No News Is Scary News
Cults on Campus

Entering college, returning to graduate school, or starting a career can be a highly uncertain and vulnerable time for many students. At such times, some cults see this as an opportune time to recruit new members.

Alex, a 19-year-old student, was walking through Washington Square Park when he was approached by a group of people. He was approached by the College Association for Research Principles (CARP) and agreed to participate in an interview. Alex soon found himself under pressure to join the cult.

Alex was asked if he was interested in giving up his college career to join the cult. Alex recalled how difficult it was for him to make a decision. He felt that he had to choose between his studies and the cult.

At the end of the interview, Alex was encouraged to be more involved with the cult. Alex was asked if he was interested in giving up his college career to join the cult. Alex recalled how difficult it was for him to make a decision. He felt that he had to choose between his studies and the cult.

After the interview, Alex felt more pressure to join the cult. He was asked if he was interested in giving up his college career to join the cult. Alex recalled how difficult it was for him to make a decision. He felt that he had to choose between his studies and the cult.

Baruch Gets New Grant Officer

Michelle A. Brews

After a two-year delay, Baruch has hired Andrew J. Grant as the Director for the Office of Grants and Contracts. He is replacing now Assistant Director, Elissa Cowan, who has been serving as临时 director of the Office of Grants and Contracts. Grant passed and said, "Many things may have changed, but my commitment to the college remains unchanged."

Andrew J. Grant, new Director of Grants and Contracts

Grant is leaving Teachers College, where he has been since January of this year. He was recruited at a rock bottom. After several months, he was appointed by the Board of Education in 1974. In 1976, he joined the faculty of Teachers College at Columbia University. He will assume his new position immediately.

Grant is leaving Teachers College, where he has been since January of this year. He was recruited at a rock bottom. After several months, he was appointed by the Board of Education in 1974. In 1976, he joined the faculty of Teachers College at Columbia University. He will assume his new position immediately.

Grant is leaving Teachers College, where he has been since January of this year. He was recruited at a rock bottom. After several months, he was appointed by the Board of Education in 1974. In 1976, he joined the faculty of Teachers College at Columbia University. He will assume his new position immediately.

Grant is leaving Teachers College, where he has been since January of this year. He was recruited at a rock bottom. After several months, he was appointed by the Board of Education in 1974. In 1976, he joined the faculty of Teachers College at Columbia University. He will assume his new position immediately.
WRITE FOR NEWS CALL FARAH AT 212-387-1782

Ticker Takes

Continued from page 5

Playboy magazine announces the ninth annual Playboy College Fiction contest. Entries deadline is January 1st, 1994. The annual writing contest is open to all registered undergraduate and graduate college students. The contest is sponsored by the magazine in association with the New York State Senate and the National Society of Hispanic MBAs (NSHMB). The winner of the contest will be awarded $10,000, a year's supply of Playboy magazine, and a trip to New York City for the National Association of Hispanic MBA's annual conference in May 1994. To enter, send your submission to: Playboy College Fiction Contest, 900 North Lake Shore Drive, Chicago, IL 60611. Deadline for submissions is January 1st, 1994.

New York Assembly Internships

Washington, DC—Congressman's offices are now accepting applications for Legislative Fellowship Program. Interns will be provided with opportunities to participate in the legislative process, including the development of legislation, policy research, and the provision of assistance to members of Congress. Applications deadline is January 15, 1994. For more information contact Emily Trojan, 202-225-3541.

National Assembly Internships

New York State Senate Assembly Internships Program—1994—Internship opportunities are open to all undergraduate and graduate students. Interns will be provided with opportunities to participate in the legislative process, including the development of legislation, policy research, and the provision of assistance to members of the New York State Senate. Applications deadline is February 1, 1994. For more information contact Kathleen Burns, 212-782-2969.

GREEKS & CLUBS

RAISE UP TO $1,000 IN JUST ONE WEEK! For your fraternity, sorority or club, Plus $1,000 for yourself! And A FREE T-SHIRT just for calling. 1-800-932-0528, ext. 75.

Spring Break 94

Earn Cash, FREE Trips, and Year Round Travel discounts, through the East Coasts leader of Ski and Spring Break Destinations. Call EPICUREAN TOURS Today! (516) 379-494.

Ticker Takes

Continued from page 4

Collecting Information on trends and current events abroad isn't just a job for a secret agent. If you're planning to attend college, or are currently a full-time or graduate student, you could be eligible for a CIA internship and tuition assistance. You don't have to be an aspiring ... world's best specialist or Kriemhild. We need knowledgeable, dedicated men and women from a variety of backgrounds and fields.

Leading engineers, computer specialists, economists, foreign area specialists, journalists, and political scientists are just a few of the professionals you'll get hands-on experience with on a CIA internship.

Join one of the country's largest information networks—because an experience like this doesn't only happen in the movies.

For more information about CIA internships and current opportunities contact the CIA Placement Office, c/o CIA Placement Office, 202-694-6100, ext. 4400, or write to: CIA Placement Office, P.O. Box 822, National Highway, Quantico, VA 22135.
EDITORIALS
Keep on Walkin', They Ain't Talkin'

The primary purpose of The Ticker is to inform the student population of Baruch College about events and issues relevant to their education. We pride ourselves on our robust news coverage. Unfortunately, it seems that a cloud of silence has appeared above Baruch. A news blackout of unprecedented proportions was caused by (get this) Columbus Day. It seems most of Baruch's administrators and professors were terribly backed up because of our day off. If The Ticker tried to use an excuse like that for missing our deadline, we'd be laughed at all the way to 18th Street.

"Ah," you may think. "But you're supposed to get around all of the zipped lips and get a story anyway." That's true, but we try and provide you with the facts straight from the horse's (administrator's) mouth. We don't want to fabricate anything, and we don't want to give you a story full of speculation. So while we may look dry for news today, we would rather wait until something spectacular happens (and it will), and then dazzle you with it.

Our front page states, no news is indeed scary news. Our Wise administrators are being so hush-hush, news means a storm's about to break and someone is going to get flooded. When it happens, we'll be right there. Our message to those of the tight lip variety is plain and simple. Enjoy the silence now. It may be your last opportunity.

Quote of the Fortnight

"...is witnessing that it is Adams, a black and basically pretend [sic] to be the voice for the Hispanic community and could make much of a despicably racist and vicious statement"

By David Ortiz

The comment, made by a cave leader (who should have known beforehand to tempered in the press), was this: "If it is insulting to the Hispanic community that one man can go to their community for support, but (not) when he is picketing a worksite?"

This is the exceptionally malodorous statement made by Eric Adams, head of the Grand Council of the Guardians, a black actors union; association by city comptroller candidate and Hudson Bart, he says he plans to attack Bob, at last, his people, to in-the-interest of maintaining diversity. Clearly, the intent here was to give white voters the benefits, in the hope a sufficient number of them would feel too guilty to vote against a black mayor.

So let me tell you my hunch is correct: if you are white, you need to vote for the Dinkins because a vote for white challenger Rudolph Giuliani would be another-darling, blacks should own Olds, black" and they know that one person is going to break: "B

Letters

We Aim to Please
To the Editor:
I enjoyed your editorial that appeared in The Ticker, September 22, 1993. I agreed with your opinion with respect to the fact that the t-shirt wearer is unable to truly articulate himself, so they have allowed a t-shirt to speak for them. However, I did not agree with the response of the grading for the 25-35 points. I think the article would have been more effective if the reader who received 25-35 points and they owned the shirts they needed to seek counseling immediately, and 25-35 points with no ownership had a significant awareness should say a prayer for the fellow human because they need that and a whole lot more.

Thank you for your time and attention.

Cecilia D. Marsh-Williams
Senior

The Ticker is published twice a week, by The Ticker editorial staff at 137 E. 22nd Street, New York, N.Y. 10010, Room 301F. All work except printing is done by Baruch under the supervision of graduate and student editors. All typed and signed contributions and letters are welcomed, and should be mailed to the above address. Our office is open during regular school hours. Any display advertising questions should be directed to the Advertising Manager or Managing Editor at (212) 387-1182.
Voice From Queens

New York, Baseball and Politics

By Carlos Lopez Jr.

The 1990's, when you were born, the New York team you rooted for, whether you were bleading orange or white, whether you were a Giants or a postapor at the Polo Grounds giving a final ballout over the bases or a Yank fan still identified by you who rest for now, only a whole's a different ball game.

The community of Queens Village during the early 1990's was predominately Dominican Known as Belair, Southwest Queens was a quiet and close-knit town of farmers who worked hard to teach their children the quality and value of life. In the early 90's, the change is evident in the demographics of Queens Village, which is now a community with a diverse mix of cultures.

New, a multicultural blue collar community filled with private clubs and shops, a street church on every other block, and a mix of languages that are used to speak, and adventure dollar cabs. Except for those who, once every three years, get to be inspired by the beauty of their loved ones, but are still identified by you who rest for now, the different ball game.

In the New York City, the presentation with the strongest and most diverse and most important of the original vision of a pluralistic society with a united people who live in harmony and, by the end, became a byproduct of separation and division based on class and must reject white supremacy.

Multicultural Cont.

The second most famous slogan on United States coins reads:

"Liberty and Justice for All."

But if we take a look at some of the kinds of white supremacy used to prevent them from realizing their dreams, it is clear that the dominant method of dealing with the problems that are inflicted on our people at this time.

Disintegration, because people who are active working man, the Yankees and the people. But, they are extremely shaky.

My position is if black people in America are feared, no one will want to be on your side. Those who are feared are those who stand for the struggle.

"This exhibition displays numerous features about the Baruch College. I have always been told that the changes that brown people went through were normalized", one student remarked.

A section of the "Winning the War", which is dedicated to Bernard M. Baruch, who was an commissioner and business, and "The Mayor has forgotten about us, and that the museum is closed after.

The assortment of photos included Mr. Baruch in a classroom and in several movement.

In addition, there were also a digitized section of the "War Cookbook", which incorporated a new "Meat Cookbook", a "Medal Cookbook", and a "Computer Cookbook." It will be available to the public in the exhibition due to the end of this quarter.
You've attended every class, done all your homework, even enough to slip through the cracks at registration, they're going to be accepted at Baruch than 2,000 units of blood are needed for patients in New York area hospital. These patients won't have a fighting chance for survival without this blood. Blood cannot be stored, nor can it be manufactured. It comes from people. People like you. You can help! Give us an hour of your time. In return you'll get a mini-physical, jacks, coffee, and cookies and the satisfaction of knowing that you have helped to save another person's life.

Are You In Junior Limbo?
By Gal Anderson

You've attended every class, done all your homework, even enough to slip through the cracks at registration, they're going to be accepted at Baruch than 2,000 units of blood are needed for patients in New York area hospital. These patients won't have a fighting chance for survival without this blood. Blood cannot be stored, nor can it be manufactured. It comes from people. People like you. You can help! Give us an hour of your time. In return you'll get a mini-physical, jacks, coffee, and cookies and the satisfaction of knowing that you have helped to save another person's life.

Modern Day Perils

With all the problems in the world, you don't need the U.S. Senate trying to blow up your country.

It's not just a grade. It's a blood type!

Give Blood.

Tuesday, November 23, 1993 (Thursday Schedule)
9:30am - 2:45pm
Student Activities Center
137 E. 22nd Street, 2nd Floor

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Blood Group</th>
<th>First Choice</th>
<th>Second Choice</th>
<th>Third Choice</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>A+</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>A-</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>B+</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>B-</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>AB+</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>AB-</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>O+</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>O-</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Baruch College
Blood Drive

Tuesday, November 23, 1993
9:30am - 2:45pm

Name
Address
Phone

Appointment Times: every 15 minutes
First Choice: Second Choice: Third Choice:

return to:
Baruch College Student Activities Center, 530 03, 5th Ave.
Sponsored By: The Office Of Student Activities, Baruch College, CityBank
Corporate Sponsor: CityBank

Yates Brainchild

In the Neighborhood
By Sharon Lee & Mollie Hochstein

For this issue, here's the list of places that we promised you guys! Here's the list of the eateries were of help.

Odeon-23rd St. bet. 7th and 8th Ave.
Loews-Broadway at 19th St.
Oceana-25th St. bet. 8th and 9th Ave.
Cheesecake Factory-25th St. bet. 9th and 10th Ave.
Laura-Broadway at 9th St.
RISTAR PICTURES presents

"RUDY"

Rudy, the story of a typical small-town boy living in the Midwest. Rudy, graduated from high school with mediocre grades, worked in the town's steel mill, where all the other sons of the town also worked, and wanted to marry his childhood sweetheart. What makes Rudy so different is from his family, friends, and whole environment is that he has a dream to go to college. Not any college but Notre Dame College. Once there, he will do anything he can to be on the Notre Dame football team. Though not always realistic, Rudy is obsessed and unerringly persistent in his determination. With the entire world against him, he still drives for his unforgettable dream.

I have to say that this film is not what I expected. As soon as I walked in, I heard the production notes to the film. I thought the film was going to be another football film and I was not interested in it. However, my friend and I decided to give it a chance. Once we saw the film, we were both amazed by it. The film is about football, but it's not just about football. It's about the human spirit and how it can overcome any obstacle.

Rudy is played by Sean Astin, who was nominated for an Oscar for his performance. The film is directed by David Anspaugh, who has directed several other great films. The film is known for its inspiring plot and its ability to make you believe in yourself.

As a fan of football and movies, I highly recommend this film. It's a must-watch for anyone who loves a good underdog story. I give this film 5 stars.
Rock'n'Roll with a Latin Brogue

By Valerie Block

A loyal gang of fans waited patiently for the doors to open on Wednesday night, beers in hand, eager for the events to begin. Although the 9:00 PM show was marketed as “The Latin Night,” the audience was treated to a variety of musical styles that included rock, salsa, and jazz.

The evening began with a performance by the legendary Tito Puente’s Latin Jazz Ensemble, which has been entertaining audiences for over three decades. Puente’s ensemble is considered to be one of the most influential groups in the Latin music industry, and tonight was no exception. They opened their set with a high-energy display of Latin rhythms, setting the tone for what was to come.

The ensemble’s performance was a testament to the diversity of Latin music, featuring a mix of salsa, mambo, and jazz. The band members displayed remarkable skill and synchronization, with each instrument and voice contributing to the overall sound.

The lead vocalist was Tito Puente Jr., who was born into the renowned music family. His voice was powerful and resonant, adding depth and emotion to the music. Puente Jr. was joined by other vocalists, including his younger brother, Tito Puente III, who brought a fresh and energetic approach to the performance.

In between musical numbers, Tito Puente Jr. took the stage to entertain the audience with a personal performance. He was charming and charismatic, engaging the crowd with stories about his family and the history of Latin music. His interaction with the audience was a highlight of the evening, making the performance feel even more intimate and personal.

Overall, the evening with Tito Puente Jr. and the Latin Jazz Ensemble was a true celebration of Latin music. The audience was treated to an impressive display of talent, skill, and passion, all of which contributed to a memorable and enjoyable evening.
Goals, Spikes, Dunks- Narces Phonar Does It All

When it comes to sports in Baruch College, Narces Phonar, a twenty-two year old native of Haiti, is a jack of all trades. Along with being the co-captain of the soccer team, he is also a member of the men's basketball team and a starter for the men's volleyball team.

Phonar has gained popularity with both his peers and his coaches by being polite, soft spoken, and always quick with a joke. Despite his reputation, basketball coach Ray Rankis describes him as being, "...hardworking and sincere. He is a natural, very bright. You never have to tell him twice about doing something, and he is very effective in whatever he does. He is soft spoken, but don't let that fool you. He is very intense when it comes to the time to compete."

Phonar has been on both the soccer and volleyball teams for the past four years. He has also been voted Most Valuable Player for the past two years. After joining the basketball team a year ago, the school gave Phonar special recognition for actively participating in three sports. Soccer coach, Tony Harrington stated that, "He is very talented. He plays all positions and knows how to play all of them well."

Because Phonar has played soccer since he was young, he prefers it over the other two sports. So serious is he about soccer that he "checked out" the team before he came to Baruch. "Baruch had a pretty good team then," he said, "but they were never able to make it all the way. So I thought I was going to make the difference." Unfortunately, his dream of making it all the way have yet to come true.

After being upset in last year's CUNY tournament by Medgar Evers, this year's team is off to a slow start with a 3-6 record.

Sports may be important to Phonar, but he understands that it is not his first priority. "It is not the main objective," he said, "I am here for an education, and sports come second. Sports just helps to keep me busy." But he does complain about Baruch's lack of facilities. "It is very frustrating, especially for soccer because you can't practice. It's a big difference when you practice in the gym than on a field."

With a lack of facilities comes a lack of spectators. "All the games that we play are like away games." But he doesn't feel that he needs sports to make him well known. "I am a friendly person and get to know people very quickly. I am also warm and sensitive."

When Phonar is not in school or playing sports he stays busy working as a dispatcher for Grayline New York Tours. He is very grateful that his job offers a flexible schedule that makes this all possible.

Phonar, an international marketing major and plans to start his own business by age 29. "I get lots of ideas when I walk around my neighborhood (Flatbush)," he says, "car dealerships, clubs, and others."

But, I need money." He plans to concentrate on working in his field of study by next semester and start saving up money for his business. He is also certain that he will pursue a Master's degree after graduating from Baruch, and even consider going for a doctorate. Right now however, Phonar's biggest concern is graduating from Baruch by 1996.

Derrick Zhang

JORDAN AIRS OUT

On October 6, 1993, Michael Jeffrey Jordan held a press conference to announce his retirement from the NBA. After nine years of playing professional basketball, three successive NBA championships, and seven straight scoring titles, the world's most recognized athlete called for a time-out. Jordan handled his own press conference with grace and humor, all typical of the man who has dominated basketball for almost a decade.

Jordan cited a lack of motivation for his decision. He said, "I just feel that I don't have anything else to prove," and added, "The desire just wasn't there." Are these the only reasons for his departure from the sport? Was there more behind what he was saying?

Maybe Michael Jordan was on the brink of burnout which was brought on by his constant quest for privacy. How about the death of his father and the recurring questions about his gambling? Is he blaming himself for his father's death? There has been speculation linking the murder of James Jordan to Michael's gambling, but evidence has yet to be found.

Maybe Michael Jordan will stay away forever. Perhaps he will be one of the few athletes which leaves sports fans with perfect memories. People will always talk about the "Elvis of sports." Jordan is only thirty years young. He will get tired of playing golf 200 days out of the year, and then he will begin to hunger. Maybe he thought his gambling problems will go away if he went away. Only time will tell.

Many fans are quite disappointed by all this. An athlete of any caliber will encounter problems in his or her life. Does that mean they have to turn and walk away? There comes a time in everyone's life when you have to regroup and pick yourself up off the floor. That is what a champion is made of. In the way athletes can inspire others to move onto bigger and better things are truly remarkable.

That is why they are professionals. That's why they make huge salaries.

Did Michael Jordan throw away his God given talents? There are people who live their whole lives and never discover their talents. I believe Michael Jordan owes his fans, especially the kids on the basketball courts all over the world.

Look at Lawrence Taylor for example. Last year he acquired his Achilles tendon and was contemplating retirement. But did he retire? No. He is making a comeback, playing with pain for the N.Y. Giants. That is why he is the best linebacker ever to play the game of football.

Can Jordan stay away? He might sit out this season and watch the Knicks take it all the way. Then after a year or two he might begin to believe that he is no longer the player he once was. He will get tired of listening to all the skeptics who believe that he is nothing more than a memory for Chicago. Then he will start to feel that hunger.

In 1996, the Knicks will have won a championship for New York City. Kenny Anderson and Derrick Coleman will have come very, very close to winning it all. Shaq will have established himself as a force to be reckoned with, and Larry Johnson will have Charlotte in a frenzy. That's when the kid from Wallace, N.C. will make his move and prove all the skeptics wrong again.

"The Fan"