Teacher Evaluations Released

By TONI COLAVITO and EDWARD ASANTE

The following is a list of professors who released their Spring 1989 teacher evaluations. Listed with the names are the classes these professors taught. Following each name is the average of the total scores on the evaluations, the average is measured on a scale from 1 to 5. The three evaluation questions not included in this average are:

- #1: "How would you rate this professor?"
- #2: "What grade do you expect to receive in this class?"
- #4: Approximately how many times was class cancelled?

The three evaluation questions not included in this average are:

1. How would you rate this professor?
2. What grade do you expect to receive in this class?
3. Approximately how many times was class cancelled?

The Echo Has Changed

On face, the term "liberal" or "conservative" can apply to both the left and right of a political spectrum. But when the traditional liberals get together to talk about the same thing over and over, and radically outvote the right, one might think that this is where the name came from. In fact, it's a misnomer. When the name "liberal" was coined, it referred to people who wanted to ensure that freedom was preserved. The word liberal comes from the Latin word liber, meaning "free." In contrast, the term "conservative" refers to people who want to maintain the status quo.

Pat On The Back

To the Editor:

The graduation ceremony on May 27 was a major event for the Graduates of 1990, as is the impressive prearranged sound system to bring to the students the serenades of students, friends, faculty, and CUNY Board of Trustees. At the end of the ceremony, the graduates took to the stands, their robes on, their caps on, and their joy on their faces. As the music started, they were greeted with applause and cheers from the audience. The graduates were then called forward one by one to receive their diplomas and to have their names called. They walked forward, proudly holding their diplomas, and received their certificates and diplomas with pride.

The ceremony was a celebration of the hard work and dedication of the students, and a recognition of their achievements. It was a moment of pride for the graduates, their families, and the university.

Are We Still Slaves?

By COLIN ROACH

The description of the ruling class as "slave owners" can be traced back to the time of the Roman Empire. The term slave was first used in the context of Roman law. The word "slave" comes from the Latin word "servus," which means "servant." In Roman law, a slave was a person who was owned by another person and had no rights or freedoms.

In the United States, the term "slave owner" was often used to refer to slave owners who held large numbers of slaves. The term was also used to refer to slave owners who held small numbers of slaves. The term was used to describe slave owners who held slaves in both the North and the South.

The term "slave owner" is still used today to describe people who own slaves. However, the term is not used in the same way as it was in the past. The term is now used to describe people who own slaves as a result of the slave trade, rather than as a result of owning land.

The term "slave owner" is also used to describe people who own slaves as a result of the slave trade, rather than as a result of owning land. The term is not used to describe people who own slaves as a result of owning land, but as a result of owning slaves.

During the last week of October 1989, a complicated and unfulfilled legal problem was placed under me. It was decided that I must prevent my bank account from being frozen. No longer would I be able to perform the work that I am being paid for due to the冻结 of my account. I was left with no alternative but to leave the project in the middle of its completion.

An INSIGHTFUL COLUMN

To the Editor:

William Louis Jones' insightful article in the December 4, 1989 front page column "Pauline Lazar" is a timely reminder of the importance of effective communication in the workplace. The essay highlights the need for clear and open communication amongst all stakeholders, including employees, managers, and clients. Jones' perspective on the role of communication in achieving success in the business world is not only relevant but also comprehensive. His suggestion for improving communication practices in the workplace is both thought-provoking and actionable. I believe that following Jones' recommendations will lead to a more productive and harmonious work environment.

In conclusion, Jones' article serves as a valuable guide for managers and employees alike. It emphasizes the importance of communication in achieving success and provides practical strategies for improving communication in the workplace. I highly recommend this article to all professionals who wish to enhance their communication skills and contribute to a more successful work environment.
DSSG Endorses Pro-Choice March
Council Acts "Without Proper Consideration"

By RAINA WILSON

The Day Session Student Government, who oppose the anti-abortion march, recently endorsed the March on Washington for Peace and Justice.

According to Wilson, Shone, vice president of the Student Government, the Council has not yet determined whether or not students who support the Council's decision should be required to pay the fee for attending the March.

Shone stated, "We would feel alarge group of the community and city would feel that there are sufficient reasons to support the March.

According to Shone, "We would feel that there are sufficient reasons to support the March.

The Council's decision was not planned out. A letter from the DSSG addressed the March on Washington for Peace and Justice.

Shone stated, "I can give you a general outline of what we have in mind."

"We have a responsibility to aid our bodies."

BARUCH COLLEGE LIBRARY

BIAS AT BARUCH
Is there a real problem with having more than one alumni association?

by Tom Baby

"It there a real problem with having more than one alumni association?"

"Discriminatory practices on the parts of various administrators have permeated every department of the college. The position of President Segall as it relates to the Black and Latino Alumni Association, is unyielding and discriminatory and shows a lack of concern toward the black and Latino populations in this college."

Baruch's "campus," will soon become the home of a very unique and worthwhile treasure. It will be called the "Baruch College Museum of Modern Art," and its official target opening date is February 1990. Its mission, in a word, is to preserve and make available to the public, any type of visual art, made since 1970.

According to Jeff Clinton, supervisor for the Archive and a board mem-er of the College's faculty, the collection includes paintings, drawings, cercamics, prints, and fabrics. In some instances, the entire collection process is never ending.

The museum's opening day began with the Director of the College, John C.
Englund, in attendance. He and his colleagues are confident in the museum's collection and complete works of art.

Males and females are often a vestige of sexual selection. Sex, and the sex differences that we see today, are the outcome of processes that have worked to optimize different survival and reproductive strategies. In the real world, sex differences are not absolute; they are context-dependent. The question is not whether sex differences exist, but how they are shaped by cultural and biological factors.

What does SEX mean to you?

Dr. John Money, speaking at the auditorium.

Dr. Money's insights are crucial in understanding the inextricable link between biology and society. The concept of sex is not merely a biological construct, but a complex interplay of genetic and environmental factors. Sex differences are not fixed, but are fluid, influenced by factors such as cultural norms, social expectations, and personal identity.

Half of This Year's Medical School Class Got There With Our Help.

Merrill Lynch, a leader in the financial services industry, is seeking college students with leadership potential to join the Corporate Systems Program. This 14-week Business Applications Training Class provides you with the business and technical knowledge to become a business applications programmer. Throughout the program, there is a strong emphasis not only on developing technical skills, but also on developing leadership skills and the ability to effectively work as part of a team.

What We Look For

The Corporate Systems Program is designed for a select group of individuals with undergraduate majors in computer science, mathematics, management information systems, or related fields, or with significant interest in programming or as a career in computer technology and business applications programming. Evaluation of candidates will focus on proven leadership skills and superior performance in academic, extra-curricular, and work environments. We are looking for motivated individuals with the desire and potential to contribute to our technology team.

Corporate Systems Program Will Be on Campus

FRESHMAN LEADERSHIP SEMINARS

A student's experience on being a freshman orientation leader

BY HECTOR CANONO

Receiving a letter of invitation to participate in the freshman leadership orientation program, I was eager to take up the challenge. It was an opportunity to share my experiences with the entering freshmen. As the orientation leader, I was responsible for welcoming new students and familiarizing them with the college. My experience was both rewarding and challenging.

The orientation sessions were conducted in the morning, followed by a lunch break. In the afternoon, we visited various departments of the college, such as the Student Center, Library, and Administration. Each session was designed to provide an overview of the college's policies and procedures. The sessions were interactive, and students were encouraged to ask questions and share their thoughts.

Throughout the week, I observed that the first week was crucial for the freshmen. They were new in an alien environment, with new friends and a new lifestyle. I found it interesting how they managed to adapt to their new surroundings. The majority of the students were between the ages of 18 to 20, and they were from diverse backgrounds.

The orientation sessions were conducted by a faculty member and a student volunteer. The sessions included seminars on study habits, time management, and stress management. The students were also introduced to the college's policies on academic integrity, health, and safety.

A significant aspect of the orientation was the freshman welcome party, which was held at the Student Center. The party was attended by all the freshmen and their families. It was a great opportunity for the freshmen to meet their new classmates and to mingle with the faculty members.

Overall, the experience of being an orientation leader was both rewarding and challenging. It was a humbling experience to see how the freshmen were able to adjust to their new surroundings. The most important lesson I learned was to be patient and understanding. Each student was unique and had his or her own style of learning.

FRESHMAN LEADERSHIP

One of the major concerns for freshmen is that courses to take the next semester and not knowing how to avoid the nighmarish experience of registration.

The experience of freshmen and sophomore English major Philip D. Smith (the second-year junior) was more obvious. Students about the regulations and procedures at Baruch were interested in order to use some time for good ideas about their problems, ideas and frustra­tions.

"In the beginning, a freshman, per­haps not of the major concern for freshmen is not to know the courses to take the next semester, and not knowing how to avoid the nigh­marish experience of registration. Some students were also disappointed with their time."

Tom Clark, Sidney Sheldon, Stephen King and Jackie Collins all wrote for tickets features.

WHAT THE COLLEGE MUST DO

1. The Stephen analytics, the vice president for academic development.

2. The next opposing formation of the Black and Latino Alumni Association.

3. Work aggressively to recruit and train a racially and ethnically balanced faculty.

4. Plot and present alternatives for positions of real responsibility.

5. Institute a real Affirmative Action Office.

EDDIES FORECAST: A COLD NIGHT IN HARLEM

By KEVIN M. DAMES

HARLEM NIGHTS, starring Eddie Murphy, Richard Pryor, Redd Foxx, Donkey Dillo, Michael Gorgeous, Delia Della, Janeane Gep and Arnetta Hall. Written and Directed by Eddie Murphy; Produced by Eddie Murphy, Ronald Martin, and Larry Fortensky; Music by Paul Williams. A New Line Cinema presentation of a Martin Starkey Entertainment/Magnolia Pictures production; Distributed by New Line Cinema. Rated R. December 8, 1989. 115 minutes.

There's no hope at all for Eddie Murphy. There was quite a bit of promise shown in HARLEM NIGHTS, especially when one considers the quality of Murphy’s previous work. COMING TO AMERICA, his first major Hollywood film, included the deftly-timed sight gags and well-crafted comedy bits; but the film was a failure, largely due to poor timing and a lack of focus. And now, in HARLEM NIGHTS, Murphy is faced with the task of bringing together the talents of his cast in a way that will allow them to shine. The film is an ensemble piece, with each actor given a chance to shine. The film’s plot revolves around a boxing match between a black boxer and a white boxer. The match is held in a New York City boxing ring, and the winner is determined by a vote of the audience. The main character is played by Eddie Murphy, who is a washed-up boxer who has lost his chance at the title. The other characters are played by other actors, including Richard Pryor as a retired boxer, Redd Foxx as a colorful promoter, and Donkey Dillo as a wealthy businessman.

The tour of "Tour of the Twelve Inch" has been a very special one for us. First, our management was able to book a number of special dates in major cities. We were also able to secure some of the biggest names in the business for this tour. For us, it was a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity to perform in front of so many people. We played off our sets, and the audience loved it. We were able to make the most of this opportunity, and it was a great way to start our tour.

2. BEASTIE BOYS—Licensed to Ill. Uptempo, ASCAP, 1986.

This was a great album for us. It was a lot of fun to record, and the beats were really tight. We were able to use a lot of different rhythms and beats, and it was a great way to showcase our skills.

THE BIG WIND DOWN

This is it! The 80s are over and the 90s are here! But wait, there's still a lot going on here!

...and the oscars are in.

To the future, The Second Chance at Bat, The Story of the 80s, and the Oscar chances? We'll see, he won't be holding best director Oscar with a romantic tale that is back home. Hollywood seems to have a plethora of movies ready for release this December. If the 80s may be winding down calendar wise, but in Hollywood the 1989 holiday movie season is just about to reach its apex. The holiday movie season unofficially kicked off on November 7th with the release of Steel, Magnolias, Frankie and Eddie Murphy's Prince of Persia. The official wind-down began on November 22nd with the release of the long-anticipated sequel of Back to the Future. It is in December that both Back to the Future II and II: The Final Chapter are released. National Lampoon's Christmas Vacation has premiered and the much talked about Danny DeVito-directed comedy War of the Roses starring Michael Douglas and Kathleen Turner begins in the second week of this month. Three of Hollywood's biggies, including Superman, Home Alone, and Jingle All the Way, have been released. There is still plenty of time for Hollywood to have a last chance at making movies that are due in the holidays. Hollywood seems to have a plethora of movies ready for release this December. PUCK YOU! And Other Sports Thoughts

By MICKEY KRAMER

Christmas is over, and it’s time to look at the bottom of the standings in the National Hockey League. As the league prepares for the new year, players and coaches are looking to turn things around. Some teams have already started heating up, while others are struggling to stay in the playoff race. It’s a critical time for teams to make a statement and prove they have what it takes to succeed. With the holiday season behind them, it’s time to focus on the games and the challenges that lie ahead. Let’s take a look at the current standings and see how teams are faring in the league. ---

Archery Team Tops Columbia

By ELIOT WARD

The Baruch College archery team has been dominating in their competitions this season. Under the leadership of Coach Tang, the team has been excelling in division tournaments and is currently ranked high in the national standings. They have also been participating in major competitions, such as the New York State Championship, where they secured a top spot. The team's success is attributed to their strong coaching, dedication, and the support of the archery community. The upcoming season promises to be even more successful, as the team continues to train and prepare for future tournaments. ---

Baruch Wins Early Season Hoop Title

By MICKEY KRAMER

The 1989-90 season is underway. After a "grueling" training camp, the Baruch Statesmen are ready to don their blue and white uniforms and get down to real business.

The first few games for Baruch aren't usually that difficult. They don't blocked shots, with Michael Reid playing any CUNY conference teams yet. Up next was an away game at St. Joseph's College in Patchouge (Long Island). As it "never say die" Statesmen came back into the locker room at halftime. The game against Magnus was a grade-A blowout.

1989 CUNY Player of the Year, Hillary Williams scored a typical 44 points to lead her team to the 80-21 romp.

"They weren't very good," said Coach Penny Weiner, simply.

Weiner also added, "I don't like to run up the score. We slowed down all of our second half fast breaks and worked on our half court offense."

Baruch played the final game without last year's second leading scorer, Maria Epp.

"The whole team rose to the occasion," said Weiner.

Especially Colon. Colon, the 6'10" center, poured in a career-high 32 points and 20 rebounds. What do you own your biggest improvement?" Over the vacation, I was determined to get better. I played more with guys and they showed me how to be more aggressive. And to use my mind more."

Also contributing greatly to the 68-45 victory were Williams (23 points, 12 rebounds) and point guard Stephanie Varados (10 points, including two threes).

Baruch Statesmen are ready to don their white uniforms and get down to real business. Players contributed to the stat sheet.

Coach Penny Weiner, simply.

What a difference a year makes.

Men's B-Ball Team Off To 2-1 Start
