President Wayne Draino

BARUCH COLLEGE, N.Y.—Wayno Draino was chosen yesterday as the president of Baruch College following the sudden resignation of President Jonathan Livingston Seagull.

Draino, a self-involved roving artist and comedian was picked by a City University of New York committee out of a field of six because he would "save things up a bit," said Tip O'Murphy, chairperson of the Board of Trustees.

Seagull resigned last week to join a survival outfit in the potato fields of Idaho because "the fing world is ending and I'm not going with it!" He and his wife are on their way to Idaho in a Winnebago and couldn't be reached for further comment.

At the ceremony which will usher in his reign, Draino plans to have his friends set themselves on fire, rip off their clothes and roll naked in front of the Board of Trustees and Mayor David Dinkins. His first official act in office will be to hire a personal secretary who will be in charge of his erotic entertainment.

"I'm paying her a hundred bucks an hour."

Next he will institute a dress code for all female students. According to Draino all Baruch women must look like Cher in her latest video. "24 of every tit and ass has to be hanging out." When asked about the male dress code Draino responded, "I don't give a f."

Class schedules will remain the same said Draino, except that students and faculty must smoke copious amounts of marijuana before entering each class. "I saw it in a book once called 'Who Needs a Brain Skyway' by J. Danforth Quayle. Great fing book, man. I live my life by it."

Adding, "You have to smoke pot otherwise you just can't deal with the fing assholes in this world."

A new course, however, will be added in the Philosophy Department. Target: Vomiting 1000 for all entering freshmen. President Draino himself will be the sole instructor. "I poke therefore I am."

As for the proposed tuition increase now facing CUNY, Draino has a simple solution, "I say we fing torch Albany and sacrifice Cuomo to the Gods of Valhalla."

The new president proposes to rename the student center at 2nd St., the Turner-Cooper Recreational Center because billionaire and tv mogul Ted Turner and rock star Alice Cooper are his two idols. I've been looking for the middle ground all my life and I just can't find it. So I said f it."

According to Draino he plans...

Rabid Reptile Eats Editor

By VLADMIR O. HOLTZ

Yesterday a rabid reptile devoured The Tickler Arties editor, Glen McSpackle in the fifth floor cafeteria at 360 Park Ave. So., according to eyewitnesses.

The reptile, an unidentified 10 foot female alligator, fell through a hole in the ceiling left by workers during the asbestos clean-up project last October, and landed on McSpackle's table.

McSpackle who was eating a peanut butter and jelly sandwich at the time was taken off guard, according to eyewitnesses.

Sophomore Liz Erd, said, "I saw the whole thing. The alligator chased Glen around the table snapping its jaws. Glen quickly grabbed a plastic fork and tried to stab it but it didn't work."

Biology professor, Igor Juana continues, "Like this mondo huge alligator, man, like swished its tail and like Glen TOTALY wiped out. It was jammmin dude."

Cafeteria worker, Nettie Smith said, "Glen McSpackle devoured by unidentified Alligator."

Wayno, Wayno, He's Our Man

We must complement the CUNY Committee for selecting Wayno Draino as president of Baruch. We've seen several presidents come and go but we've never seen such a qualified person in this position. No one person has ever been an artist, comedian, filmmaker and the president of Baruch. Someone with so much talent should shoot for a higher status but we won't complain because we think he's a radical dude. He has more cool in him then Bart Simpson will ever dream of. He blows away Al Bundy with only one shoe off and he has more brains than Doogie Howser. Such a man will give the school a great reputation. People will line up all the way to the Pink Pusycat just to get a glimpse of his battle axe. At the Pink Pusycat they'll probably be able to find better toys but they'll still want to check out his powerful manly tool. We're telling ya, traffic in the streets will be backed up all the way to Cleveland.

Besides bringing Baruch publicity, he'll also raise student morale. He continues to live his lifestyle, he'll get students partying every night. He'll fly in exotic whores from all over the world. Baruch will have the biggest gang bangs since ancient Rome. Students will feel less stress and enjoy going to class more since they'll have something to look forward to at the end of the day. It might cost the school stupid dills but look at this way, with out entertainment future enrollments will decrease. Moreover, our analysts tell us that if we spend money on whores, we'll eventually turn a profit by 1997 because enrollment will probably triple every year. We're telling ya, this man has brains, no one could make money for the school except for Wayno.

Wayno is always a feminist hero. He's always been a stickler for the rules. He'll make sure no one gives oral sex on campus (except at the nightly gang bangs of course). He'll know just how to handle those sticky situations like boogers under tables and semen on the toilet seats. If one gets caught, he'll probably use his manly tool on the offenders until they promise never to perform such disgusting acts again. They'll probably be bleeding after his act of discipline but we feel this is the only way to control the punks at Baruch. Anything else he does won't be a surprise. We know it'll be the right thing because no one knows how to keep people in check like Wayno Draino.

Again our deepest gratitude to the Committee as we put down our 5th can of imported Sapporo Beer. Wayno Draino will bring Baruch to heights Harvard and Yale only dream of. Where else can one stay after school and get laid?

Alligator Makes Short Work Of McSpackle

Glen Rex McSpackle, lifelong resident of Eaten Heights, Queens died yesterday a reptilian prey. (See accompanying story) He was 23.

McSpackle, a Baruch student, would have graduated in May. He majored in Journalism, with the ambition of pursuing a career in writing. "He was the Current he lives in a prosperity."

Currently he lives in a prosperity. McSpackle was receiving the Silver Skeleton Key Award from the United Lymphs of America for service above and beyond the call of duty. He also won the school's third place in the ninth grade.

"I'm saddened by his death," lamented Ref, "but damn it I told him to stick to the Salamanders, those alligator chickswill eat you up!"

McSpackle is survived by his pet bats, Frick and Frack, skinny, his box concubine and Fultz, his Tarantula. As requested in his will, memorial services will be held on Saturday in front of the Reptile building at the Bronx Zoo.

McSpackle's only life achieve-ment was adding, "The specimen was perfect. Glen had a minute chance of survival. The alligator mitochondrionally snapped Glen in half, excising minimal effort. It was clean and quick, and over before her mother-fuckin' green ass got in. The guards checked mends, "To avoid future attacks on whores, we'll eventually turn a profit by 1997 because enrollment will probably triple every year. We're telling ya, this man has brains, no one could make money for the school except for Wayno.

Sally Mander, Glen's childhood secret admirer threatened, "That G-dam green gator-cailed-skin-knibbitch ate my man! I'm gettin the posse together to hunt down, green gator down! Besides, I want a new hat, bag and set of gloves."

Camille Eno, the Department of Psychological Services recommends, "To avoid future attacks from the animal kingdom, do not engage in unwarranted acts of bestiality. In the event that possession is unavoidable, practice safe sex.

to have a great deal of free time. For recreational purposes he plans to pick students at random, throw them into the fire pit and film it for what he calls "prosperity."

Draino is very pleased with his new office which contains a full bar and bath. "Party! Currently he lives in a basement in New Jersey filled with his paintings, toy figures, pictures of women in bondage, leather whips and of course his trusty battle axe. (see photo) "I got it (axe) in a novelty store. The guy gave me the 9" on my forehead and sold it to me."

Anyone interested in speaking to the president p.s. please leave a message with his office. "I'll get back to you if I fing feel like it!"

Dean's Office Investigates Sex Incident
No Criminal Charges Forseen

By KENNETH BROWN & TONI COLAVITO

The Office of the Dean of Students is investigating the alleged misconduct of two Baruch students. Eyewitnesses say the two students, one male and one female (names withheld during the investigation), were in the stairwell at the Student Center on March 8, 1990 intoxicated and engaged in a sexual act.

Carl Kirschner, the assistant dean of students in charge of discipline, is conducting the investigation and will determine whether the principals in the incident will be brought up on charges of "public lewdness."

According to witnesses' accounts, the couple attended the Italian Society and CIAO's Wine & Cheese Party held on March 8 during club hours. Later, they were seen in Stairwell A, at the bottom of the flight between the Second and Third Floors, engaged in oral sex.

An eyewitness, freshman Carlos Lopez, said, "I was coming up the stairs and saw a guy who was standing in front of a girl. While passing up, I couldn't tell if she was crying, or talking to him but when I really looked, she was actually performing a 'blowjob.'"

The amount of time that they remained on the stairs cannot be determined. However, students were on the landings above and below them encouraging the couple to continue.

"After I saw that I was completely shocked and dismayed," said Lopez.

Radio Station Installs Carrier Current System

By STEVEN SCHEER

FM fans are being finalized to install the carrier current system of broadcasting at WBMB, Baruch's student-run radio station.

When implemented, Baruch College students and faculty will be able to pick up WBMB on 900 AM within all school buildings except at 111 East 18th St. building. Since the carrier current uses electric wires and not a broadcast signal, it is unlikely that students will be able to pick up WBMB outside any of the buildings.

In the late 1970's and early 1980's, WBMB was operating on the carrier current system but due to lack of funding and old equipment, it fell into a state of disrepair. The equipment used then is too antiquated to be used now.

According to WBMB's general manager, Craig LoPeso, "we came up with the idea to reinitiate the carrier current system two years ago and tests were performed to see if it was technically feasible" but it was too expensive for the school to fund at that time.

USS Entrenches for Tuition Hike Fight
Leaders Favor Lobbying, Not Building Takeovers

By RAFAEL OLMEDA

The University Student Senate is preparing for the worst as concerns about New York's budget crisis spark rumors of a proposed tuition increase.

The New York State budget proposed last week by Governor Mario Cuomo includes a 2 percent cutback in aid to the City University of New York. Some leaders in Albany have suggested a $200 tuition increase for CUNY and the State University of New York to minimize the effect of a cutback.

"I doubt very much that either SUNY or CUNY would benefit from a tuition increase," said State Assemblyman Edward Sullivan, chairman of the Higher Education Committee.

Whatever funds could be raised by a tuition increase would be offset by a corresponding budget cut, according to Sullivan. "It's like I promise you I'll give you a $100, and you go out and earn $10 more. If I respond to that by giving you only $90, then you don't have any more," he said.

"It's the same thing. In effect, City University wouldn't get any more money," he added.

Major Referenda Proposed for May Balloting

Petition Proposes $5 Fee Increase

By BEN LEE

A petition proposing a five dollar increase in student activities fees for the fall semester of 1990 is being circulated throughout the school. The additional revenue generated will be allocated for the expansion of disabled student services, promotion of racial and cultural diversity and a student/parent resource center.

The amount, to be apportioned $5.00, $1.50 and $2.00 respectively, has been recommended for the above mentioned purposes. Nine hundred signatures (10% of day students) are required to make it eligible for the spring ballot from May 1-3.

The Director of Disabled Student Services, Jay Pereone, stated that the needs of disabled students, who number over a thousand, are not being met.

THE DAY SESSION Student Council has endorsed four amendments to the student government constitution that would, in effect, grant more power to the executive president and vice-president of the D.S.S.G.
Radio Station to Broadcast

Lopes attempted to secure out­side funding for his new "Lux­ury Line" Fund— a固e sponsors who are applying for the grants will be managed by Career Opportuni­ty Center Coordinator, (CACC), a non-profitspecialist.

The Broadcast Department program offers an opportunity for students who are interested in working in the field of electronics to become employed by New York Telephone or other radio/television networks.

Applicants are available for employment by the Broadcast Department office no later than June 1 of this year.

IT IS WORTH $5.00

There is a petition being circulated in an attempt to gather 900 signatures in favor of a referendum to raise the student activity fee by $5. If the petition succeeds, we will strongly vote for passage of the referendum to ensure that the student government elections on May 1, 2 and 3.

You might think that this is all you need to know; if someone asks you, "What's new?" you can say, "Nothing!" Right? Well, it's not quite that simple this time. Of the $5.00, $1.50 would help expand student services, $1.50 would go to multicultural events, and $2.00 would help to establish a resource center for students with children. These are small amounts to the individual students, but many will have over 16,000 students and concentrated in these areas, the money can much good.

Unfortunately, many students here don't take advantage of intercultural events or any extracurricular activities at all. The events are open to all of us, there is a demand, and they benefit anyone who attends by educating and entertaining them.

We should be grateful that most of us are not disabled, and the average student does not have to walk to school, work, and children, but many of our fellow students desperately need these services. It may seem to some of us that these programs would not directly benefit us in any obvious way, but as Baruch students and as human beings, this should not be our only concern.

TUITION IRONY

The proposal is at Cusmo's desk again and the question on most students' minds is whether he is going to veto it. If he does not veto it, tuition will be raised for all students in a university system where free tuition was once seen as a sublime contribution of the government towards the welfare of the poor and the unfortunate, who are by no means a small chunk of the American population.

Again, this year, students at the City University will hardly make it easy for anyone who would have to make his decision. Images of the fiery anger that swept, the most CUNY University will hardly make it easy for the poor and the unfortunate, who are by no means a small chunk of the American population.

The Ncaka is representative of the women's social standing. Through the embroidery and applique she gives to it. Each Ncaka is made up of many small squares of fabric, usually measuring 5x5" and sewn together to create the long rectangles that are wrapped around the woman and fastened at the waist with a special sash. The skirts on exhibit at the Baruch Gallery invite imagination. The purpose of the award is to "capture" and "death" of the beast. Although the colors are subdued, muted reds, browns and beiges, the combination of creativity and resourcefulness give students the opportunity to explore and consider the foundations of our own modern, geometric art-ists. An Overview of March 1990: Women Are Remembered

The Retail Society Gets Into Fashion

By DORIS LOMA

The Retail Trade Society was a society that I had been involved with for a number of years. It was a group of women who were interested in fashion and the retail industry. We had a symposium every year, and this year we decided to make it even more exciting.

We invited speakers from different fields to talk about the role of women in fashion and retail. We also had a fashion show, which was a huge success. The attendees were amazed by the creativity of the designs and the elegance of the models.

The symposium was a great opportunity for professionals in the field to network and share ideas. We also held a workshop on how to start a fashion business, which was very popular.

Overall, the Retail Society's symposium was a great success. We had a large turnout and received positive feedback from attendees.

HELPLINE! Students Helping Students

This is a great opportunity for students who want to help others. HELPLINE is a volunteer organization that helps people in need. We provide them with support and resources to help them overcome their challenges.

We need volunteers to work in our office, which is located in the center of town. We have two shifts per day, and volunteers can choose the one that works best for them.

If you are interested in volunteering, please contact us. We look forward to hearing from you.

International Women's Day

International Women's Day is a day to celebrate the achievements of women around the world. It is a day to remember the struggles that women have faced and the progress that has been made.

This year, the theme of International Women's Day is "Women building a gender-equal future." We encourage everyone to support this cause and to work towards a world where women are equal.

Women must have access to education, healthcare, and opportunity. We must work towards a world where women can make their own choices and live free from discrimination.

We encourage everyone to participate in International Women's Day. Whether it's by volunteering, donating, or spreading awareness, we can all make a difference.

In closing, let us remember the importance of International Women's Day. Let us work together to build a world where women can be their best selves.

Cecelia McCall/Profile

Q: What is your profession?

A: I am the Director of Office of Institutional Services for the Department of Comparative Programs/SEES, School of Education and Educational Services.

Q: Where did you receive your Ph.D.?

A: I received my third degree, and I must say that it is very rewarding. Way back, from our neighborhood in the city of New York. My field is Communications.

Q: What are some of your present professional activities?

A: One is PROCTO, a national organization sponsored by a grant from the Carnegie Corporation. I am also a member of a team of four who represent Baruch College. The project is addressing five issues: subject matter understanding, pedagogical knowledge, classroom management, multicultural issues, and minority recruitment. The goal is to develop a curriculum that will provide students with the necessary skills to succeed.

Q: How do you define success?

A: I define success as making a positive difference in the lives of others. Whether it's through research, teaching, or service, I believe that we have a responsibility to use our education and expertise to make the world a better place.

Peace, Love And Soul...

"The Grammy Awards, on the other hand, have become such a waste of time.”

After reviewing the album "New York on the Block," The New York Times wrote, "The 2 Live Crew, who made the album, were a hit at the Grammy Awards, but the award show was a disaster."
An Interview with a "Young Rider"

Talking to Rainwater

By AMY LAU

On the PBS mini-series series "Young Riders," Gregg Rainwater portrays Buck Jacobson, a feisty and rebellious youth who is a part of the Wild West. The series was set in the mid-1800s, a time when the Pony Express was in full swing.

"Young Riders" is his first role on screen. "It's been a lot of fun," he says. "I've been fortunate to work with some great people." Gregg says he was excited to be a part of the series because he was passionate about the history and the characters it portrayed.

"I wanted to be a part of something that was true to history," he says. "I've always been interested in the wild west, and I thought this would be a great way to experience it." He says he was also excited to work with the other actors and the director, Harry Hooks.

"He's a great guy," he says. "He really knows how to direct a show and bring out the best in the actors." Gregg says he learned a lot from him.

"Young Riders" was shot in various locations around the United States. "We were in Arizona, Texas, and California," he says. "It was a lot of fun to travel and work in different places." He says he especially enjoyed working in the desert.

"It was a really cool experience," he says. "The heat was intense, but it was also a lot of fun." He says he learned a lot about working in the heat and how to stay cool.

"Young Riders" has been well-received by critics and audiences alike. "It's been great to see people enjoying the show," he says. "I'm really happy with how it's been received." He says he's looking forward to future projects and is grateful for the opportunities he's been given.

"I'm just trying to work hard and do my best," he says. "I'm hoping to keep working and growing as an actor." He says he's thankful for the support of his family and friends.

"Young Riders" is currently airing on PBS. "I'm really happy to be a part of it," he says. "It's been an amazing experience." He says he's looking forward to the next season and is excited to see what will happen to Buck and the other characters.

Music From New York's Underbelly

Play About Isadora Duncan Slightly Out of Step

By ELOIS NEIDERBIRCH

The subject of numerous harem adventures, Isadora Duncan remains one of the pioneering women of the early 20th century. Whether as dancer, editor, or author, Duncan was known for her radical ideas about sex and art. Her life was often tumultuous, but she continued to push the boundaries of what was considered acceptable for women at that time. Today, her story is a reminder of the power of art to transcend boundaries and challenge norms.

Volleyball Team Soars to 20-9 Record

By Mickey Kramer

Baruch's volleyball team continues to surge towards a CUNY crown. With five wins in their last seven matches, the Statesmen raised their record to an astounding 20-9.

The streak began on March 7 against Mt. St. Vincent. Three straight wins made for an easy victory. "They were really bad," said hitter, David Brooks. Two days later Baruch brushed off Queens College in another three-setter, Huy Tran said this about last seven matches, the Statesmen: "We have a lot of well-rounded players. The competition wasn't that great. We should be 25-5. King Lee, as a freshman, has contributed better than anybody. We're glad to have him."

Two days later Baruch trounced all the Basics. We have more depth than anyone. Also, we enjoy being around each other. We like being friends off the court. We have more than anyone. Also, we enjoy being around each other. We like being friends off the court. Maybe sometimes we might argue or have a lapse, but we usually get along great."

Southampton was the next victim. The Statesmen won their ninth consecutive set to beat Hampton in three games. The winning streak came to an end against Hunter on March 14. They lost in four games. Baruch was undefeated at home until this loss.

After a tough performance at the New Paltz Tournament, the Statesmen continued their winning ways with two more victories. Baruch defeated Yeshiva in three games and then had a tough
