket, but instead he stopped, and my fault led to the hands of his defender.

Yet, in spite of their lapses and mishaps, the Armony was virtually presented on a silver platter to the Statesmen. SCSC was held for 70 (43%) from the field, and committed 23 turnovers as they tried their best to let Baruch escape with the win. But in a twelve-minute stretch in the second half, with the game up for grabs, Baruch canned only 5 of 22 shots, allowing a shaky eight point margin to become an insurmountable seventeen point bulge.

Daryl Breland, SCSC's 6'4" freshman forward, was instrumental in driving several open layups resulting from pretty passes by Tony Gardner, plus controlling offensive backboards from the too-late aroused Baruchians. Breland's strong effort accounted for fifteen points, many of which stopped Baruch in its tracks.

"Baruch was much improved from recent years," commented the coach. "They seemed better coached and in better condition."

Although Brown felt his team had shown good quickness, it was the general consensus of the Baruchians that their opponents were really almost impotent, and only their lackluster effort made SCSC look like professionals at running the fast break.

Ford remained optimistic that the offense which has hibernated for four games will emerge with a vengeance soon. "Harvey's installed a good offense here, and if the guards want to set up, run the play, he'll hit the open man, we'll be putting the numbers on the scoreboard."

Cager Comments:

The loss dropped the Statesmen's record to a disappointing 1-3, although, happily, none of the games count towards the CUNY Conference, in which Baruch opens play tonight, December 15, at Lehman at 8 P.M. The Statesmen return home to the Armory on Friday, December 17, when they face opposite Pennsylvania Tech, 7:30 P.M. and admission is FREE, so let's support our prospective Conference champions.

In the Binghamton Tournament held December 4-5, Baruch was conquered by the hometown club, 106-88, but bounced back the next night to defeat Rochester Tech, 76-69. Steuer, with a combined thirty-nine points and twenty-five rebounds, was selected to the All-Tournament Team. Key to the victory, as coach Jackson noted, was the balanced scoring of Zev, Steuer, Lanham and Barrett.

Sportsbriefs

THE WORLD OF INTRAMURALS

The men's and women's foul shooting tournament will proceed with its scheduled matches (see Room 708) on Thursday, Dec. 16, in the 33rd Street gym, will be decided on a best-of-15 shots basis. Those hopefuls not yet entered may do so in Room 708, where intramurals coordinators Bonnie Kloc and Tom Cracovia may be consulted for further information. Also scheduled for Thursday is the weight-lifting tourney. This bench press competition to be judged by the Hoffman Weight Index, will be separated into two classes—entrees weighing up to 175 lbs., and those above that level.

TICKER

apologizes to Team II of the volleyball tournament for incorrectly listing the names of Team III for their 2:0 record. Team II consists of Glenda Gayle, George Graham, Gordon Eng, Lloyd James, Kevin Nunn, Carl Jill, Jenny Martorena, Jordan Zenzdorff and Lory P. Scheiber.

Twenty-one of the original twenty-five teams are still alive in the double elimination basketball tourney. Tickets to Thursday's two exciting games are still available.

The tennis tournament will proceed with its scheduled matches (see Room 708) on Thursday in the Armory, with first service at 12 noon.

HOCKEY SKATING ON THIN ICE

Interest in the proposed ice hockey team has been unfortunately and inexplicably (considering that infamous Baruch apathy, it's probably easily explainable) low. However, organizers Paul Mazurowski and Kurt Shroder remain available for interested parties to contact them at 932-4667 or 351-3246, respectively. They have indicated their willingness to teach beginners the fundamentals of hockey. Okay, all you hockey bums in the tenth floor of the Armory, it's time to get up and make yourself known!

SHOOTING UP — FEMALE STYLE

Women's basketball coach Debbie Ferritti is still hoping for late prospects to supplement her team, which opens their season this Friday, December 17, versus N.Y. Tech in the gym at 5 P.M. Debbie may be contacted in Room 709.