The Undergraduate Student Government has proposed to restructure the student activity fees for all undergraduate students. USG's goal is to eliminate the differences between day and evening session student fees by charging them based on full-time or part-time status.

Although day session students will be happy to find out that they might be paying $4.15 less, evening session students may not be too happy with the idea of paying $30.00 more.

As of this semester, day full-time, day part-time, evening full-time and evening part-time students all pay different fees. Day full-time students pay twice as much as evening full-time students, $70.00 and $35.85 respectively. The fee for day part-time students is $40.85 and $23.85 for evening part-time students.

"I think we have to do it because now it's an undergraduate government, not day and evening so it makes a lot of sense to have a fee structure for both," USG President, 2000 top doctoral students in the nation.

"Are they crazy?" asked Valerie Muravitsky, an evening session junior, after being informed of evening fee has dramatically risen," said Upper Session students. Aylman encourages students to look at the positive aspects of the restructuring plan. "We're going to have more money to play with here," said Aylman. "We're going to generate an extra $200,000 in totality across the board, which potentially means more programming and opportunities for people to get involved in."

Evening session students who believe that evening students have the chance to vote affirmatively to approve the referendum down in the upcoming elections. Day session students will have the chance to vote affirmatively to save themselves some money.

According to Aylman, in fall 1998, full-time day students numbered 4,666, part-time day was 1,531, full-time evening was 1,405 and part-time evening was 2,849. In spring 1999, 1,859 day and evening students voted the newly formed USG into office. An earlier referendum passed that semester had united DSSG and ESSA. As a result, the voting data was not broken down further into day and evening voters.

"That government was dying a slow death," said Garibaldi. "It was going to have more money to play with here," said Aylman. "We're going to generate an extra $200,000 in totality across the board, which potentially means more programming and opportunities for people to get involved in."

Evening session students who believe that evening students have the chance to vote affirmatively to save themselves some money. According to Aylman, in fall 1998, full-time day students numbered 4,666, part-time day was 1,531, full-time evening was 1,405 and part-time evening was 2,849. In spring 1999, 1,859 day and evening students voted the newly formed USG into office. An earlier referendum passed that semester had united DSSG and ESSA. As a result, the voting data was not broken down further into day and evening voters.

"That government was dying a slow death," said Garibaldi. "It was going to have more money to play with here," said Aylman. "We're going to generate an extra $200,000 in totality across the board, which potentially means more programming and opportunities for people to get involved in."

Evening session students who believe that evening students have the chance to vote affirmatively to save themselves some money. According to Aylman, in fall 1998, full-time day students numbered 4,666, part-time day was 1,531, full-time evening was 1,405 and part-time evening was 2,849. In spring 1999, 1,859 day and evening students voted the newly formed USG into office. An earlier referendum passed that semester had united DSSG and ESSA. As a result, the voting data was not broken down further into day and evening voters.

"That government was dying a slow death," said Garibaldi. "It was going to have more money to play with here," said Aylman. "We're going to generate an extra $200,000 in totality across the board, which potentially means more programming and opportunities for people to get involved in."

Evening session students who believe that evening students have the chance to vote affirmatively to save themselves some money. According to Aylman, in fall 1998, full-time day students numbered 4,666, part-time day was 1,531, full-time evening was 1,405 and part-time evening was 2,849. In spring 1999, 1,859 day and evening students voted the newly formed USG into office. An earlier referendum passed that semester had united DSSG and ESSA. As a result, the voting data was not broken down further into day and evening voters.

"That government was dying a slow death," said Garibaldi. "It was going to have more money to play with here," said Aylman. "We're going to generate an extra $200,000 in totality across the board, which potentially means more programming and opportunities for people to get involved in."

Evening session students who believe that evening students have the chance to vote affirmatively to save themselves some money. According to Aylman, in fall 1998, full-time day students numbered 4,666, part-time day was 1,531, full-time evening was 1,405 and part-time evening was 2,849. In spring 1999, 1,859 day and evening students voted the newly formed USG into office. An earlier referendum passed that semester had united DSSG and ESSA. As a result, the voting data was not broken down further into day and evening voters.

"That government was dying a slow death," said Garibaldi. "It was going to have more money to play with here," said Aylman. "We're going to generate an extra $200,000 in totality across the board, which potentially means more programming and opportunities for people to get involved in."

Evening session students who believe that evening students have the chance to vote affirmatively to save themselves some money. According to Aylman, in fall 1998, full-time day students numbered 4,666, part-time day was 1,531, full-time evening was 1,405 and part-time evening was 2,849. In spring 1999, 1,859 day and evening students voted the newly formed USG into office. An earlier referendum passed that semester had united DSSG and ESSA. As a result, the voting data was not broken down further into day and evening voters.

"That government was dying a slow death," said Garibaldi. "It was going to have more money to play with here," said Aylman. "We're going to generate an extra $200,000 in totality across the board, which potentially means more programming and opportunities for people to get involved in."

Evening session students who believe that evening students have the chance to vote affirmatively to save themselves some money. According to Aylman, in fall 1998, full-time day students numbered 4,666, part-time day was 1,531, full-time evening was 1,405 and part-time evening was 2,849. In spring 1999, 1,859 day and evening students voted the newly formed USG into office. An earlier referendum passed that semester had united DSSG and ESSA. As a result, the voting data was not broken down further into day and evening voters.

"That government was dying a slow death," said Garibaldi. "It was going to have more money to play with here," said Aylman. "We're going to generate an extra $200,000 in totality across the board, which potentially means more programming and opportunities for people to get involved in."

Evening session students who believe that evening students have the chance to vote affirmatively to save themselves some money. According to Aylman, in fall 1998, full-time day students numbered 4,666, part-time day was 1,531, full-time evening was 1,405 and part-time evening was 2,849. In spring 1999, 1,859 day and evening students voted the newly formed USG into office. An earlier referendum passed that semester had united DSSG and ESSA. As a result, the voting data was not broken down further into day and evening voters.

"That government was dying a slow death," said Garibaldi. "It was going to have more money to play with here," said Aylman. "We're going to generate an extra $200,000 in totality across the board, which potentially means more programming and opportunities for people to get involved in."

Evening session students who believe that evening students have the chance to vote affirmatively to save themselves some money. According to Aylman, in fall 1998, full-time day students numbered 4,666, part-time day was 1,531, full-time evening was 1,405 and part-time evening was 2,849. In spring 1999, 1,859 day and evening students voted the newly formed USG into office. An earlier referendum passed that semester had united DSSG and ESSA. As a result, the voting data was not broken down further into day and evening voters.

"That government was dying a slow death," said Garibaldi. "It was going to have more money to play with here," said Aylman. "We're going to generate an extra $200,000 in totality across the board, which potentially means more programming and opportunities for people to get involved in."

Evening session students who believe that evening students have the chance to vote affirmatively to save themselves some money. According to Aylman, in fall 1998, full-time day students numbered 4,666, part-time day was 1,531, full-time evening was 1,405 and part-time evening was 2,849. In spring 1999, 1,859 day and evening students voted the newly formed USG into office. An earlier referendum passed that semester had united DSSG and ESSA. As a result, the voting data was not broken down further into day and evening voters.
Baruch College
Student Government Elections

Spring 2000
UNDERGRADUATE & GRADUATE
Campaign Dates & Deadlines

February 15
Declaration of Candidacy Forms and Election Guidelines Available.

February 25
Referendum Petition Review Deadline.

February 28
Acceptance of Declaration of Candidacy and Nominating Petitions Begins.

March 9
Final Deadline for Submission of Referendum Petitions & Declaration of Candidacy & Nominating Petitions.

April 10-13
ELECTIONS.

Election Guidelines and Declaration of Candidacy Forms Available at:

Baruch College
Student Development & Counseling
Suit 1512 / 360 Park Avenue South
212-802-6770

©2000 / cas grafy
The Silent Voice

The voice of the student is slowly getting silenced. In a small move that seems insignificant, The Ticker has lost valuable time to present to their fellow students, the news they deserve to know.

One of our editors arrived on a Sunday to begin production on the Ticker. A security guard informed our editor that access to the 26th floor building will be denied to everyone between the hours of 6 p.m. on Saturdays to 6:30 a.m. on Mondays. Apparently, the order came directly from VP Dan Creange.

A memo from Creange that this act was done because of a leasing agreement with Cushman Wakefield. They are cutting back on their budget, so they don’t want more security or news media that they don’t need. All "unnecessary" hours have been cut.

What does this mean? Well, besides teachers not being able to get an extra day to work on lesson plans or correcting tests, The Ticker is delayed. Without editing, a layout, and various other editorial duties, The Ticker cannot come out every week, and new news becomes old news rather quickly.

We have been told to work around this problem, but that becomes harder when you have students busy with a full-time schedule all week, and who need to use the weekends to get their work done. A paper cannot be made to look good on six hours of work. In a rush, valuable information, the paper looks shoddy, and it comes out late. Also, since security guards will not let us stay past midnight on weekdays, the paper comes out even later.

This problem causes people to look past our paper on the Thursday or Friday it comes out, because the news doesn’t matter anymore. We lose ad revenue, because we’re supposed to come out on a Wednesday, and Friday it comes out, because the news doesn’t matter anymore. We lose our readership, because people refuse to buy an ad that is late or out of order.

This problem causes people to look past our paper on Thursday or Friday it comes out, because the news doesn’t matter anymore. We lose ad revenue, because we’re supposed to come out on Wednesday, and Friday it comes out, because the news doesn’t matter anymore. We lose our readership, because people refuse to buy an ad that is late or out of order.

The Ticker is a vital part of the school community. For so many years, we have pushed for change and caused change in our school. Now we are being relegated to the sidelines. Sunday’s school classes at 17 Lex. and the library are important, but why does your voice have to mean so little. Your complaints will go unheard. Your questions will be unanswered. If this keeps up and more costs need to be cut, we won’t have a time to print a newsletter, let alone an informative newspaper.

The only way we can get our voices back is by complaining and forcing change. The Ticker has been your voice before you came to the school, it has been your voice since you have been here, and it needs some help to be a timely voice for the future generation of Baruch students.
Coasting the Cyberwave of Party Planners

By Yeonsoo Song
Executive Editor

A new wave in business is trying to make it a triumph in cyberspace with an innovative new approach to organizing and promoting events. Several new companies are cutting out the middleman to make events more personalized and successful for the person organizing them. These companies offer a one-stop destination for planning a party or event with little effort, while allowing the person organizing it to control every step of the way. Businesses are free to use their tools to perform simple tasks, such as sending out invitations and keeping track of responses. By using one of these party planning sites, you can quickly organize a party or event without much effort.

The services provided by these companies make it easy to create a list of guests and send out personalized invitations, send out invites and view responses, and even track the number of hits on similar sites, but not all of these are free. The added time-saving services, such as sending out invitations via personal email, fax or RSVP, can cost from $19.99 to $39.99 per month, depending on the level of service you choose. Of course, not all online planners charge for their services. "Sixteen.com has launched a chain reaction of small events," said Josh Silverman, CEO of Evite.com, in a statement. Unlike the boom of new companies that have recently emerged, Evite.com, a privately held company, has been around since 1997, giving the company more credibility and stability.

The unique thing about Evite.com is its free services. The company is privately funded and has raised a total of $38 million, mostly in a second round of funding. When an invitation is sent out through Evite.com, the event becomes an invitation to their database of members. Evite.com has launched a chain reaction of small events, according to company representatives. "We're trying to attract as many people as possible to our site," said Silverman. Evite.com is the only company in the field to offer free access to its site. Other sites that specialize in certain areas, such as online event and party planning sites, offer by using its tools to perform simple tasks, such as sending out invitations and keeping track of responses. By using one of these party planning sites, you can quickly organize a party or event without much effort.

The site itself is easily navigable and offers you can pick your graphic from evite's collection or upload one from your own personal collection. The services provided by these companies make it easy to create a list of guests and send out personalized invitations, send out invites and view responses, and even track the number of hits on similar sites, but not all of these are free. The added time-saving services, such as sending out invitations via personal email, fax or RSVP, can cost from $19.99 to $39.99 per month, depending on the level of service you choose. Of course, not all online planners charge for their services. "Sixteen.com has launched a chain reaction of small events," said Josh Silverman, CEO of Evite.com, in a statement. Unlike the boom of new companies that have recently emerged, Evite.com, a privately held company, has been around since 1997, giving the company more credibility and stability.

The unique thing about Evite.com is its free services. The company is privately funded and has raised a total of $38 million, mostly in a second round of funding. When an invitation is sent out through Evite.com, the event becomes an invitation to their database of members. Evite.com has launched a chain reaction of small events, according to company representatives. "We're trying to attract as many people as possible to our site," said Silverman. Evite.com is the only company in the field to offer free access to its site. Other sites that specialize in certain areas, such as online event and party planning sites, offer by using its tools to perform simple tasks, such as sending out invitations and keeping track of responses. By using one of these party planning sites, you can quickly organize a party or event without much effort.
Statesmen Tied For First and Eye Playoffs!

By Kenyatta Pous
Sports Editor

On Monday, the Baruch men's basketball team celebrated senior night. Prior to the game against New York City Tech, the NYCT's Statesmen honored their senior guard, Trevor Brookins, sing the National Anthem. Brookins would also start in place of Oliver Verzosa who will be unable to play due to an ankle injury.

In the first half, the team had 13 assists and the half-time score was 48-22. Something the coaching staff did very effectively was the half-court trap. The trap was mainly used to stop the New York City Tech's guards and cut off their play. The Statesmen also got some points on just their own. The first half saw the Statesmen score 23 points on just three turnovers.

The team had three starters and three of them 17 in the second half. Yes, the team was successful, but this much turnovers is unacceptable as this late in the season. With or without starting guard Oliver Verzosa. Moreover, the bar of the turnovers came from two seniors and two veterans. Leonard Mitchell and Leo Pons. Last season, it was reported that the team's Achilles heel was turnovers and perhaps this is the realization to the those parents work hard all day and still have time for their kids. Amazing. You even hear the philosophy that if one group does it, then others do it. It's like the

The Baruch Statesmen crashing the boards after a shot. (Photo/Barchus Press)

Women's Softball Team Has New Coach

By Kenyatta Pous
Sports Editor

The women's softball team has a new coach. Penny Weiner. Weiner was the former women's basketball coach at Baruch.

There is a meeting on this Thursday at 4 PM for all those interested in playing women's softball. The meeting will be in the seventh floor office. Please do not vote him in. I think this country has too many rules, let's see it.

McMahon was quoted as saying that

It In.

If he ever runs for Congress. Please hear the philosophy that if one group does it, then others do it. It's like the tennis both of the newest team at Baruch!

Baruch Statesmen getting into their offense. (Photo/Barchus Press)

A Storm is Brewing: The WWF Invades New York

EDITOR'S SPEWAGE: In the 115-12 loss to Staten Island, the women's basketball team in now 5-14. The real major on the loss to Staten Island is that the Baruch Statesmen in the CUNY Championship. The team has a 25-15 record and is in first place in the north division with a 12-8 record. The Statesmen are 12-4 in the CUNY playoff. The Statesmen are 12-4 in the CUNY playoff. How many games do these teams play four games a week, and football players whine. "We need a week off in between games. Oh, I can't wait till we get that Brooklyn College. Both games are away. The Baruch Statesmen are in a very good position. What it will boil down to is what team wants their season. In the first half, the team had 13 assists and the half-time score was 48-22. Something the coaching staff did very effectively was the half-court trap. The trap was mainly used to stop the New York City Tech's guards and cut off their play. The Statesmen also got some points on just their own. The first half saw the Statesmen score 23 points on just three turnovers.

The team had three starters and three of them 17 in the second half. Yes, the team was successful, but this much turnovers is unacceptable as this late in the season. With or without starting guard Oliver Verzosa. Moreover, the bar of the turnovers came from two seniors and two veterans. Leonard Mitchell and Leo Pons. Last season, it was reported that the team's Achilles heel was turnovers and perhaps this is the realization to the Happy Lunar New Year! Yes, it is the year of the dragon, and that means Election. Do you have any plans to go find an Asian (not hard to do) and make a friend.

You were born in 1933, in a year that 1933 is no year to be used in the heat. Suge Knight's philosophies are real. They still are. I missed you, why can't you take me back. You, rap and music. They were real. They are. I started to learn about B.L.O. and learned a little about their lives and work. Through my view, society made some progress. Don't stop. You were just a product of their environment. I started to feel bad for them, and I still do.

I bought Taps' new CD, because I don't know where to get my ideas. Then I looked at the songs that the writers were wanting to write. DADY was trying to make his big break. DADY and B.O. were at the top. This is a year of fortune for you. Avoid gambling, and don't try to be Seems like nothing is sacred nowadays. Those who are afraid of being guilty of its sins, from Elvis to John Lennon. But our children's future is that the practice still goes on. There may be a time when you feel you have lived a down on long working hours. There may be other ways to achieve the good life.

Chinese New Year 1997, the year of the dragon, is especially true for those born in 1929, fortune is not Compatible. Think before you act, and learn to make decisions on impulse. Think before you act, and learn to make decisions on impulse.

RABBIT

Another year that the year of the dragon, and that means Election. Do you have any plans to go find an Asian (not hard to do) and make a friend.
THE BARUCH COLLEGE YEARBOOK NEEDS YOU!

If you are a Junior, Sophomore or Freshman, and you can write, draw, photograph or have computer graphic skills, join Lexicon 2000. Contact, Jose Olivera, Office of Student Life, 1512 / 360 Park Avenue South, 212.802.6775.

First Meeting will be on Thursday, February 17 @ 1:00 PM, 1539 / 360 Park Avenue South.

Lexicon The Baruch College Yearbook

WHAT ARE YOU DOING THIS WEEKEND?

"Do it all!"

$20 STUDENT TIX

Call TicketMaster 212-307-4100 and mention code BOMB1STUDENT or bring Student ID to 45 Bleecker (corner of 6th).
The World Wrestling Federation:

By Jon Minners

The World Wrestling Federation has taken over New York city. The action, the music, the thrill of watching your favorite stars wrestle for the top spot in the world, has turned the WWF restaurant into a place where you can see your favorite wrestlers.

The WWF restaurant was the perfect place to promote the event. Entering the restaurant, one has to be impressed by the setup. Entering through the large open doors, a huge billboard greeted the customers. The WWF logo was large, and the crowd was hyped up.

The restaurant was bustling with activity. People were clapping, cheering, and shouting. The atmosphere was electric. The walls were adorned with large posters of WWF stars, including The Rock, Hulk Hogan, and Stone Cold Steve Austin. The entire restaurant was decorated in WWF memorabilia, from posters to t-shirts.

The WWF restaurant was open from 11am to 11pm, and it was packed from the moment it opened. People were lined up outside, waiting to be seated. The restaurant was very busy, and the servers were kept very busy as well.

The menu at the WWF restaurant was a huge success. It included many different types of food, from classics like pizza and chicken wings to more exotic items like sushi and Asian cuisine. The food was delicious, and the portions were huge.

The atmosphere at the WWF restaurant was great. People were having a good time, and it was easy to see why. The restaurant was decorated in WWF memorabilia, and the music was loud and exciting. The crowd was huge; so huge that fans were turned away. It was a VIP-only event, and those lucky enough to attend were treated to a night of wrestling and entertainment.

The WWF restaurant was a success. It was one incredible night, capping off a tremendous week of restaurant action. It was a perfect way to start the new year. The WWF knows how to treat their customers, and they did not disappoint.

The Rock is wondering why you haven't bought his book yet. The Rock would also like to know why you haven't gotten off your candy ass to write for the Asylum. You have three seconds ••• and start to work. The Rock is not afraid to talk about the business. He demands several instances where he just stepped in, like when he turned his back on the Miami Heat. He is the one who took over his life. The Rock has prevented him from being stuck in a starting role. He talks candidly about the troubles he had on the Miami Heat, and how he turned his life around after he learned those lessons.

The Rock is saying that the WWF restaurant is the perfect place to promote the event. It looks as if the WWF could hold other concerts on their stage. How about that. Those detractors would have said that the WWF could only hold one ring concert on their center stage. How much better would it be to have several concerts in there and watching a live match while the food is served.

First New York, Then The World!

Vince McMahon, CEO of the WWF Restaurant here in Manhattan, on February 4. The major news of the day was the announcement of a brand new football league. The New Football League (NFL) broke the ice for the first time. The league was said to be more along the lines of old style football, which fans of the NFL had come to know and love. The league is said to be about the same size as the NFL, with teams from all over the country. It is a new league, and it is said to be about the same size as the NFL.

Vince McMahon said that the WWF has some food for that, as well. The WWF knows how to treat their customers, and they did not disappoint.

Sugar Ray performs live at the grand opening of the new WWF Restaurant.

By Jon Minners

Vince McMahon made sure his new business venture would shine. and WWF owner. There were several promotional events at the WWF restaurant since the opening was WWF Divas day. Fans had an opportunity to get the autographs of some of their favorite WWF female stars. But the restaurant in hopes of getting a glimpse of the restaurant didn't matter, as most of the WWF fans made an appearance, which also included a special performance from Sugar Ray. Sugar Ray was a success.

The Rock is saying that the WWF restaurant is the perfect place to promote the event. It looks as if the WWF could hold other concerts on their stage. How much better would it be to have several concerts in there and watching a live match while the food is served.

The Rock is saying that the WWF restaurant is the perfect place to promote the event. It looks as if the WWF could hold other concerts on their stage. How much better would it be to have several concerts in there and watching a live match while the food is served.

The Rock is saying that the WWF restaurant is the perfect place to promote the event. It looks as if the WWF could hold other concerts on their stage. How much better would it be to have several concerts in there and watching a live match while the food is served.

The Rock is saying that the WWF restaurant is the perfect place to promote the event. It looks as if the WWF could hold other concerts on their stage. How much better would it be to have several concerts in there and watching a live match while the food is served.

The Rock is saying that the WWF restaurant is the perfect place to promote the event. It looks as if the WWF could hold other concerts on their stage. How much better would it be to have several concerts in there and watching a live match while the food is served.
Fairy Tales Get A Whole New Look

And the Beat Goes On

I recently received the second installment of FlatIron Beat, and while I liked the first one, the second one immediately tops it in terms of incisiveness and overall persuasive action.

The theme continues from the previous issue to get its point across, and the result is a more powerful document that is definitely worth reading.

As a whole, the magazine has a clear focus on music, specifically the world of hip-hop and reggae. With articles on the latest releases, interviews with influential artists, and discussions on the cultural impact of music, FlatIron Beat delivers a well-rounded perspective on the music scene.

One of the strengths of the magazine is its ability to connect with its readers. Through personal anecdotes and heartfelt testimonials, the writers convey the passion and dedication that is required to succeed in the music industry. This not only adds a human element to the magazine but also provides valuable insights into the inner workings of the music world.

Overall, FlatIron Beat is a must-read for anyone interested in music, especially those who aspire to make a career in the industry. The magazine's well-researched articles, engaging interviews, and thought-provoking discussions make it a valuable resource for both aspiring musicians and music enthusiasts alike.
Love Lost

By Blackheart

Thinking of love

When love's been deep.

It's eventually lost.

She had any heart.

Until the day she would die.

And when death did occur.

I could not understand why.

We played with the demon.

It was only a game.

It wasn't until.

And things weren't the same.

She got too caught up.

Let the demons live.

It played by her mind.

And soon consumed her soul.

It was too much.

For her body to take.

She fell into slumber.

Never again would she wake.

How can you prepare.

To lose a love that is so dear.

To look around your world.

And see's no longer here.

Her death served its purpose.

The demon lost its grip on me.

I took one look at myself.

And saw what my future be could.

The future I saw.

Was a grim one for me.

I had to move on.

I had to break free.

I was able to get away.

I could get my life.

Get away from the misery.

Do away with the strife.

Love lost is a nice day ruined with rain.

It's a heart given love.

But still feeling pain.

ODE TO MY LOVE, MINNIE

By Karl D. Boweart

My love you ask, why do I love you?

Because you are sweeter than a summer\'s breeze.

Ripeoned to perfection.

Tender, soft,

Because you have the beauty of a classic kind.

Outer and inner,

Strength and character.

A positive role model.

For the 21st century.

Our time spent together.

Is like a summer day

Tranquil, Natural

My thoughts already on our next moments together.

My love for you is stronger than

Titanic anchor.

Not even the mighty sea can move me.

Our romance is on an iceberg.

Destination to all who ignore it.

You are the most pure thing in my life.

You are a throwback,

A classic kind

I see things in you that do not.

Matter to most nowadays.

Kindness,

Innocence,

My lovely princess is the world to me.

And everything in it.

Happy Valentine day

I love you with all my heart.

I am forever yours.

In love you will always see me.

My endless love for you can only be.

Everything that you are.

I will be there to embrace you.

My love for you is stronger than

The ocean's wave.

My love for you is stronger than

The ocean's wave.

My love for you is stronger than

Time and life,

My love for you is stronger than

The sun and the moon.

My love for you is stronger than

The sun and the moon.

My love for you is stronger than

The sun and the moon.
Give Blood.
Save a neighbor.

2000 Baruch College Blood Drive

Thurs., March 2, 2000
9:30 am – 3:00 pm
Room 1542
360 Park Avenue So.

To schedule an appointment
Clip the coupon below.

Name__________________________
Address________________________
Area Code + Phone (_____)________

Sponsored by:

New York Blood Center

CITIBANK©

Register online @ www.scsu.baruch.cuny.edu