Former Rivals Join Forces to Reform USS

By Farah Geyh

Charles Weisenhart and Simon Herelle, opponents in last year's Day Session Student presidential race, have forged an alliance, and they are now working together to reform the University Student Senate.

Herelle, the DSSG president as well as Baruch's delegate to the USS, said that Weisenhart was his first choice to be the alternate delegate.

"If we had to get anything done in government this year, the elections had to end," said Herelle, regarding the fiercely contested race for D.S.S.G. president last year.

Herelle said he chose Weisenhart because, "Charlie is involved last year in trying to work out the USS constitution. He had the background."

Herelle had not considered anyone else for alternate delegate because, "I want to get the best people in positions - Charlie is one of them."

The position of DSSG Treasurer was offered to Weisenhart earlier in the semester. Weisenhart refused the position citing an already busy schedule. The position of treasurer was vacated by the elected treasurer, Karlene Scott, who cited personal reasons.

The two have already worked together on the USS. They worked, along with other delegates to the USS, to curtail the elections of the USS Chair. The election, which was to be held October 11, was rescheduled for November 8.

Herelle, Weisenhart and other delegates worked to postpone the election because they feel the USS should be reformed.

"We should be able to implement reforms before the elections," said Herelle.

The delegates are looking to implement specific guidelines, which have not yet been set, to avoid the scandal that surrounded last year’s chairman, Jean LaMarre. In 1991 LaMarre was discovered to have used money collected for the USS from the students of CUNY for personal use such as renting limousines, a trip to Africa for three and many other questionable expenses. His expenditures were later found to be within the guidelines of CUNY.

Ron Quaterman, the delegate from John Jay College and Vice Chair of Legislative Affairs of the USS, was voted by his peers, to replace LaMarre, as the interim chair. Although he was legally voted in, the Board has yet to acknowledge him.

Quaterman said he is the "legal interim chair. If they don't recognize me [at the Board meetings], they're in violation of the Higher Education Law, Section 6204."

The law states that there must be consecutive student representation at Board meetings. The job of Chair is to vote and participate at Board meetings. The Chair is the only student vote in CUNY.

"The majority of the delegates want reforms "in order to avoid the scandals of the previous year," said Quaterman. "We're trying to change the image of the USS before the elections. We want a clean slate."

One of the revisions the USS is looking to implement is a restriction of financial accountability. This means that in order for a check to be approved it will need two signatures - those of the Chair and Vice Chair of Fiscal Affairs, said Weisenhart.

Quaterman plans to run for the position of Chair in the November elections. Ron Ray, the Hunter College delegate and LaMarre’s unrecognized appointee for Chair upon his resignation, is also expected to run.

Weisenhart plans to run for the position of Vice Chair for Fiscal Affairs, the position held by last year’s USS president LaVonda Davis. Herelle has not yet decided if he intends to run.

"I would want to see how many reforms were met before the reform period ends on November 11," added Herelle.

Forecasting the elections, Weisenhart said "more than likely [Quaterman], will be elected on the eighth. He's seen as a responsible person."

Multicultural Debate Is Revived At Forum

By Rafael A. Martinez

A forum on Cultural Diversity and Ethnicity took place on October 23 to discuss how far along Baruch College is moving in diversifying its curriculum.

The forum, which was sponsored by the Baruch African Student Senate, featured students from the Jewish Students Alliance, Latin American Students Organization, the Asian Students Association and BASS.

According to co-moderator Dawn Steele, of the Evening Session Students Assembly, the forum was created to see how far Baruch is moving towards a diversified curriculum. Steele led off the meeting with the history and description of BASS as an organization to bring together all of Baruch’s African American clubs.

Baruch President Matthew Goldstein was the first speaker of the evening. He began by commenting on the presidential election and said, "unless there is a major change in the government’s policies towards cities, we are doomed as a people."

Goldstein then compared his days at City College to today saying that when he attended City College it was a predominantly white male institution, thus everyone had the same background and that managing the institution was no problem.

The president then began discussing the new Learning Laboratory, story on page 3. When he completed his remarks each student leader was given an opportunity to present an opening statement.

Hilke Caplan of the J.S.A. began: "I will keep my remarks brief because I believe that you can learn more from interaction."

He described how he attended an all Jewish high school in Long Island and that he came to Baruch not only because of its good business program but because it would give him a chance to interact with different cultures.

Ken John of BASS, said how happy he was to see that things are happening at Baruch concerning multicultural education. John described the history of the multicultural forum as being brought about in response to a speech at Baruch by Professor Leonard Jeffries, then Chair of the Department of Black Studies at City College.

He added that the resulting friction between Jewish and black students over Jeffries lead to the creation of a forum that allowed the students to air their grievances.

Sue-Peng Chua of A.S.A. said that she pictured America as a big melting pot, but discovered it to really be a vegetable soup.

Chua added that the forum was taking place because it would help people to understand and not just tolerate each other.

The rest of the forum was devoted to a group discussion by the audience focusing on different aspects of racism and how to combat racism. The general consensus of the audience was that education in general and multicultural education in particular would be the first step in resolving the problem of racism by helping everyone understand one another.

"Baruch has helped get us out of the ghetto and into the mainstream. In the Hispanic community, you have poverty and undereducated parents; Baruch shows us that we can make it," said Parades.
IT'S THAT TIME AGAIN!

RETAIL TRADE SOCIETY
FASHION SHOW AUDITIONS

TUES., NOVEMBER 3
26TH ST. RM 814
1:00 - 2:40 PM

THURS., NOVEMBER 5
23RD ST. AUDITORIUM
1:00 - 2:40 PM

SAT., NOVEMBER 7
26TH ST. RM. 814
2:00 - 5:00 PM

RETAIL TRADE SOCIETY
46 E. 26TH STREET
RM 814 (212) 447-3260

By Rafael A. Martinez
Baruch College President Matthew Goldstein announced a proposal to create a learning laboratory in which Baruch students will assist people in small businesses, while learning hands-on experience and getting involved in the community.

According to Teresa Korotkow, director of College advancement, the proposal has been submitted as part of the Goldstein announced the idea of the laboratory while speaking at a Baruch African Student Senate sponsored multicultural forum on the evening of October 22. The idea for the lab developed after Chancellor W. Ann Reynolds of the City University of New York had a meeting with Governor Mario Cuomo

in early 1992. Reynolds was asked by Cuomo to "come forward with a plan to create jobs for people having trouble gaining mainstream employment."

By bringing the request back to the presidents of the CUNY colleges and the idea of a small business learning laboratory was formed.

Goldstein said that many small businesses fail because the people starting them do not have the capital or may not gain access to it. "If we can increase business success they will employ more people," added Goldstein.

Other campuses will participate in the lab, but Baruch will be the core, and people in the community will have access to Baruch students free of charge. The exact details of the program have not yet been worked out pending the state's approval.

President Matthew Goldstein
The Jewish Students Alliance presents

Kosher Chinese Cooking Class demonstrated by

Rabbi Robert Kaplan

Thursday, October 29, 1992

1:00 p.m. - 2:40 p.m.

Room 1323, 23 Street Building

Refreshments will be served

Ticker Takes

Discount Parking available for Baruch
Discounted Parking Rates are available in Valid Parking Garage for the Baruch Community at 301 E. 22 Street, between 1st and 2nd Avenues. Discounted daily rates are $7.00 or $14.00 per month, payable upon entering.

For further information, call 832-8145.

"The Black West"

The Department of Sociology and Anthropology presents "The Black West," a dramatization and slide presentation featuring George Trofa, Fred Owens, Ken Little Hawk and Kim Trofa. It will be held on Oct. 29 in Room 114 of the 24th street building from 1:00 - 2:30 p.m. Refreshments will be served.

Choosing a Major and Career

Come to a workshop in Exp. Lounge on Oct. 29. During the fall semester, there will be four 2-hour workshops in Exp. Lounge at 256 East 22rd Street. During these workshops, you will view a videotape, complete self assessment exercises, and take a vocational interest inventory. These are designed to help you get a clear idea about what major or career would be best for you. The dates and times for the workshops are:

Club Hours (1:00-2:30 p.m.) Oct. 29, Nov. 12 & 19, Dec. 3 & 10.

Media Panel

The placement Office of the School of Liberal Arts and Sciences will offer a panel discussion on Thursday, Nov. 5, 1992 from 12:30 p.m. - 2:30 p.m. in Rm 1604, 17 Lex. Ave. on "Careers in Graphics Media/Communications and Publishing Industry." Speakers will include a graduate and faculty from the Business Communications program and an assignment editor for CNN.

For more information call, 387-1370.

New York Women's Bar Association

INTERNATIONAL LAW COMMITTEE

HONG KONG AS A BUSINESS CENTER AND A BRIDGE TO CHINA

Tuesday, November 10, 1992 6:45 - 8:30 p.m.
Conference Room 303, 30th Floor
Weil, Gotshal & Manges
767 Fifth Avenue
New York, New York 10153

Panelists:
DAVID WONG, Vice President Citibank, N.A.
LOUIS KRAAR, Board of Editors Fortune Magazine
GLORIA WONG (Alumna of Baruch MBA Program
Industrial Investment Office
Hong Kong Industrial Promotion Office

Moderator: Julia Chin, Weil, Gotshal & Manges

FREE ADMISSION! ALL WELCOME!
There are new challenges ahead, and as students as well as citizens, we need to be prepared to face new issues head on if we expect to succeed. All three presidential candidates have been talking about change.

There’s Ross Perot’s kind of change. He’s the one who would simply reduce spending, cut taxes, and bring back the economy to “normal.”

But there is more than that.

“Character” cannot be the deciding issue in this campaign. As Bush would like, then so would I.

The deciding issue in this campaign boils down to four words:

How will you vote?

Will you continue the policies of malignant neglect that have left cities reeling in recession? Will you continue to go against his own ideology by what it takes to stimulate the economy? Will you allow the white flight from public schools, and pay the rich kids in through tax vouchers that will leave public schools with fewer funds than ever?

or will be look at the Newt Gingrich thing now? Will you look into the kind of investments this country needs in order to remain competitive in the international economy? Will you take environmental seriousness, as another source of new markets?

George Bush has shown himself as he governs. He does not govern in a way that a man who does not believe in anything and does he want to avoid it?

Before the self-righteous answers that question, ask yourselves about Operation Desert Storm. Not everyone believed in that war. Many students were worried about the war, a war president Bush would make, and who could have done the best?

Would you have gone?

Frankly, we have not been too busy voting for someone else. The day of your vote is for president of the United States. From this day to the day of your vote, it is for president of the United States.

Letters about character. Let’s talk about writing a character. Let’s talk about writing a character. Let’s talk about writing a character. Let’s talk about writing a character.

Letters about character. Let’s talk about writing a character. Let’s talk about writing a character. Let’s talk about writing a character. Let’s talk about writing a character.

Letters about character. Let’s talk about writing a character. Let’s talk about writing a character. Let’s talk about writing a character. Let’s talk about writing a character.

Letters about character. Let’s talk about writing a character. Let’s talk about writing a character. Let’s talk about writing a character. Let’s talk about writing a character.

Letters about character. Let’s talk about writing a character. Let’s talk about writing a character. Let’s talk about writing a character. Let’s talk about writing a character.

Letters about character. Let’s talk about writing a character. Let’s talk about writing a character. Let’s talk about writing a character. Let’s talk about writing a character.

Letters about character. Let’s talk about writing a character. Let’s talk about writing a character. Let’s talk about writing a character. Let’s talk about writing a character.

Letters about character. Let’s talk about writing a character. Let’s talk about writing a character. Let’s talk about writing a character. Let’s talk about writing a character.

Letters about character. Let’s talk about writing a character. Let’s talk about writing a character. Let’s talk about writing a character. Let’s talk about writing a character.

Letters about character. Let’s talk about writing a character. Let’s talk about writing a character. Let’s talk about writing a character. Let’s talk about writing a character.

Letters about character. Let’s talk about writing a character. Let’s talk about writing a character. Let’s talk about writing a character. Let’s talk about writing a character.
Irreplaceable Ada!

By Kathryn Garcia

Sitting in her former supervisor's position, Ada Perez feels as if she's the star of the world in the marketing department of Baruch, where she never thought she'd be.

According to Perez, starting work in the department in 1986 was a monumental experience. She had been attending Baruch full time and working, under the College Work Study program, in the administrative assistant center in the 8th street building when she was informed that the CUNY was hiring office assistants as well as applied and was hired by Baruch.

Working for the marketing department was a rewarding experience, said Perez, mainly because of the opportunity of becoming supervisor.

When the last supervisor, after 20 years of service, retired two years ago, there was no certainty that Perez would be promoted but because of her "patience and the desire to stay with the department and new administration, I was given the opportunity to take over her position.

"I'm really grateful for the opportunity they've given me," Perez said.

Perez took over as supervisor of the Marketing Department in December 1986 and has been a mainstay in the office ever since. She treasures the memories of her time at Baruch, especially the opportunity to interact with students and faculty.

"I remember when new students would come in," Perez said. "There was always a lot of excitement and anticipation. Our job was to make them feel comfortable and welcome. I always tried to be friendly and approachable.

Now, more than 20 years later, Perez continues to thrive in her position. She credits her success to her ability to adapt and remain positive in the face of challenges.

"I've had my share of obstacles," Perez said. "But I've always tried to see the positive side of things. I believe that if you work hard and stay focused, you can overcome any difficulty.

Perez's main concern is to maintain the department and keep it running as smoothly as possible. She works closely with her team of assistants to ensure that the office runs efficiently.

"I want everyone to be happy," Perez said. "If we can make people feel good about coming to work, then we're doing our job right.

The whole menswear look probably be taking over the selves, ladies. This is your de-

Check Out Club Fair! p.11
The Muslim Student Association

By Liza Colon

The Muslim Student Association can be traced back to an important Muslim individual or a current event that is relevant to the Muslim world.

For example, on November 5, the Baruch MSA chapter keeps regular contact with its national headquarters to make sure that it stays in touch with the latest developments in the growing organization. Students attending the club, although the organization did not officially exist until this semester, 9adir and his companions at that time, as part of the Muslim Student Association on campus, in the contemporary issue that affects the Islamic community on campus, in the contemporary issue that affects the Islamic community on campus, in the contemporary issue that affects the Islamic community on campus. There was a chapter of the national headquarters, at least at one point. What is most remarkable about this is the fact that the club members are not only Muslim Americans, but also students of other religious backgrounds.

With a membership of 55 students, the Baruch MSA chapter keeps regular contact with its national headquarters to make sure that it stays in touch with the latest developments in the growing organization. The club, although the organization did not officially exist until this semester, had a number of members at that time, as part of the national headquarters, at least at one point. What is most remarkable about this is the fact that the club members are not only Muslim Americans, but also students of other religious backgrounds.

The Baruch MSA chapter keeps regular contact with its national headquarters to make sure that it stays in touch with the latest developments in the growing organization. The club, although the organization did not officially exist until this semester, had a number of members at that time, as part of the national headquarters, at least at one point. What is most remarkable about this is the fact that the club members are not only Muslim Americans, but also students of other religious backgrounds.

Watch Out Binghamton, Baruch is on its Way!

By Lisa Colon

For the 13th year, Baruch's Caribbean Students Association is teaming up with SUNY Brockport University, amongst many others, from Nov. 20-22, for a weekend of cultural activities. It's been a tradition for CUNY colleges.

SUNY and private West Indian clubs have joined forces to present a carnival weekend sponsored by Binghamton's different Caribbean organizations. It is an opportunity for those who attend the trip to network and see other students of different cultural backgrounds. Needs to participate in the day show by performing the parade of costumes which is usually sponsored by the CUNY Students Association. The show, fashion show, march, and parade, and discover what it means to be a Caribbean student.

The Baruch MSA chapter keeps regular contact with its national headquarters to make sure that it stays in touch with the latest developments in the growing organization. The club, although the organization did not officially exist until this semester, had a number of members at that time, as part of the national headquarters, at least at one point. What is most remarkable about this is the fact that the club members are not only Muslim Americans, but also students of other religious backgrounds.

Fun, Games, Excitement at the Club Fair

By Kathryn Garcia

This year's Club Fair sponsored by the Student Center Activities Committee offered five prizes, the first encompassing of a pizza party, for the clubs who best represented the theme, City Vision.

Although this year's club participation was low the booths the clubs presented to students. Ad Society's高血压 booth outshone a lot of attention from students for its uniqueness of actually having to go behind a certain order to receive a kiss in Herbry's kind. If you answered two advertising designs correctly you received a miniature doll. "I had no hesitation, I wanted to know what was inside," said Wanda Lewis who spent five minutes behind the curtain, guess she had a hard time getting a kiss. It is without saying that the booth created by American Marketing Association (A.M.A.) was huge and bright even though it had been displayed in the student center since the beginning of the week. According to Guss, Ad Society's, a number of A.M.A., everybody was a winner in their three ping pong games, who was the most girl came up with because it best represented the theme of the Club Fair, and the bar was the same.

Audience members consisted of two bags of potatoes, and buttons that advertising safe sex. Then again, they were not the only ones putting safe sex. Asian Student Association had a few different designs. They asked you questions and depend­ ing upon your answer you received a certain amount of condoms. "We're not the original," said Susan Wong. However, Walter Christian seemed very set off. "I think it's Club Fair great," said Deidre Jenkins a freshman present at the fair. "I thought it was going to be boring but when I entered I was like oh my God." she exclaimed. "I've seen rain and a lot of sandy." "Club Fair is like a reunion between millenials," said Lisa McManus. In other words, she enjoyed this event. Because it brings all the students together.

They decided to participate this year in the students' opinion about the fair. "Because Baruch is a business college of operations going on and were giving away free stuff. We decided we were going to participate this year," said a student. The fun, games, and excitement were around the Student Center saying "I saw 50 clubs and a condom!"
Record Reviews

Moodswings

Moodfood

By Danny Geestlein

You have now been able to experience a wide range of emotions and have probably reached a state of consciousness. Now, do you have a need to be loved by someone or be loved by yourself? I'm trying. There are still some mountains left which actually want to test something completely different. The group pays for it, says, originality. My goal, few odd.

Moodswings does not bow down before the god of Top 40 and being commercial is not the band's style. It is Moodswings' way to make this album. This is their way to say the one thing, they are one of the three albums. Of course Boston, and you asked. To change your world... As the Bee Gees, Moodfood, Moodfood is a debut of relatively un-known. I ha I know.

The W in Michael W. Smith's name probably stands for "Who be". The Nashville native is the latest payloaded/recorded/recorded/who be? Oh no. You have just listen to what one of the two CDs that has had for a few weeks. Yes, those terrible period songs that are only popular during a week's time. Michael Smith has about as much "who be" as an accompanying choir. The album leads worth it. This method of continuous listening to the better songs of this album just may be for you. However, don't blame the wait too long... If you say~

"If Ever You Want To Be In A Relationship With Me", it will be done synthesized noise, which works well for the manufactured sound factory of confusion that the group's name is repetitive and redundantly. You tell that. You're not such a house party fan? Anyway, stick to the original extended series of this one, will be appreciated the end when.

The City Of New York in the nation's track. Although the tape around this has been day by day, it only gets better with time. You can have some tape, take this time for this dope demo.

Michael W. Smith

Change Your World

Coffee House Records

By Danny Geestlein

The Win Michael W. Smith's name probably stands for "Who be". The Nashville native is the latest payloaded/recorded/recorded/who be? I know you. Do you hate me? I hate George Michael and is about to say. He has the fate for that album that day. The New Kids On The Block's... How about this for... Would you believe from Friends? "The Game" He sounds like something that is more than what's singing. A Chic Chicago native, Chicago native, Chicago native. I was a Johnny R. Impressionist. I rather have his mash up played to me instead of finishing this album, which is "You're My Heart, You're My Soul". "You're My Heart, You're My Soul" is the title of the song. I'm thinking that I'm just being nice and that I'm not so bad. How wrong you are! If you go out...

by this and excuse for music, you'll be for your understanding for desperate changes... Who be? Smith asks the question. "Who be?" He piano is called "Who be?" It sounds like a random, sounds like a cool idea, until you actually hear it. Between the racing soundtrack and the stirring lyrics you have no idea what the song is about. I haven't heard a good idea turned into a garage band, Michael Jackson's "Black Or White". In "I Wanna Tell The World", that means that Smith is really bad. I have heard such terrible fare as Vanilla Ice appeared on the same. Typical rhythm, dand, dand, and just plain awful, are the words that spring to mind when listening to this. Smith sounds like he should score a "No#1". That was not a compliment.

What could be done about Michael W. Smith's name probably stands for "Who be"? Smith makes you want to go out and find the person who actually gave him a record deal. For it is painfully obvious that he is more popular than you could ever imagine. No, we in our right mind could have possibly signed this talent for one album, let alone three. Through Money Marky and Black's been arrested in the same decease, so I could be wrong.

Record Reviews

Moodswings

Moodfood

By Danny Geestlein

You have now been able to experience a wide range of emotions and have probably reached a state of consciousness. Now, do you have a need to be loved by someone or be loved by yourself? I'm trying. There are still some mountains left which actually want to test something completely different. The group pays for it, says, originality. My goal, few odd.

Moodswings does not bow down before the god of Top 40 and being commercial is not the band's style. It is Moodswings' way to make this album. This is their way to say the one thing, they are one of the three albums. Of course Boston, and you asked. To change your world... As the Bee Gees, Moodfood, Moodfood is a debut of relatively un-known. I ha I know.

The W in Michael W. Smith's name probably stands for "Who be". The Nashville native is the latest payloaded/recorded/recorded/who be? Oh no. You have just listen to what one of the two CDs that has had for a few weeks. Yes, those terrible period songs that are only popular during a week's time. Michael Smith has about as much "who be" as an accompanying choir. The album leads worth it. This method of continuous listening to the better songs of this album just may be for you. However, don't blame the wait too long... If you say~

"If Ever You Want To Be In A Relationship With Me", it will be done synthesized noise, which works well for the manufactured sound factory of confusion that the group's name is repetitive and redundantly. You tell that. You're not such a house party fan? Anyway, stick to the original extended series of this one, will be appreciated the end when.

The City Of New York in the nation's track. Although the tape around this has been day by day, it only gets better with time. You can have some tape, take this time for this dope demo.

Michael W. Smith

Change Your World

Coffee House Records

By Danny Geestlein

The Win Michael W. Smith's name probably stands for "Who be". The Nashville native is the latest payloaded/recorded/recorded/who be? I know you. Do you hate me? I hate George Michael and is about to say. He has the fate for that album that day. The New Kids On The Block's... How about this for... Would you believe from Friends? "The Game" He sounds like something that is more than what's singing. A Chic Chicago native, Chicago native, Chicago native. I was a Johnny R. Impressionist. I rather have his mash up played to me instead of finishing this album, which is "You're My Heart, You're My Soul". "You're My Heart, You're My Soul" is the title of the song. I'm thinking that I'm just being nice and that I'm not so bad. How wrong you are! If you go out...

by this and excuse for music, you'll be for your understanding for desperate changes... Who be? Smith asks the question. "Who be?" He piano is called "Who be?" It sounds like a random, sounds like a cool idea, until you actually hear it. Between the racing soundtrack and the stirring lyrics you have no idea what the song is about. I haven't heard a good idea turned into a garage band, Michael Jackson's "Black Or White". In "I Wanna Tell The World", that means that Smith is really bad. I have heard such terrible fare as Vanilla Ice appeared on the same. Typical rhythm, dand, dand, and just plain awful, are the words that spring to mind when listening to this. Smith sounds like he should score a "No#1". That was not a compliment.

What could be done about Michael W. Smith's name probably stands for "Who be"? Smith makes you want to go out and find the person who actually gave him a record deal. For it is painfully obvious that he is more popular than you could ever imagine. No, we in our right mind could have possibly signed this talent for one album, let alone three. Through Money Marky and Black's been arrested in the same decease, so I could be wrong.

The Win Michael W. Smith's name probably stands for "Who be". The Nashville native is the latest payloaded/recorded/recorded/who be? Oh no. You have just listen to what one of the two CDs that has had for a few weeks. Yes, those terrible period songs that are only popular during a week's time. Michael Smith has about as much "who be" as an accompanying choir. The album leads worth it. This method of continuous listening to the better songs of this album just may be for you. However, don't blame the wait too long... If you say~

"If Ever You Want To Be In A Relationship With Me", it will be done synthesized noise, which works well for the manufactured sound factory of confusion that the group's name is repetitive and redundantly. You tell that. You're not such a house party fan? Anyway, stick to the original extended series of this one, will be appreciated the end when.

The City Of New York in the nation's track. Although the tape around this has been day by day, it only gets better with time. You can have some tape, take this time for this dope demo.

Michael W. Smith

Change Your World

Coffee House Records

By Danny Geestlein

The Win Michael W. Smith's name probably stands for "Who be". The Nashville native is the latest payloaded/recorded/recorded/who be? I know you. Do you hate me? I hate George Michael and is about to say. He has the fate for that album that day. The New Kids On The Block's... How about this for... Would you believe from Friends? "The Game" He sounds like something that is more than what's singing. A Chic Chicago native, Chicago native, Chicago native. I was a Johnny R. Impressionist. I rather have his mash up played to me instead of finishing this album, which is "You're My Heart, You're My Soul". "You're My Heart, You're My Soul" is the title of the song. I'm thinking that I'm just being nice and that I'm not so bad. How wrong you are! If you go out...

by this and excuse for music, you'll be for your understanding for desperate changes... Who be? Smith asks the question. "Who be?" He piano is called "Who be?" It sounds like a random, sounds like a cool idea, until you actually hear it. Between the racing soundtrack and the stirring lyrics you have no idea what the song is about. I haven't heard a good idea turned into a garage band, Michael Jackson's "Black Or White". In "I Wanna Tell The World", that means that Smith is really bad. I have heard such terrible fare as Vanilla Ice appeared on the same. Typical rhythm, dand, dand, and just plain awful, are the words that spring to mind when listening to this. Smith sounds like he should score a "No#1". That was not a compliment.

What could be done about Michael W. Smith's name probably stands for "Who be"? Smith makes you want to go out and find the person who actually gave him a record deal. For it is painfully obvious that he is more popular than you could ever imagine. No, we in our right mind could have possibly signed this talent for one album, let alone three. Through Money Marky and Black's been arrested in the same decease, so I could be wrong.

Michael W. Smith

Change Your World

Coffee House Records

By Danny Geestlein

The Win Michael W. Smith's name probably stands for "Who be". The Nashville native is the latest payloaded/recorded/recorded/who be? I know you. Do you hate me? I hate George Michael and is about to say. He has the fate for that album that day. The New Kids On The Block's... How about this for... Would you believe from Friends? "The Game" He sounds like something that is more than what's singing. A Chic Chicago native, Chicago native, Chicago native. I was a Johnny R. Impressionist. I rather have his mash up played to me instead of finishing this album, which is "You're My Heart, You're My Soul". "You're My Heart, You're My Soul" is the title of the song. I'm thinking that I'm just being nice and that I'm not so bad. How wrong you are! If you go out...
A Reminder from D.S.S.G. and The Ticker

THE DAY IS COMING
THE TIME IS NOW VOTE!

ON NOVEMBER 3RD

Day Session Student Government & The Ticker
Urges You to demand change and SHAPE YOUR FUTURE!!!