CANDIDATES STATE THEIR CAMPAIGN PLATFORMS DURING OPEN FORUM

By EDWARD ASANTE

Candiates running for positions in the Day Sessions Student Government participated in an open forum held Tuesday, April 15 at the Oak Lounge, Student Activity Center.

Among the speakers were Sean Mason, presidential candidate for the United Students for Action party; Scott Butti, an independent candidate for president; Michael Fox, vice-presidential candidate for the Concerned Baruch Students Party; Tazir Choudhri and Allan Szydowski, both CBS hospitality candidates for upper and lower council respectively.

In this address on his platform, Mason said he has a group of run-time-advisor students who help to "bring about changes and to keep working hard for students." He stated that "there is nothing we cannot do as a group." He went on to say that no one individual can bring about significant changes in the government, and should he be voted to office he would make it his duty to utilize his experience to the service of students.

Butti said in his address that not only does he have experience in government in his former school, but is also familiar with "effective management, since he has "held a couple of businesses in the real world" and would gladly put this knowledge to work. He went on to say that this school has "too much talk and no action and a lot of students are totally interested in the school, totally uninterested in student activities." He attributed this situation on the "music of the students to the insensitive leadership of the present DSSG." If the government cares, students will care, if the government does what students want (Continued on Page A8)

INDEPENDENT CANDIDATE RUNS FOR DSSG PRESIDENT IN STUDENT ELECTIONS

By LUISA RESTIVO

Scott Butti, junior, has declared himself an independent candidate for DSSG president. He is running independent of the USA and CBS parties and hopes to bring years of working experience into Baruch's student government.

Butti, 29, graduated from LaGuardia Community College with an associate degree in Business Administration and was actively involved with the student government for two years.

"Activities shouldn't only be enjoyable but also profitable," said Butti. At LaGuardia I coordinated a four-board concert where everyone had a great time and we made a $1200 profit for the school which was reinvested for another project." Butti believes his work experience is what sets him apart from the established party candidates. "by running my own real estate brokerage and auto mechanic shop I have learned how to effectively apply book knowledge to real world situations."

Butti feels he can resolve problems between student government and school administration with his mediator skills. "My tremendous amount of real estate negotiating has taught me how to resolve problems between two groups with maximum benefit for both parties."

Butti says "I believe in Baruch, it's outstanding reputation, and feel the students deserve the total commitment I want to offer as president. I want to make being president my full-time job."

Butti believes an independent ticket will give him more flexibility. "My goal is the students' interests and in bettering Baruch for them. I am a free thinker and choose not to obligate myself to a party's fixed ideas. Fixed ideas tend to compromise student needs. Parties create dissention between people who should be working together.

With voter turnout being less than one-fourth the student population, Butti feels the present student government is not reaching a majority of the students. "Many Baruch students have a hectic school and work schedule and cannot participate in clubs. They feel abandoned and ignored. But they still have the right to be heard!"

Butti continually stresses unity.

DSSG FUND ALLOCATION DEBATE DIVIDES COUNCIL

Some say it has become a racial issue

By TONI COLAVITO

On Tuesday, April 18, the Day Session Student Government voted 5-3 not to allocate $975 for a bus to take students on the April 29 march on Washington.

Mitchell Cooper, upper council member, said that the DSSG should not fund the trip because every student in Baruch agrees with all the issues the march was right for. "If we use government money, we are taking a position that we shouldn't be taking," he said. "We have large groups of students that don't agree with these issues." He said that if a club wanted to sponsor the march and had asked council for money for a bus, "I wouldn't have the right to tell that group they can't do it."

According to the April 29 March on Washington flyer, the marchers will rally for issues as "an end to racism, the death penalty, abortion, rent, tuition, full student aid and an independent Palestinian state."

Wilson Shum, lower council member and vice-presidential candidate of the United students for Action party, voted yes to the proposal, arguing that the council votes "seen divided along racial lines."

VICE-PRESIDENTIAL CANDIDATE

FOX DEFENDS CBS PARTY PLATFORM

By RITA LEAHY

According to Michael Fox, the Concerned Baruch Students' party vice-presidential candidate, that several of the party's ideas have already been proposed are false.

The CBS (John Fitzgerald-Michael Fox) platform states that one of the party's goals, if elected, will be to attempt to arrange for recreational activities to take place on the roof of 17 Lexington Ave. However, this idea had already been suggested last semester and was publicly passed as something for the DSSG to investigate. The possibility was investigated and found to be unrealistic due to zoning restrictions and the fact that the area is residential and forbids school activities to take place after 10 p.m. According to Wilson Shum, vice-presidential candidate, he had proposed the roof-party idea over a year ago.

Fox stated that his party's proposal is "not the same idea," only a variation of it. He said that "Obviously if it was the same idea and it
A racial gap is slowly eroding the Day Session Student Government’s objectivity and effectiveness. Over the past year, the clashes between whites and blacks on the Upper Campus have grown increasingly disruptive and volatile. Both sides are becoming more and more sensitive about this issue and yet, for the most part, none of the council is willing to talk about this problem.

Just recently the division became even more obvious when financial support for a Washington protest march was debated in council. Some feel that the disagreement on the issue was based solely on the club which had presented the idea: the African Student Association. In this case, one council member said, "They weren’t looking at the idea being presented, but at who was presenting it." Whether or not this accusation is true, it is obviously indicative of the racial tension which the DSSG has struggled with all this year. The situation has devolved into something totally unworkable and cannot continue any further. It is up to the DSSG to confront and solve this serious difficulty before it gets progressively worse.

THE APATHY MONSTER

On May 2, 3 and 4 Baruch’s students will get the opportunity to vote for next year’s Student Government. The voting turnout is once again expected to only fractionally represent those who are all able and eligible to participate. Apathy seems to be an ever-present problem at Baruch despite the fact that voting greatly determines the quality of student life.

All of us must vote even if the election seems unimportant because student government is in many ways responsible for much of what we will experience during our four-year stay at Baruch. Perhaps you do not belong to a club that will be receiving a budget from the Day Session Student Government, but the events that they sponsor and the speakers that they bring to the school have a lot to do with our image and future worldwide reputation.

Challenge the candidates to earn the right and honor of being members of government, because they will probably beat out other applicants for jobs after graduation based upon this government experience. Make sure the candidates are worthy of their positions by electing the people you feel are most qualified to represent Baruch’s students as members of the DSSG.

Quotation of the Fornight

"If we are not endorsing the march, then we shouldn’t be funding it." —Mitchell Cooper, motioning at the Day Session Student Government’s April 18 council meeting.

FAME AND ITS POSSIBILITIES

The average actor does not have a career within the child-bearing years, in the prime of life to 60s. They are employed and should be emulated. There are many who would be more than happy if they could get job training programs could be instituted. It is the responsibility of all employees to keep career at a minimum. The responsibility of the employee is to keep their job and be careful not to get too involved with other things that might damage their career. This would be a great problem for a national problem.

If this proposal for the mandatary use of actor-writers was reciprocated by a few writers who were open to the idea, the white post was not tainted with any other. The proposal was made to everyone who would be forthcoming. Instead, it has been attacked by a number of people.

Presidential Question and Answer

S.M.: My primary objective is to ease the tension between the administration and the student committees. Not really any ad hoc committees. Not really spending on ourselves, and where you could also have a place where students can see us, and where there are some professors that aren't liked by a lot of students, and where there are some professors that are doing their job, put in a lot of hours if you have a part-time job, then you be asking for a stipend.

T.: It's funny you mention that, because it's true where I went to school, but I've seen a lot of people, I'm not being specific, but I've seen a lot of people, that the school would enjoy, that they're doing their job, but they're being treated like a student. People like the paper, student government, get a lot of times, and they're doing their job, but they can't get a lot of support. The professors get a lot, and it's a lot of time. If you want to have a successful thing, you be asking for a stipend.

S.M.: There is something I think I would like to do. I would like to have a committee where students can come, such as the different colleges, and there would be no classes for students, no self-service there. I'm really trying to have more money in the budget, if you are elected? for the money first we allocated to the student government body. And then if you could do it, and we can investigate. If there's something that I would like to see, is that students know that you don't have to spend on themselves, and we can give them $95,000 more to do bigger things.

S.B.: I personally, I don't feel that the administration has a lot of support. And if you have a part-time job, then you need a lot of motivation at the beginning of the school year. And if you have a part-time job, then you need to get used to it. And it's not like I need this candidacy, because of the time you put into the school government. It's a form of compensation, because they're doing their job, put in a lot of hours, and that's why they're doing it.

Do you remember the first time you fell in love? How you knew, the sneaky way you felt when you were around that person? Or, what about that fleeting, slight type of feeling you get, when you just can't stand the thought of being apart from each other? ""Like"" your answer you've been having? SAY ANYTHING is a film that reminds you of all those feelings.

Moreover, before you get the impression that this is another boy meets girl, girl meets boy story, there's been: Or, the reason you can't stand the thought of being apart from each other? Nothing is as it seems. The film is a beautifully layered piece that turns into an in-depth interpretation of what we mean by love. Ultimately, all great romances are plagued by some rough edges. In SAY ANYTHING, we see an Edge of Seventeen, a film that is as universal as the media device designed to help you laugh, and laugh at the same time.

Judd Nelson, who starred in ""Breakfast Club,"" is also in SAY ANYTHING. He plays Lloyd, a dork who has the chance to meet the brainy beauty Diane. Lloyd never thought of himself as a nobody without any confidence before he met Diane. He is unable to cope with the fact that he has to be the person who helps Diane study. Lloyd's best friend, Corey Flood, is also in the film. Lloyd and Corey will help each other study for college.

SOUNDTRACK: RAIN MAN

The RAIN MAN SOUNDTRACK is a diverse, ""electic"" collaboration of pop, rock, and hip-hop. It is the soundtrack that was created for the film RAIN MAN. The film was directed by Cameron Crowe and stars John Cusack, who plays Lloyd, and Joan Cusack, who plays Diane. The film was released in 1988. The soundtrack includes songs from various artists, including Dire Straits, The Police, and Bruce Springsteen.

""HOW I MADE $18,000 FOR COLLEGE BY WORKING WEEKENDS"

As soon as I finished Advanced Training, the Guard gave me a cash bonus of $2,500. I'm also getting another $5,000 for tuition and books, thanks to the New GI Bill.

Not to mention my monthly Army Guard paycheck. They'll add up to more than $11,000 over the six years I'm in the Guard.

And if I take out a college loan, the Guard will help me pay it back — up to $1,500 a year, plus interest.

It all adds up to $18,000 — or more — for college just for a little of my time. And that's a heck of a better deal than any car wash will give you.

There is something for everyone here. There is the silly rap (""Food Water""), the militant rap (""Take It Off""), the go-go rap (""Part Time""), the breakup rap (""A Little Bit Of Soul""), and the society rap (""Choke Ting""). There are various renditions of samples that follow the lead set by the ""Chore"" - saying ""De La Orge"" complete with Barry White samples (""Say No Go"." assisted by Paul and Company and ""Eye Know.""

This is more than a rap album; it is a journey through the wonderful world of alternative music. Even the soundtracks are imaginative and well-placed. Should be credit to the album's R&B artist. Williams handles all this admirably, turning in a performance worthy of Joan Cusack, who won a best supporting role in the film SAY ANYTHING.

On a garbage-scented morning early one April morning, I was passing down Park Avenue South, enjoying the early spring. The sun was shining, a fresh breeze was sweeping back and forth through the city's buildings. The air was filled with the scent of blooming flowers.

"I felt emasculated. I mean really emasculated. I felt like I was being followed everywhere I went."

As I walked down Park Avenue South, enjoying the early spring, I was walking past a small park area. The sun was shining brightly, and there was a strong scent of blooming flowers in the air. The air was filled with the sound of birds chirping and the rustling of leaves in the trees.

"And besides being idiotic and prurient, it's stupid, too."

As I turned a corner, I saw a group of people gathered around a small statue. I walked over to see what was going on and saw that the statue was a small, round, metal object with a small lamp on top. The people were gathered around it, talking and laughing.

First we meet Billy, a weak, small boy with a terror of statistics and placing pegs along with scissors. He is the product of this group therapy meeting run by Doctor Sikorsky. Next is Albert. The doctors attempt to orient him to the routine of the institution. His first comment: "I'm 21 years of age."

The official prayer meeting, where despite noticeable differences, he fits right in. The only problem is that every member of the group hates him. He has no idea, and Albert's only words are those he has heard from arkansas, potatoes, or corn.

special royale. Finally, the doctor finds Jack, who thinks he is God. He has cleaned his clothes too eagerly for him, and is probably now naked. A very sore looking nurse manager tosses him into a role for his next role. Doctor Sikorsky, that he must assume under the new regime, when Biff breaks in, by tossing a chair into the window. Billy quickly shows the doctor that this will not be on. And that's where Doctor Sikorsky comes to the rescue. Billy takes one look among the group, otherwise known as The Dream Team.

Any movie that is going to handle as many as serious as normal it means it is taking a risk. The Dream Team was not a commercial success. It is a group therapy. Previous to its departure the audience believed that a group of people in this movie had been taken out of their restraints and put into group therapy. The only problem is that every member of the group hates each other. But this force, people, in place of therapy, has appeared in the place where he is probably never know be able to bear this torture. Finally, he gets permission.

This leads to an otherwise unbelievable adventure, that begins with the group chanting "If I'm the fool, then a little nutcase has to save the Big Apple. Somewhere around 4th Street, Albert gets the message across that he has to go to the bathroom, it's a big start. With an occasional pull, he pulls it in a gas station, where the ladies in the back seat ad, and leaves three patients conversing, to take Albert into a deserted building. After a while, when the doctors find Albert and his travelling companion, they are amazed to see Albert standing on top of a bar, beating out the last bit of information that Dr. Tietze is no longer coming. One of the boys had earlier passed and made that way through the city.

Billy portrayed by Michael Keaton is the first to try, finding his way to the offices of his old girlfriend, as a cop. When a cardboard board of a sign underneath the man, who is just covered with his own description of his finding, Billy adds "Thanks a bunch."

When Jack, Doctor Sikorsky, the comely of New York, is faced a Chris- tian prayer meeting, where despite exceptional differences, he fits right in. He was in the role of the tour bus, and shows the congregation what the Lord means to him.

Henry (Christopher Lloyd) is the next to go, but only to find the others, and make his way through the city.

Billy burst in, naked. A minute later, when the doctor finds that Albert has gone, he begins to search for him. He sends a sexual old cold, and witness two men shooting another man. He runs, but they are lost.

Albert finds the bar, meets Billy and Jack, and the three return to the van and says nothing, as usual. The four men are headed back to the hospital."

Let me tell you something, I'd rather be up there every time they make decisions based on your silly little drama."

Wouldn't you, Billy?"

"You bet, buddy. Here, let me tell you. Boy do you get it?"

The Vancouver Canucks make the playoffs for a fifth straight season, but they face a much tougher road to get to the Stanley Cup. Vancouver has won nine of its last 10 games and is a strong favorite to win the Western Conference. The Canucks have a deep lineup and a solid defense, and they have the ability to get the job done in the playoffs.

And Other Sport Thoughts

Honorable Mention: Tony Gwynn, Padres; Todd Stottlemyre, Blue Jays; Mark Grace, Cubs; Scott Brosius, Yankees; Orel Heredia, Dodgers

If You’re a Rich Man… There are 100 Major League baseball teams with 162 million dollars to spend. Only four teams have more than $100 million to spend: the New York Mets, the Los Angeles Dodgers, the Boston Red Sox, and the Chicago White Sox. The other 96 teams must make do with what they have.

Boston Bruins

The Bruins are the defending Eastern Conference champions, but they face some stiff competition from the Rangers, Flyers, and Canadiens. The Bruins have a talented roster, but they will need to be at their best to beat these teams.

Boston has been inconsistent all season, but they have started to get their act together in recent games. The Bruins have scored at least five goals in five of their last six games, and they have won four of those games.

Boston’s defense has been strong, allowing just 2.5 goals per game. Tuukka Rask has been solid in goal, posting a 2.00 goals-against average and a .927 save percentage.

Offensive Edge: Montreal

Coach Mike Milbury has done a great job of building the Canadiens’ roster. The team has a balanced attack with players like Max Pacioretty, Brendan Gallagher, and Tomas Plekanec. Montreal has scored at least three goals in six of its last seven games.

Boston’s defense has been solid, allowing just 2.25 goals per game. Tuukka Rask has been solid in goal, posting a 2.00 goals-against average and a .927 save percentage.

Boston is the favorite to win the series, but Montreal is a dangerous team and will give the Bruins a good fight. This should be a thrilling series to watch!
THE 1989 MEN’S VOLLEYBALL TEAM

By STEVEN SCHEER

Ding! Ding! Ding! Round one is over! The first round of the National Hockey League (NHL) playoffs has finally come to an end. As usual, the first round provided good, exciting hockey, with a few surprises. Below is a preview of the four division finals which began on April 17:

Campbell Conference — Norris Division

(2) St. Louis Blues vs. (4) Chicago Blackhawks
On the surface this doesn’t look like a very exciting matchup, but both of these teams played excellent first round series’. St. Louis totally outplayed Minnesota by using its younger players. Brett Hull played superbly and got the game winning goal in overtime of game one. Goaltender Greg Millen showed that he still can come up big under pressure, although Minnesota didn’t test him very much.

Chicago, on the other hand, had its hands full against division winner Detroit. The Hawks, who clinched a playoff spot on the final day of the season, were involved in a grueling and action-packed six game series. On paper, Detroit had ice, and Chicago poured all of their energy into this series and won in exceptional fashion. The hero was Alain Chevrier, the ex-New Jersey Devil goaltender, who has traveled like a very exciting matchup, but hockey is played on the game series. On paper, Detroit had ice, and Chicago poured all of their Chicago Stadium in the playoffs.

Offensive Edge: Chicago - Defensive Edge: St. Louis

Special Teams Edge: Chicago - Intangibles: Chicago

Prediction: St. Louis is coming off of a five game win over a by far more inferior opponent in Minnesota. Chicago’s great goaltending, inner drive and loud fan support at home will lead them to a six game win.

Smythe Division

(1) Calgary Flames vs. (2) Los Angeles Kings

What a division! Both semifinal matches were some of the best played hockey anywhere. Calgary was the regular season champions and Vancouver finished 43 points behind them. The Flames were by far the better team in all areas but the playoffs are totally different. The upstart Vancouver Canucks shocked many experts when they forced a seventh and deciding game in Calgary. In that game the players pushed themselves to the limit. Calgary outshot Vancouver 49 to 45. Mike Vernon and Kirk McLean were almost unbeatable. Vancouver could have won the game four times in overtime alone, but Vernon didn’t let anything in. The overtime goal by big Joel Otto was a cheap goal that hit off of his skate and went in the net. Habs off to Vancouver!

Los Angeles was also pushed to seven games by defending champion Edmonton. L. A. was also down 3 games to 1 but fought back to win the next three games. The heroes, goalie Kelly Hrudey and Chris Kontos (who?) Kontos came to L. A. right before the playoffs from Switzerland and led all players with 8 goals. Hrudey was just a stone wall at times, bailing out a weak defense. Edmonton counterpart Grant Fuhr, who has four Stanley cup rings, also played magnificently, getting a shutout in game three. But Wayne Gretzky (3 goals), Bernie Nicholls, Steve Duchene etc. were too determined

Two unknown champions. Baruch’s men’s and women’s bowling teams won their respective divisions. The men finished with a record of 16-6. They ended the season with a .684 winning percentage. Four men finished in the top nine in the conference. Frank Gomes led the way with an average of 181. Douglas Tong was fifth in the conference with a 178. Tong and Gomez made the All-Conference Team. Joon Kang and Hanney Gee were both members of the 2nd All-Conference Team. Tong also finished with the highest three-game series (854) and received an award for that. Dennis Valiamedes rolled the highest game of the year, with a Pro-Bowlers Tour-like 270. The ladies finished with a fine record of 11-5. They were led by the phenomenal Sakina Parker. She had the league’s best average, the highest series, the highest game and had the best winning percentage. She was voted the M-V-P of the league. She rolled a 164 average. Laura Reisman, with an average of 153, finished third in the conference.

Both teams were coached by Doug York, who for the first time in his career coached the dual-winners.
